BRIGHTEN YOUR KITCHEN

In colonial America when kitchens were kept separate from the homes of the landed gentry, the family rarely saw the rooms where the staff prepared their meals. Well, not only have kitchens moved inside since then, but in 1980, with the rising cost of eating out, chances are you're spending more time in your kitchen preparing meals than ever before. It's important, therefore, that your kitchen be functional and attractive.

Everyone has his or her individual taste when it comes to furnishings. However, whether your kitchen is Early-American or ultra-modern, the combination of attractive woods and bright colors will make it handsome and efficient.

Hardwood is a desirable material for both kitchen furnishings and utensils. Anything made of hardwood should last for years because hardwood has a tough surface and requires a minimal amount of maintenance.

A butcher block table, for instance, can be an interesting focal point as well as practical. It is constructed of widths of laminated hardwoods. Glue is spread on the surface of the individual pieces of lumber. These pieces are then turned on edge and clamped tightly together until the glue is cured. The entire block is then surfaced, sanded and finished, revealing the interesting grain patterns of the individual pieces used for the whole. This method creates an interesting visual effect. This table adds a warm, natural feeling to any style of kitchen.

Instead of chairs, consider wooden benches for seating. You can accommodate many more people that way.

Utensils such as bowls, dishes, spoons and cheeseboards can be found in hardwood and give a feeling of continuity to a kitchen with wood furnishings. Again, these products will stand up to much wear and last for years.

Using your imagination, and the combination of bright colors and attractive woods, your kitchen can be a room you'll always enjoy.

HAZEL . . .

Sunday July 6 was an eventful day in the life of St. Pauli's congregation when a large crowd assembled at the church to celebrate the 85th anniversary of the organization of St. Pauli congregation and the dedication of the newly enlarged and remodeled church.

The forenoon worship service with communion was conducted by Rev. Lloyd Heroff, pastor of St. Pauli church. During services the two new altar chairs given in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Lokken, their infant daughter and Sharon Lokken were dedicated as also was the Cross and Crown plaque in memory of Alma Mathson. These beautiful memorials were given by the Louie Lokken family and the family of Alma Mathson.

Lovely flowers decorating the church included altar flowers given in memory of their parents by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Odegaard and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Odegaard and an arrangement given by Calvary Lutheran church, our sister congregation in the St. Hilaire parish. Arrangements of flowers decorating the tables in the dining room were provided by members of St. Pauli Luther League. An anniversary dinner was served by women of the church.

Otto Wedul, a former member, who this year year celebrated the silver anniversary of his ordination into the ministry; Marie Olen who was the first member of St. Pauli congregation to serve as organist; Hildur Lian who is the only living member of the Pigeforening (young girls sewing society); Gertie Kvall Thune and Tillie Hestekind Borgie, the first women to teach Sunday school and members of Clearwater church who were confirmed at St. Pauli church. Letters from former members who were invited but unable to attend were on display.

A collection of church related pictures were displayed by Valarie Torstveit and were much appreciated and viewed with interest by those present at the celebration.

Special music for the morning worship service and the afternoon program was provided by the Sunday school children, a young women's quartette, the St. Pauli choir and Myrtle Weckwerth and her sister Evalin Wold of Centreville, VA. Zoo Feeding Time Presents Challenge

by Leila R. Mathur
Smithsonian News Service

Satisfying a pet dog or cat with a can of food is so easy that most pet owners never think twice about feeding time.

But Olaf Oftedal of the Smithsonian's National Zoological park faces the challenge of feeding time every day for the park's 2,400 animals. Because commercially prepared food isn't suitable for a wide range of exotic animals, Oftedal, as the zoo's animal nutritionist, must determine whether the tasty crickets eaten by the Madagascar Day Gecko lizards will cause bone problems or whether the worms munched on by the New Zealand kiwi birds contain enough vitamin A.

Like human nutrition, animal nutrition is drawing increased attention. At stake are the well-being and health of the animals. Some of them are endangered species, many of them are rare. For such animals, zoos may provide the last chance for survival.

Money is a factor as well. "The expense of purchasing and transporting animals has made zoos realize that improving animal health can save them a lot of money," Oftedal says. "If a baby bongo antelope — a rare species — died because of malnutrition, it would cost about $30,000 to buy a replacement from another zoo."

The consequences of neglecting dietary requirements are sometimes dramatic. Two years ago, five of six newly arrived rare brown pelicans at the National zoo died suddenly of a vitamin E deficiency. To prevent such disasters, Oftedal has been studying and revising the diets of the animals at the zoo for nearly two years.

A major problem facing the animals is that of adjusting to a new home. "Animals that have been relocated from another zoo or from their natural habitat sometimes won't eat for days," he says. "So we may have to feed them anything just to get them to eat. After that, we worry about a nutritionally balanced diet."

Even when a diet seems to be working, it may not provide everything that is needed. Take the case of the purple-faced Langur monkeys from Ceylon. These lanky, gray-haired monkeys with expressive faces eat high-fiber leaves in the wild and have adapted to this by developing large forestomachs where they ferment the leaves. They derive energy from the fermentation.

The monkeys survive on the lettuce and kale which the zoo feeds them—but the diet probably does not contain all the fiber they need. Commercially prepared biscuits also do not provide enough. The result can be severe gastrointestinal disturbances. To resolve the problem and to simplify the feeding requirements, Oftedal is developing a high-fiber monkey biscuit which, he says "may have an impact on many zoos in the country."

Oftedal will probably use a commercial fiber source, such as wheat bran or alfalfa, rather than the gas-producing fiber from cabbage and lettuce. "We'll test different products to see which the animals prefer and see which products are most digestible," he says. By analyzing the feces of the animals for fiber content, he will be able to determine how much fiber is being digested in the body.

"Many times it is difficult to tell if the animals are getting the correct nutritional balance," Oftedal says, "because, like humans, individual animals can have different needs. But unlike humans, an animal can't tell you if it feels well. And a marginal vitamin deficiency might escape detection initially."

Nervous disorders, loss of hair and eye problems are among the symptoms of nutritional deficiencies. The number and health of a zoo denizen's offspring and the health of the animal itself indicate that an animal is getting a well-balanced diet.

Still, it is often a process of trial and error for the zoo's curators and keepers. Before Oftedal came to the National zoo, the female Madagascar Day Gecko lizards developed rubbery bones. The zoo pathologist diagnosed a calcium deficiency — the calcium that the small (about 5 inches in length), bright green lizards needed for their own bodies was being used up in producing eggs.

The Geckos were fed a mixture of calcium and honey as a cure, but apparently the mixture was too concentrated because some lizards wound up with calcified stomachs. Efforts are under way to increase the calcium content of the insects used in feeding. The diets also are being supplemented by ultraviolet light treatments.

Oftedal's current challenge is to revise the diets for the zoo's 190 species of birds. Various experimental food pellets are being tested, and some food items are being analyzed for vitamin and mineral content. After comparing the different foods, he will choose the most suitable type of worm, insect or pellet for the bird's diet.

The tons of food needed for the zoo's animals are expensive, costing about a quarter of a million dollars annually. In a single year, the animals eat 110,000 pounds of fish, 150 tons of hay, 47,000 pounds of meat, 170,000 rats and mice, 1.1 million crickets and 53,000 eggs, plus tons of bananas, apples, oranges and grain.

Sometimes, though, the zoo gets lucky and saves a hefty expense. Last year, the zoo received 88,000 pounds of frozen meat free. The meat had been stolen from army bases and recovered and held in freezers for 3 years while court proceedings went on. The meat was damaged by freezer burn and was not fit for human consumption, but it was nutritionally suitable for animals.

Oftedal is the first highly trained, full-time animal nutritionist employed by a zoo in this country. He finds his job exciting, but "it's difficult because very little work has been done before me. I'm still scratching the surface of what can be accomplished."

The zoo is building a laboratory, which should be completed by next year, where Oftedal will be able to do more research and analyzing foods, feces and the milks of different animals. He now spends half his time doing research and half working on formulating and analyzing diets of the zoo's animals.

Originally educated as a human nutritionist, Oftedal carried out graduate studies at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; that took him to Pakistan to plan nutrition programs there. But he found that "dealing with human nutrition is dealing with politics," and he switched to studying animal nutrition at Cornell University.

"Since I've always been interested in exotic animals, I'm doing now professionally what I once did as a hobby."

"Original" Salad Dressing Quickly Made in Blender

A creamy seasoned dressing does a lot to pep up salad greens and raw or cooked vegetables. A blending of egg yolks, lemon juice, Parmesan cheese, garlic and oil, it gets its extra savoriness from a generous helping of original Worcestershire. See if your guests can guess what this "original" ingredient is.

CREAMY OCTAVIUS DRESSING

2 egg yolks
3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
2 tablespoons original Worcestershire sauce
3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
½ teaspoon salt
1 large garlic clove, crushed
1 cup salad oil

Place in blender container egg yolks, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, cheese, salt and garlic. Cover and blend at high speed for 5 seconds. With motor on, slowly add oil, pouring in a continuous stream, just until all oil is combined. Serve over salad greens, sliced vegetables, etc. YIELD: 1½ cups.

Decline Noted In Number Of Women Smokers

Today nationwide smoking rates for teenage girls and adult women are declining, says the Minnesota Lung association. But they are not declining as fast as smoking rates for boys and men.

Nationally, less than one-third of adult women smoke, says Mildred Deanovic, president, Minnesota Lung association. Among teenagers, only about one-eighth of girls smoke.

"The history of smoking among women is a fascinating and complicated story of shifting taboos and styles," says Deanovic. Smoking was virtually unknown among women before the beginning of the twentieth century.

For the first several decades, after the turn of the century, cigarette smoking for women was considered daring, racy, fast. In the twenties, flappers expressed their defiance of convention by smoking in public, and during the 1930's, movie actresses such as Greta Garbo and Marlene Dietrich projected glamorous images of women smokers.

Cigarette advertisers spent billions of dollars for TV ads during the 1950's and 1960's to attract women as well as men to smoking. In 1971, those ads were banned from the public airwaves, and tobacco companies stepped up their campaign to promote smoking as "young and beautiful" in splashy magazine and billboard ads.

"Women took up smoking at least 25 years after men, and the statistics of death and disability for women smokers are just now beginning to catch up to those for men smokers," says Deanovic. "Today smoking has become a equal opportunity tragedy. But rates for women and girls are now beginning to follow the declining smoking rates of men and boys.

"Quitting smoking can be an equal opportunity triumph," says Mrs. Deanovic. "That's what the lung association wants to help happen. Because it's a matter of life and breath."

BEN HUR RACE, featuring four ponies abreast ahead of two-wheeled chariots, was one of the features of the horse racing program at the Pennington county fair this year. Rained out of its regular scheduled position Saturday night, the racing program was conducted on a muddy track on Sunday afternoon. This was the first time for a number of years that horse racing has been held at the Pennington county fair and a good sized audience was on hand to appreciate the efforts of the horses, drivers and riders.

Jaycee Aquacade Opens This Week

The first two clues for the 36th annual Jaycee Aquacade were listed this morning by Don Grabanski, treasure hunt chairman.

The treasure hunt has been the traditional kick-off for the aquacade each year. This year two hunts will be conducted with treasures for $50 and $100 if the finder is wearing an Aquacade button. Interested persons are reminded that the treasure hunt requires no digging or destruction to property and the treasure can be seen with the naked eye.

The first two clues include: 1) Look for a series of numbers; and 2) remember that the treasure is on public property and that no digging or destruction is necessary. Further clues will be printed, as they arrive, in later editions of the Times.

Other Aquacade events scheduled for this week include the Aquacade parade scheduled for July 26 at 1 p.m. This is the first scheduled event of the nine-day celebration. Thief River Falls Jaycees invite all local and area organizations and individuals to participate in this year's Aquacade parade. Again this year, trophies will be awarded to the best parade units in various categories.

Anyone wishing to participate in the Aquacade parade or needing further information should write to the Thief River Falls Jaycees, Box 53 or phone parade chairman Tim Barrus at 681-4324 or 681-6051 or Lee Furseth at 681-1996.

The parade will be followed that evening by the Miss Thief River Falls scholarship pageant conducted in the Lincoln high school auditorium. Current Miss Thief River Falls Jane Olson will conclude her present reign that evening as she crowns her successor. Tickets for the pageant are available at Larson Music or Ekeren Drug for $2.75 advance or for $3 at the door. All seats are reserved.

Rain Dampened Fair Still Considered Great Success

Wet hair plastered against her forehead, out of breath from a mad dash through the rain from her car to the sports arena, the Pennington county fair-goer was none-the-less enthusiastic. "We should have had the fair six weeks earlier," she smiled between gasps. "That's when we needed the rain!"

Although rain did fall on the county fair this year and resulted in the movement of the horse racing program from Saturday night to Sunday afternoon and the Charly McClain show into the sports arena Sunday night, directors of the Pennington county fair association were pleased with the 1980 production.

"I think it was a pretty good fair in spite of the weather," stated Vern Lee, chairman of the fair board. "Entries were up in nearly every division, livestock entries were particularly good, grandstand crowds were quite good in view of area economic conditions, a lot of people commented on the quality of the exhibits and the carnival had its share of activity as well, surpassing last year's total.

"In fact," Lee added, "if we hadn't had the rain on Saturday night, I believe we would have had a record fair in every way. Premium payments of $6,250 were up about $750 from a year ago and are likely a record amount. Entries in hogs and sheep were main increases in the open class livestock area while most other division also showed growth."

Opening night talent and senior citizen program Thursday drew about 500 people, most of whom left early as light rain began to fall and became a steady drizzle as the last two acts of the talent show were held. Wendy Easton of Thief River Falls won first place with a tap dance while second place went to a minstrel group from Thief River Falls including Sandy Hoff, Lee Furuseth, Dale Lewis, Wayne Krueger, Dan Trontvet and Peter Lee.

Friday night the popular demolition derby attracted approximately 3,000 people to watch as 84 cars proceeded to demolish one another. Jeff Dahle of Middle River won the feature event among heat winners while Bruce Mattson of Thief River Falls won the grand slam for the approximately 30 cars which were able to enter one last event.

Saturday night's horse racing program was postponed shortly before race time as rain fell steadily. The racing was held Sunday afternoon and in spite of the delay some 750 people attended, according to fair officials. Competition was held for quarter horses and thoroughbreds in lengths from 100 yards to three-quarters of a mile as well as pony chariot, horse chariot and chuckwagon events. Race results will be published in Wednesday's edition of the Times along with a number of photos.

Sunday night's grandstand program, including the Buddy Young show and featuring country-western sensation Charly McClain, was attended by about 1,500 people. The crowd grew beyond that number when rain following the Buddy Young portion of the program interrupted the outdoor show and forced it inside the sports arena.

Collette Thune of Happy Acres 4-H club was crowned style revue queen at the Sunday afternoon style revue. First alternate was Julie Johnson of the Happy Acres club and second alternate was Nanci Kezar of the City View club.

Queen of Unit II of the style revue was Rona Broten of the Happy Acres 4-H club with Todd Carlson of Happy Acres first alternate attendant and Lana Wagner of Silverton as second alternate. Queen of Unit I was Jodi Fimrite of the City View club with Lisa Mackenroth of Happy Acres as first alternate and Twyla Svendsgaard of Mavie as second alternate.

There were 589 exhibits entered by 194 exhibitors in the 4-H club division at the fair and a total of $1,928.50 in premium money was paid out in the 4-H department.

Championship winners in the various 4-H club project areas and reserve champions in each include the following, with champions and reserve champions listed respectively:

Dr. Mirandilla Ends Medical Practice In RLF

Word was received officially July 14 that Dr. Rodolfo J. Mirandilla will be terminating his medical practice in Red Lake Falls effective July 31.

Dr. Mirandilla was recruited by the recruitment committee of the Red Lake county health planning council and signed a one year contract with the council and St. John's hospital corporation. His contract was to end on August 19, but he requested an early termination due to personal reasons. The health council and hospital corporation honored his request for the early termination. Plans are now underway for the recruitment of another physician. Several contacts have already been made and full efforts will again be placed on the recruitment of a third physician for the community.

Leo Ruberto Replaced By Doug Knowlton

Leo Ruberto, Ph.D., former director of the child evaluation and treatment program (CETP) at the medical center rehabilitation hospital at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, who has accepted a position as director of special education for the Thief River Falls public school district, will be replaced by Doug Knowlton, Ph.D., a psychologist at the UND hospital.

Knowlton joined the rehab hospital's psychology staff about a year ago, and in that time has worked primarily with children referred to the hospital for evaluation and treatment of physical problems and developmental disabilities.

A native of Sioux Falls, SD, he served an internship at Texas Children's hospital at Baylor college of medicine at Houston before graduating from UND in August of 1979 with a doctorate in clinical psychology with emphasis on children and families.

The rehabilitation hospital serves physically handicapped and disabled persons of all ages from throughout North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota.

Hearing Set On Amendment To Milk Orders

Public hearing will be held August 12 on proposals to amend class price announcement procedures in 29 federal milk marketing orders, including 10 in the Midwest, it was announced by officials of the U.S. department of agriculture.

Herbert L. Forest, dairy official with the agricultural marketing service, said the hearing will commence at 9:30 a.m. at the Holiday Inn, Clayton Plaza, 7730 Bonhomme, Clayton, Mo. The market orders that could be affected by the proposals are mainly in the midwest, south and southwest.

Dairy farmers, dairy cooperatives, milk handlers, consumer organizations, and private citizens may testify at the hearing, Forest said. Federal milk market orders set the minimum price paid to dairy farmers in order areas. The orders do not set the price consumers pay for milk at retail levels.

Proposals for amending the orders have been filed with AMS by the National Milk Producers federation, the Milk Industry foundation, Central Milk Producers cooperative, and Land O'Lakes, Inc. These proposals include announcing Class I and Class II prices for a particular month by the 15th of the preceding month, announcing the Class II price after the end of the month in which the price applies, and changing the announcement procedure for butterfat differentials.

Copies of the hearing proposal may be obtained from any of the market administrators for the 29 affected orders. The notice of hearing will be published in the July 15 Federal Register.

The 10 midwest milk orders proposed to be amended are: St. Louis-Ozarks, Chicago Regional, Southern Illinois, Indiana, Central Illinois, Greater Kansas City, Nebraska-Western Iowa, Upper Midwest, Eastern South Dakota and Iowa.

The 19 south and southwest milk orders affected include: Georgia, Tennessee Valley, Louisville-Lexington-Evansville, Neosho Valley, Wichita, New Orleans-Mississippi, Greater Louisiana, Memphis, Nashville, Paducah, Fort Smith, Red River Valley, Oklahoma Metropolitan, Central Arkansas, Lubbock-Plainview, Texas, Central Arizona, Texas Panhandle, and Rio Grande Valley.

Contract May Default If Crop Yield Low

Farmers in drought areas who contracted grain last spring may not have the grain to deliver at harvest due to low yields.

"Generally, sellers who can't deliver contracted grain are in default," says Will Anthony, extension marketing specialist at the University of Minnesota. A farmer in default will need to find grain elsewhere or pay the buyer a sum of money equal to the loss suffered by the seller's inability to deliver.

Anthony offers this advice for farmers who contracted grain for harvest delivery but face a short crop:

—Carefully compare the expected yield with quantity contracted to determine whether you may have a problem.

—Read the contract to see whether there are provisions for under-delivery. Some contracts have such provisions, others don't.

—Talk to the grain buyer to see how potential problems might be worked out. If you reach agreement, not it on the original contract.

—If your think grain prices are going to move substantially higher than the contract price, you can get price protection by buying futures contract in the commodity.

"Contracting grain to establish an adequate price ahead of delivery can be a good management practice," Anthony says. "Due to tight credit and high costs last spring, many farmers contracted grain for harvest delivery to cover some of their operating expenses."

The Viking school gym was well-filled on Friday evening to enjoy an evening of entertainment in the form of a talent night. Mylo Carlson, a farmer from Angus, proved to be an excellent emcee and even if there hadn't been any other acts of talent, he could have held the attention of the audience for some time with his humor and wit.

The evening program began with the audience lustily joining in singing America, directed by Steve Hjelle and accompanied by Ann Hanson at the piano. The first talent number was an original song written and sung by Marville and Virgil Hjelle portraying the appreciation for Viking. Unless you were there you wouldn't believe all the talent that was given from our town as well as from the surrounding area. There were about twenty acts which included many musical numbers such as piano duets and solos on the flute, violin, harmonica, Banjo and dulcimer. There were also several group musical numbers which provided enjoyable listening for all. Songs were sung by larger groups such as the "Son Shine Singers" and smaller groups or solos. Would you believe we even have our own Dolly Parton and Minnie Pearl? Entertaining skits were also given. Coffee and doughnuts were served following the evenings entertainment.

If you had sauntered out into the street in the early morning hours on Saturday you would have smelled that delicious pork that was being barbecued by a crew of skilled men. Bob Fincher's; local pork producers, had donated three pigs to be barbecued. The delicious aroma made everyone hungry for the noon meal which was free to anyone who had purchased a Viking button or ticket.

Everyone waits for a parade and it was delightful to see all the kiddies in their parade which was headed by Ronald McDonald who had gifts and treats for all. Their interesting costumes and displays showed everyone that Moms had been very busy planning and assisting their youngsters. Many treats were given to all the kiddies for their part. Immediately following came the regular parade of about 50 units headed by our own Grand Marshall, Lloyd Ranum and his wife, Elaine. All those watching from the sides were thrilled by the entries from all the communities who were willing to come and join in our parade.

The willingness of everyone to help made the noon meal a success. For a while there was a question if there would be food for the large group waiting to be served, but after serving between 650-700 people, it proved everyone had enjoyed the menu of barbecued pork, buns, beans, potato chips, a choice of coffee or nectar and a candy mint for dessert. To be sure no one would be missed, other stands and Gary's Cafe served refreshments throughout the day.

The showers of rain dampened the enthusiasm of those who had planned to have articles at the flea market, but ball games and games of horseshoe were played despite the rain. Winners of the horseshoe tournament were as follows: Class A — 1st Howard and Hardin Hodne and 2nd Jim and Gerald Nelson; Class B — 1st Erling Huglen and Wayne Peters and 2nd Gene and Merlin Boe; Class C — 1st Lloyd Moreen and Kermit Malberg and 2nd Gunnar and Gary Anderson; Class D — 1st. Ernie Melvie Jr. and Mark Skogerboe and 2nd Chuck Swenson and Paul Potucek.

One item of special interest throughout Friday evening and Saturday was the drawing for prizes which had been provided by local and other area merchants. Two special prizes which everyone was waiting for were the $100 given by the Viking Community and the pig which was donated by Bob Fincher's. The happy winners were Kelly Anderson and Earl Erickson, respectively.

Many exhausted, but happy people went home late Saturday afternoon feeling that the Viking Jubilee had been a success because everyone had been so cooperative and so willing to lend a hand whenever it was needed and also because of the tremendous crowd from all around the area that came to join in and help the "Viking — ites" celebrate.

Dear friends,

The fact that people die, have limited powers, and that life itself has limits and is uncertain in its duration, are all evident to the very young child. However, the five-year old cannot conceive of death for himself or his mother. Between 6 and 9 years, he comes to realize that death is not reversible. He considers himself immune to it, but not his parents. Between 9 and 12 years, children understand death as a final and inevitable outcome of life for all.

Respectfully,

Belmont Funeral Home

Cystic Fibrosis Campaign Set In September

Mrs. Eugene Frazer has been appointed to lead local volunteers in Goodridge's "Breath of Life" campaign during September. According to Ron Swain, president of the Minnesota Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis foundation, "There will be a special emphasis placed on the third week in September as it will be designated as national Cystic Fibrosis week as well as Minnesota Cystic Fibrosis week."

When accepting the chairmanship, Frazer said, "Support from our residents is needed to insure a meaningful project. In fact, a child is born with Cystic Fibrosis every five hours and cystic fibrosis is the number one genetic killer of children in the world."

Cystic Fibrosis, the most serious lung-damaging disease, is incurable. It is estimated that one in 20 Americans is a symptomless and unknowing carrier of the gene which will cause cystic fibrosis in their children.

State Awarded $100,000 For A 1976 Fire

A fire started in 1976 by defective farm equipment has cost the owners of the equipment $100,000, according to Department of Natural Resources forestry officials.

An out-of-court settlement was reached recently with the equipment owners for fire fighting costs relating to the Kosbau fire which started in September 1976.

The fire burned 7,270 acres including 5,000 acres of peatlands northwest of McGregor in central Minnesota.

Under state law, persons starting fires are liable for all fire fighting costs and any damages incurred.

In addition to DNR firefighters, rural fire departments, the National Guard, local laborers, and eight out-of-state hotshot firefighting crews were needed to suppress the Kosbau fire. Air tankers dropped 148,000 gallons of retardant on the fire and helicopters were used to drop water on the fire.

The Most Fun

Most fun for viewers tuned into television coverage of the Independent-Republican convention Wednesday evening was watching the network commentators trying to wriggle out of their preconceived declarations of who Ronald Reagan's vice presidential choice would be.

Never content to await the results of anything and then report on them, the networks engaged in their usual scramble to present the news before it happens.

Thus it was that the roving faces pressed to tightly-clutched microphones informed the television audience without a glimmer of doubt that former President Gerald Ford would be Reagan's vice presidential running mate. Let the world know that the networks had spoken and it was so!

An hour or two later the cock-sure demeanor was gone and, after some sputtering of confusion, the commentators took on the attitude of someone betrayed. They seemed aghast that it was possible their information was inaccurate and that they were caught red-faced peddling rumor for fact.

As word spread that George Bush would be the vice presidential candidate, not Gerald Ford, the viewer could sense uncertainty in the commentators. Gone was that "I-know-everything-and-you're-lucky-I'm-Telling-you" expression which has become all too familiar on network news commentators.

When was the decision changed, they wanted to know — never admitting that a decision perhaps had never been made and certainly no agreement reached. They had gone off the high board before checking to see if there was water in the pool, and now they were caught in mid-dive trying to blame the maintenance crew for draining it. It had to be the high point of convention coverage.

Giving Business Its Due

Following editorial is from the Pope County Tribune:

With the nation's unemployment increasing daily and the economy as a whole showing signs of deteriorating, Congress and our leading politicians and economists are finally waking up to the fact that if our free enterprise system is to awaken from a long nap, then incentives must be proposed to get the economy going again.

Walter Heller, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors under two Democratic presidents, Kennedy and Johnson, has come out for a tax cut and incentives amounting to more than $30 billion.

Heller would back a tax-based income policy that would reward labor and business for adhering to wage and price guidelines, and give sizeable tax cuts to both individuals and business.

It wasn't long ago that Congress and the Carter administration were horrified at Congressman Jack Kemp's proposal for a 30 per cent reduction in income taxes, 10 per cent a year for three years. Critics said the nation could never survive.

President Carter said he was absolutely against any tax cut, but now seems to be softening his position. Ronald Reagan, the Republican presidential nominee-to-be, has called for a tax cut of $36.7 billion, and more in following years, but Reagan's proposal is more than a little politically inspired.

Even Democratic members of Congress, many of whom have no time for business and are strictly labor oriented, are coming out for tax incentives and tax reductions for business. They are finally waking up to the fact that when you hold down business and individual initiative through punitive taxes, you stifle the economy, and that's one of our major problems today.

Under a free enterprise system, business and industry cannot be stifled by taxes and too much regulation, and we're now reaping the end product of our fiscal mistakes of the past.

The only encouraging aspect of the entire affair is that it appears finally that the anti-business sentiment in the nation is subsiding and responsible people are realizing that without proper incentives, business will decline and with that decline comes unemployment and a sick economy.

Compare Production

Productivity of American agriculture is often proclaimed but perhaps too few realize just how productive the American farmer is. A comparison from the Agriculture Council of America gives an indication of reasons why the U.S. food supply still allows a family to eat on a relatively small part of the income dollar.

Asia's farm workers produce an average of 4,400 pounds of food crops each year, the ACA reports. Russia's farm workers produce 33,000 pounds and Europe's farm workers produce 35,000 pounds of food. In America, however, farm workers produce 375,000 pounds of food.

On the average, farmers receive 32 cents from each dollar spent for domestically produced foods. The remaining 68 cents pays for processing, transporting, packaging and selling.

He Biteth Too Hard

Ole Peterson, staff writer for the Land O'Lakes Mirror, wrote the following in a recent issue:

I could hardly believe what I was seeing and hearing, a missionary clergyman attacking American businesses for "atrocities against the poor people of the world." His harsh words just didn't fit the benevolent image he portrayed on the evening TV news.

But there he was, smiling pleasantly as he filled the 24-inch screen and vehemently condemned big business generally and charged specific Twin Cities companies with outrageous crimes against society. Poor people aren't the only victims, he claimed. You and I are also being ripped off by "the economic and social mobsters."

The missionary's charges, of course, are not exclusively his. Other people with a variety of vocations have been making similar accusations for years.

The American Free enterprise system, like all economic systems throughout history, is not perfect. It is a human institution, subject to the same human weaknesses and strengths that characterize other institutions such as government and education.

Business does have its share of opportunists and crooks. But to use them as models and thereby characterize the free enterprise system as socially irresponsible, corrupt and greedy is somewhat similar to condemning religion, based solely on the behavior of Rev. Jim Jones.

Many critics of business would scrap the free enterprise mechanism and replace it with still more government regulations. Regulations, unfortunately, do little to fulfill their utopian promise. Additional regulations would no doubt stifle the economy further and impose greater burdens on already overburdened taxpayers. Would socialism soon follow?

The advocates of big government fail to recognize business' positive record in responding to changes in society and the marketplace. They conveniently overlook the fact that business has created nearly 2.5 million new jobs during each of the past five years. They seem to forget that business has invested $51 billion in seven years to clean up our air and water, while investing another $25 billion to increase safety in factories, mines and other workplaces.

But back to the missionary. About a month before our TV encounter, I'd mailed a nice financial contribution to the mission society he represents. The contribution came from my salary, made possible by Land O'Lakes, one of America's better known businesses. Land O'Lakes, in turn, is owned by many other businesses, by approximately 900 local cooperatives and 250,000 independently-owned farm enterprises.

I don't have figures for the personal contributions salaried and self-employed Americans make a charitable organizations. But I do know that America's business firms make direct contributions of approximately $1.5 billion annually.

I suspect I'll keep contributing to the mission society for as long as business keeps paying me a salary. The missions, United Way, Red Cross and all the other charitable organizations need my financial help — and yours — if they are to continue with their good works. But if I ever come face to face with that missionary fellow, I'm going to let him know he'd better not chomp down quite so hard the next time he bites the hand that feeds him.

Soo Line Earns $15.1 Million In 1980 First Half

Soo Line Railroad company earned net income of $15.1 million in the first six months of 1980, up 93 per cent over the same period in 1979, President Thomas M. Beckley announced today.

Revenues for the first half were up 18 per cent over 1979 to $151.3 million. Earnings per share for the same period were $1.99 compared to $1.03 in the first six months of 1979.

In the second quarter, Soo Line had net income of $4.2 million, a decrease of 27 per cent from the second quarter of 1979. Revenues for the period were $71.1 million, up slightly over the prior year's period. Earnings per share were $.54 in comparison with $.75 in the second quarter of 1979. Second quarter net income was increased by $900,000 as a result of property tax refunds and dividend income from a railroad affiliate.

Mr. Beckley noted that Soo handled heavy volumes of traffic in the second quarter of 1979 to meet demands for fertilizer and other commodities which had not been satisfied because of adverse weather conditions in the first quarter. During 1980, the Company met many of these seasonal demands during the first quarter. This factor combined with the general effects of the recession resulted in lower demand for transportation service in the second quarter of 1980.

Total volume handled during the six-month period was approximately level in 1979 and 1980. In the second quarter of 1980, volume fell 17 per cent below the corresponding period in 1979.

Carloads of pulpwood and wood chips as well as sulphur increased over 1979 in both the second quarter and first half of 1980. Carloads of all other major commodities handled were lower for both periods except for grain which was 11 per cent ahead in the first quarter, but decreased 9 per cent during the second quarter.

Railway expenses increased 8 per cent in the second quarter and 11 per cent for the six-month period over 1979. The increases reflected higher prices for labor and supplies, especially locomotive fuel, and a larger track maintenance program underway in 1980.

During the first six months Soo relayed 34 miles of mainline track with continuous welded rail compared to 29 miles in 1979. Ballast applied amounted to 259,000 cubic yards compared to 125,000 cubic yards in 1979.

Soo continued to add to its freight carrying capacity during the second quarter by taking delivery of 20 new locomotives valued at $13 million. During the first quarter 624 new freight cars with a value of $26 million were received and put into service.

VA Notes 50th Anniversary Date July 21

While the Veterans Administration celebrates its 50th anniversary July 21, golden anniversary activities will emphasize benefits and services provided by the nation's largest independent federal agency.

All of the VA's medical centers, regional offices and other facilities plan celebrations and special activities to mark VA's 50th birthday.

The nation's youngest veterans — 4.7 million from World War I — were in their early '30s when President Hoover established the VA in 1930. By executive order, Hoover consolidated the work of the Veterans bureau, the Bureau of Pensions and the National Homes for Disabled Volunteer soldiers under one administrator, Frank T. Hines.

Today's youngest veterans — some 9 million of the Vietnam Era — are the major concern of the present Administrator of Veterans Affairs, Max Cleland. While stressing outreach to Vietnam Veterans, Cleland points out that nearly half of the U.S. population is potentially eligible for some of the many benefits provided by the VA. More than 30 million veterans — about two-thirds of those who ever served in uniform — are alive today.

Also potentially eligible for VA programs are certain spouses, children and parents of living and deceased veterans. In honor of the VA's 50th anniversary, a commemorative postage stamp will be issued July 21 by the Postal Service.

Care for the veterans and dependents spans centuries. The last dependent of a Revolutionary War participant died in 1911. The last War of 1812 dependent died in 1946. The last Mexican War dependent died in 1962, while the U.S. had military advisers in Vietnam. A number of Spanish-American War veterans and widows and children of the Civil War and Indian wars still draw VA benefits.

In its 50 years of service the VA has grown dramatically. The present veteran population represents more than a six-fold increase since 1930. Some 18 million people have received some form of training under the GI Bill since its inception in 1944. More than 800,000 disabled veterans have received VA vocational rehabilitation counseling and training since this program began in 1943.

Also, the VA hospital network has grown from 54 hospitals in 1930 to 172 hospitals today, treating more than 1.3 million patients a year. VA nursing homes and domiciliaries care for 78,000 veterans a year, and outpatient clinics register more than 15.4 million visits a year.

The most comprehensive and diverse benefits in the agency's history are provided veterans and dependents today. The VA operates the nation's largest hospital and medical care system, and is one of the country's leading educators and a major force in housing and insurance.

Compensation and pension benefits are provided to more than 6 million veterans, dependents and survivors. The VA provides burial grounds for 40,000 veterans a year and financially assists those who choose to be interred outside VA cemeteries.

Coaches Bruce Williams and Charlie Cornell, along with their two Thief River Falls Babe Ruth baseball teams — the Elks and the Independents — have had a memorable summer.

An abundance of young baseball talent in the 14-15-year-old age group produced the creation of two Babe Ruth teams here for the first time, with the first-year Independents joining the established Elks in the Lake Agassiz South Division Babe Ruth baseball league. And in spite of the talent split, Thief River Falls finished 1-2 in the seven-team league, with the Elks taking the pennant and the Independents tying Crookston for second place.

"We're real happy with the way things have worked out," said Cornell, the Lincoln high school head baseball coach who worked with the Independents this summer. "We said we'd be a success if we could be 1-2 in our league, and that's what we did."

"We had a lot of talent," said Williams, the Elks' coach, in explaining the reasoning behind the two league entries. "I don't know if we'll do it this way every year; it depends on what kind of numbers and talent we have. I like it this way, but you look back and imagine what kind of team we could have had with them all together . . . nobody around here would have touched us."

"It depends on numbers," agreed Cornell when looking toward future Thief River Falls Babe Ruth representation. "We just divided them this way because of the talent that was available."

East Grand Forks has fielded two Babe Ruth teams in the past, but just one this year. Crookston went to two Babe Ruth teams this summer, but divided into A and B teams, and while the stronger A team had a successful season, the obviously weaker B team had problems.

The even talent split here made for some interesting matches this year between the two teams as players competed against former teammates.

"They get pumped up for each other," acknowledged Williams.

"It's mainly friendly competition," added Cornell. "I think the kids enjoy it — I know Bruce and I do."

Cornell is obviously happy with the results of the program since he'll be inheriting the talent at the high school level. And on top of the Babe Ruth program, an expanded American Legion schedule this year directed by Nick Drees is giving several current high school-age players much more experience.

"It's certainly got to help the high school program with this many kids getting the experience," smiled Cornell. "In fact, the whole baseball program here, all the way down to the little kids, is in good shape right now."

Williams says the current interest in baseball in Thief River Falls can be directly related to the construction of the first-class Little League diamond built on the corner of the fairgrounds diamond. The 14-year-olds on the Babe Ruth teams this summer were the first group to utilize the diamond, built under the supervision of Thief River Falls youth baseball program director Ron Novak.

"It all seems to start with that Little League field," said Williams. "Everything just seemed to grow out of that."

Crookston Settles Hockey Matter

Crookston school board officially approved a proposal last week that will allow Mount St. Benedict students to play on the Crookston Central high school hockey team, beginning with the 1981-82 school year. Mount St. Benedict made an original request to form a cooperative athletic program with Central in several sports, but that request was withdrawn and attention was focused on only hockey.

However, the proposal was not initiated until after the December 15 Minnesota State High School League deadline for cooperative programs, so the plan can not go into effect this winter.

Budgeting and declining enrollment were major factors in the idea behind the cooperative hockey program. "With enrollment declining the way it is, by the 1981-82 school year, if each school had their own team, they might not be able to field a strong team," Central superintendent Randall Patton told the Crookston Times. "And for some mysterious reason that we can't pinpoint, the numbers aren't that big in the park board program any more, either. There aren't that many kids coming up through the program."

Current Central hockey coach Mike Lundby, who will continue in that role when the two schools get together, also pointed to declining numbers. Without a joint program, he said, Central might have just 20-22 players on its team in a couple of years.

Patton said the uniforms and colors of Central would be used for the combined team, but the use of a school song and the selection of cheerleaders is still to be worked out, and the team will simply be known as the Crookston Pirates and not the Crookston Central Pirates.

There will be no hockey at Mount St. Benedict this winter and members of the Blue Wave team last winter are not eligible to play hockey by transferring to Central this year. The MSHSL eligibility rules says a student transferring from one school to another in the same school district will be ineligible for sports from a period of one year.

That makes it tough on several Blue Wave underclassmen, including five 1979-80 juniors who will be forced to miss their senior year of high school hockey. And Jon Brekken, a second-team All-Section 8 goalie as a sophomore last winter who was expected to be the top netminder in the area in 1980-81, will be among the sidelined Mount St. Benedict underclassmen.

BASE RUNNER Rick Spong of the Independents was tagged out by Elks third baseman Scott Johnston during a stolen base attempt in the second inning of Saturday's all-Thief River Falls Babe Ruth district baseball tournament match-up at Crookston. The Independents built a 10-5 lead when the game was suspended by rain in the top of the sixth inning. It was scheduled to be completed today (Monday).

Rain Interrupts Babe Ruth District Tournament Plans

A second round contest between the Thief River Falls Elks and Thief River Falls Independents might go into the record books as the longest game ever played as the rain-delayed Lake Agassiz Babe Ruth district baseball tournament tries to complete its four-team, double-elimination format that will send its winner to the 1980 state Babe Ruth tournament at Morris later this week.

Being played at Crookston, the district tournament began Saturday when the Independents defeated Warroad 9-3 and the Elks edged Williams 1-0. Williams then eliminated Warroad 7-2 that afternoon.

Final game of the day featured an all-Thief River Falls match between the rival Elks, the regular season Lake Agassiz South Half pennant winner, and the Independents, the South Half sub district tournament champions.

The Independents built a 10-5 lead in the sixth inning before a steady drizzle turned into hard rain. Tournament rules require the completion of a full seven-inning contest so the game was suspended at that point, and was to be completed Sunday morning before the tournament got back onto its regular schedule.

However, rains yesterday sent the Elks-Independents game into its third day as tournament directors reset the contest for 11 a.m. this morning (Monday).

The eventual Elks-Independents loser will face Williams in an elimination game at 12:30 p.m. today, with the Elks-Independents winner gaining a spot in the 3 p.m. finals.

The Independents broke open a 2-2 tie Saturday before the heavy rains came with a four-run fifth inning. Elks pitcher Tim Bottem issued a bases-loaded walk to Gary Cornell on four pitches to snap the deadlock. Mark Gere then put down a suicide squeeze bunt base hit for a run and a two-out bases-loaded error on a ball hit by Rodney Harder made it 6-2.

But the Elks came back for three runs in the bottom of the inning to keep it close. Gere, the Independents' pitcher, walked three batters to load the bases and Brian Kemnitz singled off the third baseman's glove for a run. Bob Huot drew a bases-loaded walk and an error on a ball hit by Todd Ortloff made it 6-5. But the Elks left the bases loaded.

And more of the same in the Independents' sixth made it 10-5. A wild pitch scored a run; a bases-loaded suicide squeeze bunt by Gary Cornell scored two runs when the Elks tagged an error onto the play and yet another suicide squeeze — this one by Kirk Jensen — scored another run before the rains came.

Independents — Warroad

Independents opened the tournament Saturday morning with a 9-3 decision over Warroad.

Thief River Falls jumped out to a 3-0 first inning lead and was never headed. Gary Cornell had a two-run single that inning to get it going.

The Independents held an 8-7 base-hit edge, with Rick Spong going 2-for-3 and scoring two runs. Jim Hallamek was officially 1-for-2 at the plate, but he scored three times and stole three bases.

Elks — Williams

Tim Bottem, who had tripled, scored on an infield out by Scott Johnston in the fourth inning as the Elks shaded Williams 1-0 in opening round play Saturday.

It was the Elks' third straight one-run game and their second 1-0 victory in a row.

Johnston was the game's winning pitcher, tossing a four-hit shutout while walking four and striking out five. The Elks managed just three hits and committed the game's only error.

Elks Tip EGF 1-0 To Earn Playoff Spot

Scott Johnston pitched a one-hitter and drove in the game's only run in the bottom of the seventh inning Thursday to lift the Thief River Falls Elks to a 1-0 victory over East Grand Forks in the final game of the 1980 Lake Agassiz South Half Babe Ruth sub district baseball tournament for 14-15-year-olds played at Crookston.

The tournament's No. 1 seed, the Elks were upset by the Thief River Falls Independents 2-1 Wednesday in the double-elimination affair, an outcome that sent the No. 3-seeded Independents into the weekend's district tournament, but forced the Elks to earn their way into the district event with another win.

There were five once-beaten teams awaiting a shot at the Elks and the field slowly narrowed as Crookston A beat Goodridge 15-5, Crookston B eliminated Red Lake Falls 14-10, East Grand Forks ousted Crookston B 17-2 and East Grand Forks sidelined Crookston A 14-11.

That set the stage for Thursday's showdown, and it proved to be a dandy.

Johnston pitched six innings of no-hit ball until giving up an infield single in the top of the seventh.

The Elks won it in the bottom of the inning on long back-to-back doubles by Tim Bottem (to left-center field) and Johnston (to right-center field). Those were two of the Elks' three base hits for the afternoon.

COACH BRUCE WILLIAMS of the Thief River Falls Elks talked to pitcher Tim Bottem while catcher Jeff Milender listened during Saturday's Babe Ruth district baseball tournament game against the Thief River Falls Independents at Crookston. Rain suspended play in the top of the sixth inning with the Elks facing a 10-5 deficit.

Cat Classic Will Be Held August 1-3

Third annual Cat Classic golf tournament will be played August 1, 2 and 3 at the Thief River Country Club, according to tournament sponsors, Arctic Enterprises, Inc. Tournament director Jon Bolen said the course is in excellent condition and added that increased prizes in 1980 should make for another exciting Cat Classic.

Northwestern Minnesota's only golf Pro-Am will lead off the tournament Fri., Aug. 1, at 1 p.m. Many of the region's top golf professionals will complete for a substantially increased purse over 1979. Last year's winning professional, Marty Irving of Hibbing will be returning to defend his title. Amateur golfers will play along with pros and compete for prizes in a double best ball format. The competition will conclude with a free outdoor barbecue.

Amateur portion of the Cat Classic opens Sat., Aug. 2, for men, women and junior golfers. The men's championship division will feature 27 holes of medal play on both Saturday and Sunday. Defending champions, Jay Moum and Wade Hoppe, both of Thief River Falls, are expected to return to play in this year's competition.

Men's, women's and junior divisions will follow a match play format after a qualifying round. All golfers will compete for medalist honors as well as an increased purse of flight prizes.

TRF Fast Pitch Teams Resume Play Tuesday

Idled last week by the presence of the Pennington county fair that forced them off their fairgrounds diamond, teams in the Thief River Falls fast-pitch softball league resume their 1980 schedule with five games this week.

Coca-Cola, the current Thief River Falls league leader, took home consolation championship honors from the 23rd annual Detroit Lakes Invitational tournament Sunday.

A 4-2 first-round loss to Kindom Realty of Detroit Lakes sent Coca-Cola into the consolation round of the 16-team tournament. Thief River Falls then ran off three straight wins for a trophy, beating Country Kitchen of Fergus Falls 9-1, Wright Construction of Bemidji 4-3 and Krueger Excavating of Detroit Lakes 8-1.

Christianson, Inc. of Elbow Lake successfully defended its Detroit Lakes title with a 5-1 championship game win over Frazee.

Legion Sub District Will Start Tonight

Northwest League American Legion sub district baseball tournament is scheduled to start tonight (Monday) when long-time athletic rivals Warroad and Roseau meet at 7 p.m. at Roseau.

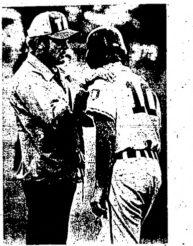
Another first round game will be played Tuesday when Newfolden visits Crookston.

Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks, the league's top two regular season finishers, were seeded into the sub district tournament semifinals, scheduled to be played Saturday at East Grand Forks' Stauss Park.

Pennant winner Thief River Falls will play the Newfolden-Crookston winner at 5 p.m. Saturday, with East Grand Forks taking on the Warroad-Roseau winner at 8 that night.

Saturday's winners will earn berths in the 1980 Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament, scheduled to start July 31 at Red Lake Falls.

Sub district championship game, used for Ninth District seeding purposes, will be played Sunday at East Grand Forks. The Northwest League tournament pairings and sites were announced this weekend.



A STRATEGY talk was also a father-son discussion Saturday as Thief River Falls Independents coach Charlie Cornell gave instructions to batter Gary Cornell — his son — during the first inning of the Babe Ruth district baseball tournament against the Thief River Falls Elks. The Independents led 10-5 in the top of the sixth inning when rain forced suspension of the game until Sunday. But additional rain set the contest, and the rest of the tournament back to today (Monday).

Men's Slow Pitch Softball . . .

Amer. League West Is Close

Positions remained unchanged, but it was a little hectic last week for McDonald's-Dallmann, American Legion Raiders and Swenson Plumbing — the top three challengers in the American League West Division of the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association.

Third place Swenson Plumbing jumped back into the pennant picture by combining a 16-15 Wednesday night victory over the Raiders with a 4-3 Thursday night McDonald's-Dallmann loss to the Wagon Wheel. The first place McDonald's-Dallmann club was a narrow 3-2 winner over Home Lumber Wednesday.

American Legion Raiders bounced back to take the St. Hilaire Bears in Friday's only scheduled game for a first place tie, but it wasn't easy: 2-0. The Raiders managed just four base hits in that one, but two third inning walks were followed by a Mark DuChamp base hit for the game's only runs.

Swenson Plumbing trails the two leaders by just one game.

In other Wednesday action, Tony Dorn, Inc. shut out Popplers-Action Realty 3-0, Coca-Cola drilled Phase II 17-2, E.T.'s Bees defeated Thorp-KKAQ 10-5, St. Hilaire Bears blanked Bridgeman 10-0 and Terry's Mobil handled Arnold Realty 13-5.

E.T.'s Bees surprised Great Northwest Agency 7-6 Thursday to drop the National League East Division contenders two games behind idle Consumer's Co-op, where they're deadlocked with The Club and the E.T.'s Bees.

A three-hitter pitched by Phil Fore and a four-RBI night by Reid Fore that included a home run carried Hardees past IWA 5-0.

Elsewhere, Sound Level-Holthusen beat the TRF Aggies 9-5, Furuseth-Nelson whitewashed Wagon Wheel 9-0, Lon's out-scored Dallmann Athletic 17-15 and Wilson Brothers handled Dallmann Athletic 12-1.

BRUCE MATTSON (58), who later won the grand slam, lifted his car off the ground as he laid a hit on an opponent in the third heat of Friday's demolition derby at the Pennington county fair. An overflow crowd was entertained to 3½ hours of competition that featured 84 cars in eight preliminary heats, plus the 16-car championship feature won by Jeff Dahle and the 33-car grand slam finale won by Mattson.

Pennington Co. Fair Demolition Derby . . .

Dahle, Mattson Win Titles

Jeff Dahle of Middle River was the feature winner and Bruce Mattson of Thief River Falls took the grand slam event Friday during the Pennington county fair demolition derby.

An overflow crowd at the fairgrounds grandstand area watched the Thief River Falls Jaycees-run event that attracted 84 cars. There were eight regular heats, with the top two finishers in each run advancing to the 16-car feature final. All non-trophy winners were eligible to complete in the 33-car grand slam finale.

In addition to the profitable wins by Dahle ($400) and Mattson ($100), special awards were presented to Jeff Joppru, best paint job; Don Schindler, best pit crew; and Jill Johnson, winner of the True Grit award.

Top three place finishers in each heat were as follows:

First heat — 1. Jeff Dahle; 2. Jim Wright; 3. Wayne Walhaug.

WHAT MIGHT APPEAR to be a chase scene from a television police show was instead a confrontation Friday in the first heat of the demolition derby at the Pennington county fair. Jim Wright was the "officer" behind the wheel in the imitation Pennington county law enforcement vehicle that was a second place finisher in the heat to Jeff Dahle, who went on to win the championship feature in the 84-car field that drew a standing-room-only crowd to the fairgrounds grandstands.

Legion Splits Weekend Games

A two-game weekend split left the Thief River Falls American Legion baseball team with a 23-11 record heading into the final week of the 1980 regular season schedule.

Thief River Falls knocked off New York Mills 4-2 Saturday but dropped a 6-4 decision at Detroit Lakes Sunday.

Both stops were supposed to be doubleheader affairs, but rain washed out the second New York Mills game with Thief River Falls leading 6-1 in the bottom of the fourth inning and the second half of the Detroit Lakes twinbill was lost because the hosts had to get in a league make-up game that same night.

Thief River Falls will be at Bemidji Tuesday for a 6:30 p.m. start.

A schedule addition will feature a Legion Oldtimers game Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. on the fairgrounds diamond. Billed as a pre-tournament warm-up, the schedule nine-inning affair will match the current Legion squad against Legion program graduates like Rob Almquist, Tony Johnson, Ron Ostby and Jon Looker.

Thief River Falls begins post-season Northwest League sub district tournament play Saturday at East Grand Forks.

N.Y. Mills 2

Thief River Falls broke a 2-2 tie by scoring twice in the top of the seventh inning for a 4-2 victory at New York Mills Saturday.

A single by lead-off batter Tom Drury started the seventh. Jeff Ulrich then drew a walk, with sacrifices by Kevin Sanders and Mark Schmitke — along with a New York Mills error — plating the two runs.

Thief River Falls had scored single runs in the third and fifth innings. Sanders reached base in the third when the catcher lost a third strike. He stole second, went to third on an error and scored on a fielder's choice ball hit by Schmitke.

Ulrich singled to lead off the fifth, stole second and scored on back-to-back sacrifices by Sanders and Schmitke.

New York Mills scored in the second and third innings. An error scored the second inning run. New York Mills put five men on base in the third but got just one run out of it.

Winning pitcher Wayne Huseth scattered three hits, striking out 11, but walking nine.

Detroit Lakes built a 6-2 lead and held off a Thief River Falls seventh inning rally to win 6-4 Sunday afternoon.

Thief River Falls scored twice in the top of the first when Jeff Ulrich singled, moved up on a passed ball and was joined on the bases by Kevin Sanders on a fielder's choice play. An error scored Ulrich and a single by Mark Harder scored Sanders.

But Detroit Lakes scored twice on two hits, two errors and two stolen bases in the second inning, added single runs in the third and fourth and scored what proved to be the two winning runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Thief River Falls came back for two runs in the seventh on an inning-opening double by Kelly Gutterud and singles by Dave Kays and Wayne Huseth. But the inning ended on a pair of ground-outs with Thief River Falls leaving runners at second and third.

Framework For Migratory Bird Hunting Set

Regulations setting the frameworks for 1980-81 early migratory bird hunting seasons have been proposed by the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Several supplemental late season framework proposals also were published at the same time.

Generally the early season frameworks are the same as last year except for a few minor changes that affect local areas or regions. Early hunting seasons are those that open before October 1.

The proposals, published in the July 1, 1980, Federal Register, set forth the species to be hunted during early seasons, daily bag and possession limits, shooting hours, season lengths, earliest opening and latest closing season dates and special closures. From these frameworks state conservation agencies may select hunting season dates and options.

Species included in the early season proposals are mourning doves, white-winged doves, band-tailed pigeons, rails, woodcock, common snipe, and gallinules; teal in portions of the Mississippi and Central Flyways during September; sea ducks in designated areas of the Atlantic Flyway; an experimental early duck season in Iowa in late September; and sandhill cranes in portions of North Dakota and South Dakota. The proposal includes an option for a falconry season in certain states meeting federal falconry standards.

Changes being proposed for this group of birds include full-day mourning dove hunting in the eastern management Unit (all States east of the Mississippi River and Louisiana), hunting areas and seasons for mourning and white-winged doves in Arizona and Texas, and sandhill crane seasons in North Dakota and South Dakota.

The service also proposed some changes in hunting regulations for the late seasons (seasons that open on or after October 1, 1980). These include an experimental increased limit of canvasbacks within a late portion of the regular waterfowl season in designated areas of the Atlantic Flyway. The service also proposes to eliminate the special closed areas for redheads in the Atlantic, Mississippi and Central Flyways. The changes for canvasbacks and redheads are contingent upon the findings of this spring and summer's waterfowl surveys.

In the Atlantic Flyway, zoning for the purpose of establishing waterfowl seasons is proposed for implementation this fall in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. In the Mississippi Flyway, regulatory relaxations are recommended for Canada geese in a small zone in southeastern Michigan. Also, the Mississippi Flyway's possession limits for waterfowl would be double the daily bag limits. In the Central Flyway, separate limits are proposed for light (snow and Ross' geese) and dark geese (Canada and white-fronted geese).

Public comment period for the proposed late seasons changes ends on August 23, 1980. All comments should be addressed to the Director (FWS-MBMO), U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240.

Upsets Are Featured In Women's Softball Results

Upsets highlighted Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league action Wednesday when Division I front-runners St. Hilaire Saints and Ekeren Drug were both handed setbacks.

The Ridge Runners surprised St. Hilaire 10-2, giving the Saints just their second loss of the year, while Northern Employers Agency knocked off Ekeren Drug 10-7, keeping the losers from gaining a first place tie.

Meanwhile, Sandy Vose hit three first-pitch home runs to lead Great Northwest Agency to an 18-1 victory over The Barbers in a battle to avoid the Division II basement. Roseann Feragen and Julie Tweeten hit triples for the winners.

Winning pitcher Pam Dallmann tossed a shutout and also tripled as American Legion jumped on Pizza Hut 11-0. Linda Olson also tripled for the winners.

Roseau Transport broke a 7-7 tie in the top of the seventh to beat the Mush-a-Rettes 10-7, moving into a second place tie in Division I. Triples were hit by Karen Sparby of Roseau Transport and Patty Blazek of the Mush-a-Rettes.

13-Year-Olds Enter Tournament Play

Double-elimination Lake Agassiz Babe Ruth Prep League district baseball tournament for 13-year-olds will be played this week at Roseau.

Opening round games in the four-team event that will send its winner to the 1980 Babe Ruth Prep state tournament at Moorhead will be played Tuesday when No. 1-seeded East Grand Forks plays Roseau at 12 noon and No. 2-seeded Thief River Falls tackles Crookston at 2:30 p.m.

First round losers will meet at 11 a.m. Wednesday, followed by a 1:30 p.m. meeting that day between first round winners. The two Wednesday winners will then face each other at 5 that same afternoon for a spot in the finals.

Championship game will be played Thursday at 3 p.m. If needed, a second game will follow at 5.

Thief River Falls finished its 1980 regular season Friday with a doubleheader sweep over Red Lake Falls on the Northland community college diamond, 6-1 and 14-1.

Tim Nyland pitched a one-hitter in the first game of the scheduled five-inning contests. Three of the winners' four base hits were doubles — by Steve Solheim, Ryan Drees and Dean Brandon.

Drees followed with a no-hitter in the second game, shortened to 2½ innings because of the 10-run rule.

Study Says Energy Bills For Schools Can Be Moderated

Minnesota schools can cut energy bills up to $11.6 million, according to a study by the energy management information center of a Minneapolis company.

Elementary and secondary schools can save 15 to 30 per cent on fuel bills by tying into an existing computer system that now manages heating, lighting and air conditioning for 124 buildings of various types in Minnesota, the information center says.

The shared computer system is linked to the school by telephone lines and operates chillers, lights, boilers, motors, pumps and fans at peak efficiency in each building it controls.

Under the system, schools and other types of buildings share the services of one central energy-control computer and its operators, without the expense of purchasing individual computers.

After repayment of a one-time cost to install the energy monitoring sensors — which can be extended over a few years — a school pays only computer service fees, so immediate energy savings can generate a greater cash flow, the center said.

The typical saving range of 15 to 30 per cent is based on results in 1,200 U.S. buildings, including schools, that have been linked to such systems, said Roger N. Schmidt, spokesman for the center. Based on that saving range, the study found that:

+ The projected range of total annual energy cost savings in all Minnesota elementary and secondary schools is $5.8 million to $11.6 million.

+ The range of potential annual energy cost savings in individual schools is $2,150 to $182,113.

+ The potential annual energy cost savings per student range from $5.92 to $150.11.

+ The potential annual energy cost savings per square foot range from eight cents to $1.36.

In a typical example from the study, a Minnesota school of 132,158 square feet and 1,300 students can save $11,057 to $22,114 in annual energy costs. Energy costs per square foot can be reduced by eight to 17 cents; $8.51 to $17.01 can be saved in per-student energy costs.

Some Minnesota buildings tied into time-shared computer systems that have demonstrated energy savings are:

Carlton college, Northfield; Anoka county courthouse, Anoka; St. Louis Park medical center, St. Louis Park; Josten's Corp., Red Wing; Dakota county government center, Hastings; Kallestad Labs, Chaska; Galleria shopping center, Edina; Holiday Inns in Maplewood, Roseville and Owatonna; First National bank, St. Paul; First National bank, Duluth; and Duluth international airport.

The study is the first to examine data compiled in a 1979 DOE audit of energy spending in 640 representative elementary and secondary schools in Minnesota.

It also used information from the bureau of the census, the University of California's Lawrence Berkeley laboratory, the American association of school administrators and "Energy Future," the report of the Harvard business school energy project.

How much a particular school can save varies widely because of differences in hours of occupancy, type of use, layout, size, mechanical systems, climate, existing conservation, the number of building functions controlled by the computer and current levels of energy efficiency, the study said.

Each school must be evaluated individually to determine whether a time-shared computer service is the most cost-effective way to control energy use. Some older schools with steam radiators find that it pays to upgrade and modernize controls and perform preventive maintenance before tying into a computerized energy management service.

"Energy control by computer places and responsibility for conservation on computer memory, rather than building users," Schmidt said.

"It's clear that you cannot rely solely on that human factor, because about 50 per cent of the energy now consumed in U.S. schools could be conserved."

DPS Provides Checklist For Summer Driving

Summer driving can be challenging and may present numerous problems, according to the Minnesota department of public safety which offers the following tips for easing the problems:

+Have your vehicle safety-checked at a service station or garage before you leave on vacation. The benefits of this exercise will also help prevent trouble on shorter trips and may well be worth the cost incurred.

+ One of the most important safety checks is tires. Be sure they are properly inflated, according to the owners' manual. Check for unnatural wear which might be corrected with proper alignment or balancing. Replace tires with less than one-sixteenth inch tread or wear bars visible.

+ One of the primary troubles experienced by motorists is engine overheating. You can help prevent this in slow-moving traffic by shifting into neutral and racing your engine briefly during stops. This speeds up the fan and water pump and thus aids cooling. If your engine begins spouting steam, pull off to the side. Do not remove the radiator cap. Wait for help.

+ Plan enough rest stops on trips so driver and passengers (usually anxious children) can get some respite, especially if the day is extra hot and the car is not air conditioned.

+ Allow enough time between home and destination so you can adhere to the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit.

+ Do not carry liquor or beer in the vehicle. It should be stored in the trunk. Any opened container is a violation of state law.

Mn-DOT Cited As Leader In Road Standards

Federal highway administration (FHWA) has recognized the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) as a national leader in construction standards review, commissioner Richard P. Braun said.

Standards, set by Mn-DOT, establish a quality level for road construction by specifying uniform construction requirements that road contractors must abide by when working on a Minnesota road project.

Standards exist to provide safe and efficient roadways that are economical to build and maintain, Braun said.

Under the construction standards review program, selected state or federally funded projects, are reviewed during construction to see if they are being built according to accepted standards and are evaluated to determine whether there is room for improvement in cost savings or construction quality, he said.

John Bowers, assistant division administrator and engineering coordinator, FHWA, said, "Our confidence in the adequacy of Minnesota's highway construction program is heightened by its excellent internal review procedures. These procedures have been recommended for use in other states."

Jack A. Leach, base commander, Grand Forks AFB; Col. Ross W. Simmons, commander, 321st bomb wing, Grand Forks AFB; and Col. Joe Forberg, Thief River Falls, brigade commander of the national guard.

The veterans memorial was created as a group effort by participating area veterans and service organizations and the city of Thief River Falls. It consists of a landscaped area between the terminal building and airport road with a stone memorial, flag pole and mounted aircraft arranged for night illumination.

At 12:05 p.m. the dedication program will be concluded with a fly-by staged with a T-38 aircraft flown by Capt. Joel Schrimsher, commender of the 64th ACE training wing based at the Grand Forks AFB. At 12:15 p.m. the afternoon program will begin with aerobatics performed by Arnold Odegaard of Cloquet in a Steen Sky Bolt stunt plane.

Other aerobatics will be performaed by Gregg Grahn of Brooten with an SZS Pitts aircraft and Jack Grahn from Roseau with a J3 Piper Cub. The father and son team is scheduled to perform until 1 p.m. At that time a crop spraying demonstration will be given by Den Philipp and Herb Weller of Thief River Falls.

Charges will be made for the fly-in breakfast, food concessions and the scenic rides. All other portions of the airshow are free and open to the public.

SINGER CHARLY McCLAIN enlisted the help of this youngster for one of her numbers at the Pennington county fair Sunday evening. The country-western star belted out a lusty version of "Men" but could entice little response from her pre-school fan. A Times interview with Miss McClain will be published in a later issue.

Colorado Man Held Here On Felony Charge

Held on a felony charge of possession of a shotgun shorter than legal length, Clint Alliston, 31, of Denver, Colo., is in custody at the Pennington county law enforcement center.

Alliston was charged with the felony and appeared in Pennington county court Monday where he was bound over to district court and bond set at $5,000. He appeared in district court the same afternoon and bond at that time was reduced to $3,000.

Alliston was arrested early Sunday morning, shortly after midnight, after an Explorer scout working for the police department on bike patrol observed someone who he believed was carrying a sawed-off shotgun in the area of the carnival at the county fairgrounds.

The youth contacted the law enforcement center and a sheriff's deputy responding saw someone in a semi-trailer truck with what resembled a sawed-off shotgun and later heard a shot. City police arrived on the scene and took Alliston into custody. A shotgun with barrel shorter than legal length which had recently been fired was found in the truck.

North Country Arts & Crafts Workshop Set

Registration forms are now available at the Pennington county extension office for the fifth annual arts and crafts workshops which will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, September 16 and 17 at Concordia language camp near Bemidji. Pre-registration is required and the classes will be filled in the order in which registrations are received.

A new feature this year is a three-hour class on house plants with Debbie Brown, University of Minnesota horticulturist. You can update your plant IQ by learning about potential plant problems, about plants' environmental needs, how to keep gift plants longer and make root cuttings.

You could decide to spend the whole workshop time on "Textiles from Field to Fiber", a class for learning to prepare dye from wild plants, drying the wool and spinning it into yarn. Students who wish may bring spinning wheels.

Other classes include stained glass, wood carving, pine cone craft, applique quilting, Klokkestreng, mosaic, knitting, bird appreciation, trimnistics, 35mm camera, batik, calligraphy, strawcraft, tole painting and rosemaling (beginning Rogaland).

Overnight lodging and meals are provided at this language camp. Men are invited to attend as well as women.

Workshop is sponsored by the extension offices of Hubbard, Clearwater, Beltrami and East Polk counties and Red Lake Indian reservation.

Tour Of Crop Plots Slated Friday Night

Pennington county crop improvement association announces its annual demonstration plot twilight meeting to be held this Friday at 7:30 p.m. The plots are located four miles east of Thief River Falls on highway 1 on the Clyde Christensen farm.

There are 26 varieties of small grain in the plots and they demonstrate some interesting characteristics in relation to drought, according to county extension director Terry Courneya. An additional feature this year is a demonstration of simulated hail damage during the boot stage of development.

Also included at the demonstration plot site is a grassy weed control experiment with six different methods of wild oats and foxtail control. All area grain producers are encouraged to attend and observe the varietal differences for most of the crop varieties used in Minnesota.

Seek Funds For River Culvert In Grygla Area

A number of residents of Beltrami county northeast of Grygla are interested in having a culvert placed in the Moose river which would permit a crossing to the Northwood cemetery. A bridge formerly used is impassable due to deteriorated condition.

Cost of placing a culvert eight feet 10 inches high and 17 feet 11 inches wide at the bottom in the river has been placed at $17,000. Beltrami county would release $10,000 from special ditch assessment.

A Northwood cemetery fund has been established and anyone interested in contributing to it may contact Richard Dougherty or Norris Hagen.

Clues Listed For Jaycee Treasure Hunt

Eight more clues for the 36th annual Jaycee Aquacade treasure hunt have been added to those listed in Monday's edition of the Times. All 10 clues are listed below:

(1) Look for a series of numbers; (2) remember public property and that no digging or destruction is necessary; (3) I help traffic flow and safety; (4) the smiling face in the west will not help; (5) the good Lord has His own way to provide; (6) love has a lot to do with it; (7) look for the glass bottle; (8) get a city map — it will help; (9) look for another glass bottle; and (10) get a city map — it will help (same as clue number eight).

All clues belong to both treasures ($50 and $100) although the treasures are hidden in different places.

Arts Council Events Series To Continue

"Summer of Happenings — 1980", a continuing project of the Thief River Falls community arts council, includes two more events scheduled during the coming week.

Parents are invited to bring five-year-olds to the auditorium at 1 p.m., six-year-olds at 2 p.m. and seven-year-olds at 2:30 p.m.

Special Meeting Set For Rental Unit Discussion

Request for a special city council meeting August 5 resulted during the regular Thief River Falls city council meeting conducted last evening in the council chambers of the city auditorium.

Short discussion of the possibility of 40 subsidized rental units to be constructed in Thief River Falls continued from a planning commission meeting conducted Monday evening. For several reasons, the request had been denied Monday evening.

August 12, the date set for the next regular city council meeting, was scheduled to include a discussion of an item brought up at many previous city council meetings concerning the placement of "V-shaped" signs and merchandise such as lawn mowers, pop machines, etc. on city sidewalks. It had been resolved at a previous meeting that a special blanket permit would be issued for 30 days to store owners displaying items on the sidewalks, while the planning commission and the city council would further study the issue. (Those with sandwich signs were informed of the misdemeanor created by the placement of signs on sidewalks).

Ken Froschheiser, chief of police, was instructed to call on the people concerned to cooperate with the council's decision by limiting their merchandise on the sidewalks and tucking the items closer to their buildings.

Larry McDowell, city attorney, informed council members that a blanket permit may be issued for specific purposes like Crazy Days, but that the present ordinance states that the placement of items on the sidewalks is a misdemeanor. Question remained as to the city's liability if businesses place signs on sidewalks.

"You either have to comply with the ordinance or remove it totally," McDowell stated.

Vi Kalinoski of Ace Hardware in Thief River Falls appeared before council members addressing the question to them, "How many times has the city had law

Art Norbys Honored On 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Art Nordby were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house held recently at the Grace Lutheran church in Grygla. About 400 relatives and friends attended the event.

Hosting the open house were their children, Ardith Erickson, Orvis Nordby, Roy Nordby, Marie Anderson and Carol Lee.

The program, with Roy Norby in charge, featured a slide presentation, "This Is Your Life," narrated by Ardith Erickson. Rev. Owen Christianson led in devotions. Vocal selections were given by Lori and Lisa Erickson, Joy Nordby and Marie Anderson, Carol and Leland Lee, Jeremy Nordby and Sandi Nordby. All the children and grandchildren joined in singing "Amazing Grace."

Special guests at the celebration were Florence (Norby) Shay and Curtis Nordby, who were the couple's attendants when they were married June 25, 1930 at the Grygla Lutheran parsonage by Rev. Anderson. As an added feature in the program, Mrs. Shay's son, Larry, and Nordby's daughter, Charlene, sang.

At the reception that followed, Tilda Erickson and Alice Sistad cut the four-tiered anniversary cake baked and decorated by Thelma Thomas. Ida Paulson and Hazel Smith poured the coffee. The guests were registered by Signe Teigland and Anna Lee as Sharlotte Baasen and Alpha Johnson served the punch.

Nordby was born in Hatton, N.D., and moved to Grygla in 1901. His wife, Dorothy, is a lifetime resident of the Grygla area, where she was born in a log house. After their marriage, they lived and farmed north of Grygla until several years ago when they retired and moved into Grygla. The home, which they purchased is the former parsonage in which they were married 50 years ago.

Special Meet Set To Discuss Rental Units

suits against merchandise on the sidewalks?".

After further discussion, alderman Bill Penning introduced the resolution to table the discussion until the August 12 meeting, seconded by alderman J. J. Womack. A roll call vote was the issue left Mayor Bob Carlson voting against the resolution, while all other council members were in favor of it (aldermen Milan Borsheim and Ambrose Wysoski were absent from the meeting).

In a second resolution, alderman Dr. Don Goodrich moved to accept the recommendation of the planning commission to comply with the present ordinance. Alderman Ole Engelstad seconded the motion, and a roll call vote again left Mayor Carlson voting against the issue while all other council members were in favor of the second resolution.

In further council action, council members agreed to grant the variance request from Falls Red Owl for the placement of a wall sign on their building in excess of the permitted 100 square feet.

Also, Kaye Marvin appeared before council members in behalf of a Holiday Fair proposed to be conducted November 15. Her request was for the use of the city auditorium free of charge, for the fair.

"This will be its (Holiday Fair) fourth year in existence," she said. "In the past, we have given the proceeds from the fair to the United Way. Our request this year is to donate the money to the hospital auxiliary which will give the money to the hospital for a heart monitoring unit in the intensive care unit at the hospital."

Alderman Penning introduced the resolution to provide the use of the city auditorium at no charge for the use of the Holiday Fair, with the inclusion that a profit and loss statement would be provided by Marvin to the city clerk at the conclusion of the fair. The resolution, seconded by alderman Goodrich, carried.

Because only one bid was received on the three-quarter ton utility van for use in the water department, it was resolved to readvertise for bids August 11 at 2 p.m. and to reject the bid received. Specifications on the bids which were previously opened at 2 p.m. July 21 would be written to include 1980 vans as well as 1981 vans.

Introduction of the resolution by alderman Penning to deny the request for a peddler's license from Goff and Curly Produce of Tulsa, OK was passed following a second from alderman Goodrich. The license would have permitted the peddlers to go from house to house selling oranges and grapefruit.

Fire department request to donate a 1941 fire truck to the Pennington county historical society carried with the provision that the truck be housed inside a building at the historical society immediately.

In finance committee recommendations, it was recommended that bids would be advertised for improvements at the sports arena with bids to be opened at 2:30 p.m. August 12. Included in the recommendation was to use liquor store funds to pay for the project with the city engineer's estimated cost of $46,000 for paving and sidewalks, based on the 1980 street project.

Resolution to proceed with work at the entrance to the Thief River Falls sports arena as indicated in the original 1980 plan accepted at the July 8 council meeting excluded work on Brooks avenue and Fourth street.

Further change orders resulting from last evening's meeting involved the new manhole at First street and Horace avenue at an estimated additional cost of $730 for each manhole, and an additional sidewalk on the west side of Horace avenue between First and Second street at an additional cost of $1,300.

Discussion of a new airline schedule was introduced by George Singer, airport manager at the Thief River Falls regional airport. The schedule, which would be effective after Labor day, would include a time change and the deletion of one flight per day from Thief River Falls, giving only two flights per day. It was noted that the scheduling was only temporary and further changes would be made at the end of October of this year.

Airport discussion resulted from the discussion at a July 8 meeting concerning the present air fares set at $158 for a round trip from Thief River Falls to Minneapolis which council members agreed to be high. It had been resolved at that meeting that the request for a meeting with Brainerd, Bemidji and the Local Airline Service Action committee (LASAC) was necessary before further action could occur. Since that time, Robert Wurst, city attorney, and president of LASAC, has written letters to LASAC members and another meeting is scheduled in a month to discuss air fares.

Last evening's meeting was adjourned until the special meeting August 5 at 7:30 p.m.

36th Aquacade Opens On Sat. With Parade

slated for 7 p.m. Thursday, July 31, on Second street between Duluth and Knight avenues. Teams of four or five persons may enter with a $10 entry fee charged. All entry fees will be paid back as prizes divided among the three top teams. Entry may be made by calling Larry Hansen at 681-7069 in the evening.

Aquacade tennis tournament will be held August 1-3 under the direction of Terry Beich. A number of competition classes will be offered and registration is due by July 30. Information and entry forms are available from Beich at Box 505, Thief River Falls, or the chamber of commerce office.

Concluding day of the Aquacade August 3 will feature power boat races, canoe race, 10 kilometer marathon and fireworks display.

Canoe race will start at 9 a.m. at the Smiley Bridge landing and finish at the swimming beach at LaFave park in Thief River Falls. Entry fee will be $5 per two-man team and all of the entry fees will be paid as prizes to the top finishers. Men's, women's and junior classes are planned and registration deadline is August 1. To register contact Jesse Schimke at 681-6430 after 5:30.

The 10 kilometer race (6.2 miles) is co-sponsored by Dallmann Athletic and has classes for women, men 19 and younger, 20-29, 30-39 and 40 and older. Trophies will be given to the top four finishers. The race will start at 11 a.m. Sunday, August 3, at LaFave park and registration will be open until 10:30 a.m. that same day. Project chairmen are Mike Kruse and Larry Mike.

Second annual Spirit Challenge Cup power boat races are scheduled for August 3, in the Eighth street bridge area. Randy Adamson, general co-chairman of the Aquacade, noted that fireworks is provided as a grand finale because of the wide acceptance it has in the community.

"One year we didn't have fireworks and we soon realized what the display had meant to the community, especially the children. Because of the fast rising costs of acceptable displays, the Jaycees have only recently sought outside help to defray some of the expenses. Any individuals, businesses or organizations who would be willing to contribute toward the $1,500 fireworks budget is encouraged to contact John Ihle at 681-1099 evenings.

Aquacade booster buttons are available for $1 from Thief River Falls businesses and button sales provide funds for many events which provide public entertainment during the Aquacade. This year they also entitle wearers to discounts on selected items in a number of local retail stores.

Conference On Prophecy Set At Westaker

Rev. Arnold Stone

Rev. Stone taught the book of Revelation for 10 years at the Lutheran Bible institute in Minneapolis and for 13 years at the Association of Free Lutheran churches Bible school in Minneapolis. The conference will include special music. Free-will offering each night will go to the evangelistic movement.

"The seven letters to the seven churches recorded in the book of Revelation not only describe seven actual churches that existed in John's time, but they are also prophetic of the seven great periods in church history," Rev. Stone says.

Opening services will be as follows:

Sunday, July 27 — "God's Plan for the World", Rev. 1: 8:30 a.m. at Hegland church of rural Strandquist, 9:45 a.m. at Westaker church of Newfolden and 11:15 a.m. at Bethania church of rural Newfolden.

400 Attended Crop And Soil Day July 16

About 400 people participated in the crops and soils field day activity at the Northwest experiment station near Crookston Wednesday, July 16.

The special drought situation seminars were popular throughout the day. Exhibits, including infra-red photo displays, range management, natural history, and plant and pest clinics were busy at the research headquarters.

Attendance was down from the usual 600 to 800 people who have attended in past years, according to B. E. Youngquist, station superintendent, but several factors, including the beginning of harvest for many farmers, was considered responsible. Although a good deal of research material was short, and in some cases obliterated by the extreme drought, a good measure of the possibilities of variety selection and new variety propagation was measured in the field.

A press conference was held with Minnesota commissioner of agriculture, Mark Seetin, and he fielded questions on many subjects including the promptness with which disaster loan payments are being made in the area. Seetin referred to improved marketing controls and improved transportation facilities for the Upper Midwest over this past year. Seetin related to the adjustments that local and Minnesota marketing agencies are making in regard to thde Russian grain embargo and looking to the long-term effects on farm markets.

Special tours during the afternoon attracted groups to the natural history area which is maintained by the experiment station. Afternoon tours also included the horticulture tour and the specialty crops area.

Silage Additive Mixed In Crop Stops Spoilage

Silage additives are added to a crop during the ensiling process in a silo to prevent spoilage due to growth to harmful bacteria and mold and to help prohibit production of butyric acid. Otherwise heating and spoilage reduces the available protein and total feed value of a crop.

The basic kinds of commercial additives — Acid, bacterial and enzymatic — act in different ways to preserve protein. To completely understand their effect, an explanation of the ensiling process is helpful.

Ensiling is a time proven method to preserve a crop by fermentation. The chopped plant, corn for instance, continues respiring after being put in the silo. It utilizes plant sugars, uses oxygen and gives off carbon dioxide, water and heat.

The sooner the proper fermenation process begins, the less chance exists for undesirable results. In the first few days after the crop is chopped, acetic acid is produced. That is followed by production of lactic acid. If formation of these two acids goes properly, after 20 days the silage remains constant.

However, if insufficient acetic and lactic acids form, butyric acid produced by a secondary fermantation could begin. Also harmful bacteria and mold could grow which break down protein and increase dry matter loss.

The end result is silage that will not stabilize during storage, but continues to ferment and deteriorate. And more butyric acid means reduced protein quality and energy content in the silage.

Acid additives introduce acid to the crop, preferably in the field through the chipper. Acids speed fermentation by combining with the acetic acid naturally produced. This helps inhibit mold growth.

Bacterial additives (inoculants), introduce acid-producing bacteria at the beginning of the ensiling process. If the bacteria are alive and grow, spreading through the forage, this process is said to ensure rapid fermentation because considerably more bacteria than are naturally produced speed the process. Some questions still exist as to the survival rate of the bacterial additive before it is used.

The other basic commercial additive, enzymatic, is produced by bacteria for a certain purpose. They are put in the forage to assist bacteria in the fermantation process. An enzyme might break nutrients into a form bacteria can use for food. Because enzymes don't grow or reproduce, they must be of sufficient quantity and mixed evenly in the forage to do the best job.

The function of additives, to cut nutrient losses and help preserve protein quality can result in a higher feed efficiency, and mean higher net profits from a crop.

Babe Ruth Teams Evenly Matched

Four straight one-run ball games, climaxed by an 8-7 district tournament championship game win by the Elks over the Independents proved how evenly matched the two Thief River Falls Babe Ruth baseball teams were this summer.

It was pointed out Monday that officials tried to divide the available talent evenly between the two clubs as the city fielded two teams of 14-15-year-olds for the first time. Program director Ron Novak, Elks coach Bruce Williams, Independents coach Charlie Cornell and Paul Williams, who coached many of the players at 13-year-olds last year, obviously knew what they were doing when they designed the rosters.

The Elks took three of the four games played between the two teams, but the margin was ever so thin. The Elks rallied from a 5-4 deficit with a four-run sixth inning to beat the Independents 8-5 in their first-ever meeting back on June 11. And that proved to be the biggest margin in the series.

First place in the final Lake Agassiz South Division Babe Ruth baseball league standings was on the line when the Elks edged the Independents 10-9 July 10.

But the Independents pulled off a surprise by tripping the Elks 2-1 for the Lake Agassiz South Division sub district tournament championship, winning it by cutting down the tying run at the plate with two out in the top of the seventh inning.

The series continued at the rain-plagued district tournament when the Elks won the first of two expected meetings 12-11 by scoring twice in the bottom of the seventh. The Elks then took the extra-inning championship finale of the double-elimination affair 8-7 a state tournament berth on a bases-loaded, full-county walk in the bottom of the tenth.

It proved to be a memorable summer for those involved in the program.

Miscellaneous

+ New head boys basketball coach at Park Rapids high school will be John Dailey, who coached eight years at Walnut Grove high school and who has been employed in sales work out of Park Rapids for the past five years. Dailey, who will attend Bemidji State University this fall to earn his coaching certification, will replace Jim Weinzierl, who was given a medical release from his coaching duties because of high blood pressure. He may serve the Panthers as an assistant coach.

+ A North Half Region 8AA school still looking for a head basketball coach is Fergus Falls, but athletic director Don Kostelecky of the Otters reports that he has had about 50 applications for the job that opened with the resignation of Ron Larson, who moved to St. Francis. Bruce Bakke of the Fergus Falls Journal said that two candidates who appear to be "sound prospects" are Bob Torgrimson, head coach at West Fargo, and Steve Ondrush, head coach at Edgerton. With Larry Teske resigning as a football assistant at Fergus Falls, Bakke said he wouldn't be surprised to see Ondrush selected as the Otters' coach because he also is Edgerton's head football coach.

+ Park Rapids head football coach Andy McCarty, in a letter to the editor in the Park Rapids Enterprise, thanked the efforts of the Park Rapids Sports Boosters, an organization that was disbanded this summer. McCarty saluted the club for donating countless hours and soliciting "much money for our programs." He added, "As a coach, I hope another Booster club can get started to help us promote our high school athletics. We are faced with cutbacks in all our programs and the community will have to pitch in and help, or some will fold."

Elks Edge Independents 12-11, 8-7 For Title

A pair of one-run decisions over the Thief River Falls Independents Monday gave the Thief River Falls Elks a district tournament title and a berth in the 1980 state Babe Ruth baseball tournament for 14-15-year-olds, scheduled to start Saturday at Morris.

The Elks edged the Independents 12-11 Monday morning to complete a second round district tournament game that was suspended in the sixth inning by rain Saturday. Then after the Independents eliminated Williams from the four-team, double-elimination tournament 7-0 behind Brian Garceau's no-hitter, the unbeaten Elks took the once-beaten Independents 8-7 in a 10-inning finale.

Coach Bruce Williams' Elks, 22-4 for the year, will begin state tournament play at 11 a.m. Saturday against an as-of-yet unnamed opponent. An opening round win in the 12-team, double-elimination, week-long affair would have the Elks playing again Sunday at 11 a.m. An opening round loss would keep them idle until Monday at 5:30 p.m.

Independents, coached by Charlie Cornell, completed their first season of play 19-10.

Elks 12, Independents 11

Trailing 10-5 when rain suspended play in the top of the sixth inning Saturday, the Elks fell behind 11-5 Monday morning before coming back to pull out a 12-11 victory over the Independents in the match-up of first round district tournament winners.

The Elks pulled within 11-10 in the bottom of the sixth, then won it in the seventh when three walks loaded the bases, Doug Odegaard was hit by a pitch to force the tying run across the plate and Tim Bergland drew a two-out, 3-1 count walk to bring in the winning run.

It wasn't a classic duel. There were 30 walks issued in the game, 20 of them going to the Elks, who collected just three base hits off Mark Gere. But Gere walked 16 before being replaced in the seventh by Kirk Jensen, the game's losing pitcher.

Tim Bottem went the distance for the winners, but it wasn't easy as he walked 10 and gave up six hits.

Even though the Elks had just three base hits, Bob Huot, Todd Ortloff and Bergland all finished with two RBI's apiece.

The Independents topped the error charts 5-4.

Elks 8, Independents 7

Play improved considerably in the second Elks-Independents match of the tournament Monday afternoon as the Elks came out an 8-7 winner in a thrilling tournament final.

Three innings produced a 5-0 lead for the Elks, but the Independents went ahead 7-6 with two runs in the top of the seventh. The go-ahead run crossed the plate when Rodney Harder singled, stole second and scored on a two-out single by Dave Stimac.

But the Elks forced extra innings by tying it in the bottom of the seventh. The Elks loaded the bases with no outs. However, that quickly changed with a pair of force-outs at the plate. It became a 7-7 ball game, though, when Doug Odegaard drew a walk to force in the tying run.

In the tenth, the Elks' Brian Kemnitz walked, moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Odegaard and advanced to third on a single to left field by Tim Bergland. Tim Bottem was given a two-out intentional walk to load the bases, but Scott Johnston spoiled the strategy when he drew a full count walk to bring the winning run across the plate.

Bergland had three of the Elks' eight base hits and drove in two runs. The Independents also collected eight hits, with Ryan Bakke, Brian Garceau and Harder all getting two apiece.

Johnston was the winning pitcher. He struck out 12 and walked six. Stimac was the loser, striking out eight and walking 11. The Elks were charged with six of the game's ten errors.

Independents 7, Williams 0

Brian Garceau returned from a vacation trip, stepped into the Independents' line-up and promptly pitched a no-hitter in a 7-0 elimination of Williams.

Garceau, who struck out seven and walked two, was also instrumental in the Independents' offense as he stroked a two-run double in a four-run fourth inning that turned a narrow 1-0 lead into a 5-0 cushion.

Dave Stimac was 2-for-4 to lead the Independents' five-hit attack. He also drive in two runs.

Warroad, Crookston Win In Sub District

Warroad eliminated Roseau 3-0 and Crookston ousted Newfolden 8-2 Tuesday in opening round games of the 1980 Northwest League American Legion sub district baseball tournament.

That sets the stage for Saturday's semifinals at East Grand Forks' Stauss Park when No. 1-seeded Thief River Falls, the regular season Northwest League champion, plays Warroad at 5 p.m. while No. 2-seeded East Grand Forks tackles Crookston at 8.

Championship game will be played Sunday at 2 p.m. at East Grand Forks. However, both semifinal winners will earn positions in the 1980 Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament, scheduled to start July 31 in Red Lake Falls. Sunday's sub district championship game will be used for Ninth District seeding purposes.

TRF Babe Ruth Parents Meet Tonight At 7

A meeting for parents of players on the Thief River Falls Elks baseball team scheduled to compete in the 1980 state Babe Ruth baseball tournament beginning Saturday in Morris are asked to attend a meeting tonight (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

EGF, TRF Win Prep League Games Tuesday

East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls were first round winners Tuesday in the Babe Ruth Prep League district baseball tournament for 13-year-olds being played at Roseau.

Top-seeded East Grand Forks handled Roseau 12-0 while No. 2-seeded Thief River Falls beat Crookston 5-2 to start the four-team, double-elimination tournament.

Games today (Wednesday) matched Roseau against Crookston in an elimination game at 11 a.m., with East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls meeting at 1:30 p.m. The Roseau-Crookston survivor meets the East Grand Forks-Thief River Falls loser in a 5 p.m. elimination game today.

Championship game will be played Thursday at 3 p.m. A second game, if needed, would follow at 5.

TRF Legion 6-4 Winner Over Bemidji Tuesday

Thief River Falls spotted Bemidji a 3-0 first inning lead Tuesday before coming from behind to claim a 6-4 American Legion baseball win.

The victory reversed an earlier 5-3 Thief River Falls loss to Bemidji and ran the winner's record to 24-11 heading into the final game of the 1980 regular season schedule tonight (Wednesday), a 7:30 start on the fairgrounds diamond against a collection of former American Legion baseball performers.

Five Bemidji base hits plated those three first inning runs last night. But Thief River Falls duplicated that effort the next inning with five hits for a 3-3 tie.

Dave Odegaard singled to left with one out to start the second. Mark Harder singled to center; Jim Nyland singled to left; Dave Kays reached base on a fielder's choice; and Greg Harder singled to left. There were also two Bemidji errors and a wild pitch included in the inning.

Thief River Falls made it 5-3 in the third when Jeff Ulrich drew a lead-off walk, stole second and made it to third on a Bemidji error. A single to left by Sanders broke the tie, with back-to-back one-out singles by Odegaard and Harder producing the second run of the inning.

A single Thief River Falls run crossed the plate in the fourth when Greg Harder singled, moved up on an error and a bunt single by Ulrich and scored on a sacrifice fly by Sanders.

Bemidji finished the scoring in the bottom of the fourth when Howie Orgon reached base on an error, stole third and crossed the plate on a balk.

Ulrich, Sanders, Odegaard, Mark Harder and Greg Harder all had two hits apiece in the 11-hit Thief River Falls attack.

TRF Men's Slow Pitch Softball League . . .

National League Leaders Are Scheduled To Meet

Attention in the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association will be drawn to the National League teams this week when East Division leader Consumer's Co-op clashes with West Division leader Schumacher's Tireland at 7:40 p.m. tonight (Wednesday) on Field I.

And in addition to tonight's showdown between the National League division leaders, a Friday night confrontation between First Northwestern Insurance Agency and First Federal at 6:20 p.m. on Field I could produce a new National League West Division leader if Schumacher's Tireland should lose tonight. First Northwestern Insurance Agency and First Federal are deadlocked at 14-4 now, one game behind Schumacher's Tireland following Monday's results when Schumacher's Tireland beat Hardees 10-3, First Federal handled Lon's 15-5 and First Northwestern Insurance Agency topped Dallmann Athletic 12-2 as Tim Wang homered and Clyde Sorenson went 3-for-3 at the plate.

Consumer's Co-op drilled Sound-Level Holthusen 13-1 Monday and still enjoys a two-game lead in the National League East Division where there are three teams sharing second place.

Jon Pinkerton homered as The Club defeated Wilson Brothers, E.T.'s Bees continued a late-season surge with a 24-6 romp over the TRF Aggies and Thorp-KKAQ downed IWA 9-4.

McDonald's-Dallmann was a winner on three fronts Tuesday as the American League West Division leader pounded Terry's Mobil 20-4 and then watched as Bridgeman stunned the American Legion Raiders 9-8 in 10 innings and the St. Hilaire Bears surprised Swenson Plumbing 9-4. The losses cost the Raiders a share of the division lead and pushed Swenson Plumbing two games off the pace.

TRF Merchants maintained their first place status in the American League East Division with a 10-0 shutout of Phase II.

Elsewhere, Furuseth-Nelson knocked off Coca-Cola 12-5, Wagon Wheel completed a doubleheader sweep by beating Popplers-Action Realty 7-4 after opening with a win over Bridgeman and Arnold Realty broke into the win column for the first time with a 13-12 decision over Home Lumber that snapped a season-long 18-game losing streak.

RIVER FISHING seems to be picking up in Thief River Falls if this stringer of walleyes caught by Greg Habedank is any indication. Greg's catch of walleyes weighing seven and one-half, five and two and one-half pounds (two of the smaller ones) was made on Monday in the Red Lake river. He was fishing from a boat and using leeches for bait. Monday evening Jerry Prickett of Thief River Falls fished with Greg and caught a nine-pound, four-ounce walleye.

Saints, Roseau Transport Meet Tonight In Softball

St. Hilaire Saints, the Division I leader, will meet the challenge of Roseau Transport, tied for second place with Ekeren Drug just one game behind the Saints, tonight (Wednesday) at 6:20 p.m. at the East Side diamond in Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league action.

The top three positions remained unchanged in Division I after Monday's games when Ekeren Drug doubled the Ridge Runners 10-5, Roseau Transport edged Pizza Hut 5-4 and the St. Hilaire Saints got by the upset-minded Mush-a-Rettes 6-4 when winning pitcher Stephanie Nelson got out of a two-out bases-loaded jam in the bottom of the seventh inning with a strike-out.

Dwight's Hartz remained in charge in Division II with a 13-2 triumph over Walseth Construction as Kathy Skjerven went 3-for-3 and drove in three runs.

Gwen Nylen hit two home runs and drove in six runs while teammate Marsha Jensen hit two triples and drove in five runs to carry the Health Hustlers to a 24-1 rout of The Barbers.

Linda Rux hit two home runs as Northern Employers Agency knocked off American Legion 12-6 and the Schmidt Stealers decisioned Hydra-Mac 9-2.

Monday also included a 12-12 eight-inning stalemate between Great Northwest Agency and Credit Bureau; which was appropriate since the two teams began the game with identical 3-14 records in Division II play. Becky Barrus homered and Julie Tweeter tripled for Great Northwest Agency.

All of the lanes have been resurfaced during the summer and new Brunswick pins have been purchased, Greelis said. League bowling will begin in September and anyone interested in joining a league is invited to contact the Family Bowl during August.

Greelis added that the same bowling rates as last year will be in effect this year.

Changes Made In Duck Stamp Art Contest

Popular duck stamp contest to select a waterfowl artwork for the 1981-82 migratory bird hunting and conservation stamp will be conducted under slightly modified rules this year if a proposal by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is adopted. The Interior Department agency is asking for public comment on the proposed rules, as published in the June 10 Federal Register. Comments will be accepted through July 10.

The annual competition, which earns the winner a sheet of stamps of his own design, is the only art contest regularly sponsored by the federal government. Last year more than 1,300 persons submitted designs for the duck stamp, the longest running annually issued series of stamps in U.S. revenue or postage stamp history.

To reduce the final number of entries for display and scoring to 400 or fewer, the proposed rule would allow preliminary screening by the panel of judges. In the past all entries have been displayed and scored.

The colorful $7.50 migratory bird hunting and conservation stamp has been issued annually since 1934 and is purchased by duck and goose hunters, conservationists and stamp collectors. Last year's winning entry, an acrylic painting of a pair of mallards by Richard W. Plasschaert of Waseca, Minnesota, went on sale July 1 at post offices and certain national wildlife refuges. The stamp must be carried by every migratory waterfowl hunter 16 years of age or older. Stamp revenues are used to buy migratory bird habitat under a program administered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Proposed rule also clarifies some of the technical requirements for submitting designs, such as how the art work should be matted. It also stresses that the artist is not to sign, initial, or identify his or her work in any way. Entries that are improperly submitted before the final rules take effect will be returned to the artists for resubmission.

Northland Pro, Coca-Cola Win

Coca-Cola got by Melvies 6-4 and Northland Pro ripped Schmidts 11-0 Tuesday in the Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league.

Coca-Cola built a 6-1 lead, then held off a seventh inning Melvies rally to take a 6-4 decision in the first game of the night.

It was scoreless until the bottom of the third when Coca-Cola's Roger Cota doubled to left field with two out. Rob Almquist reached base on an error that sent Cota to third and Gordie Peterson followed with his fourth home run of the year, a shot that hooked around the right field foul pole as it cleared the fence.

Bruce Johnson led off the bottom of the fourth with his second home run of the year. Karl Chromy of Melvies responded with a solo homer in the top of the sixth.

Paul Walker's two-run single in the seventh made it 6-1, but Melvies cut it to 6-4 in the bottom of the inning on an RBI single by Erv Melvie and a two-run triple by Rick Kofstad.

Log Rolling

For the first time the national log rolling contest for pros and amateurs will be held in Minnesota. The event will be held in conjunction with the St. Croix Valley Lumberjack Days July 31 - August 3.

The St. Croix Valley was one of the largest logging areas in the world. The annual cut that came down the river in 1888 was 300,000,00 log feet. That was enough logs placed end to end to go around the world more than two times. Every spring the river became a highway of logs. The event was called the annual log drive.

River pegs were the men that ran the logs in the log drives. Clad in staged pants just below the knees, pike pole in hand, and spiked boots, these men would ride the logs as they journeyed down the river to the sawmill. They would jump from log to log, pushing, pulling and steering the logs as they scurried along with the river current. The spiked boots they wore would dig deep into the bark of the logs, giving them the necessary grip for maneuvering the logs with their pike poles. The job was dangerous and physically demanding. One had to have quick feet and good balance to stay on top of a moving log. Falling into the water among the swift moving logs was sometimes fatal. Because of this river pegs were paid top dollar.

Today the men and women that log roll are serious athletes. They train hard year round competing in a series of contests in Canada and the U.S. The sport of log rolling is governed by the international log rolling association which was formed in 1898. Its function is to sanction tournaments, set the rules and regulations, and establish teaching programs.

The day of log drives and lumber barons came to a close about the time World War I began. But the colorful era lives on in the St. Croix Valley where each summer LLumberjack Days is celebrated. This year during the celebration, July 31 through August 3, the national log rolling championships will be held. Men and women from Canada and the U.S. will gather and use straining muscles, lightning fast feet and eye blurring moves in order to defeat their opponent to win the national crown. The site will be on the St. Croix river at the levee in downtown Stillwater. A log boon will be constructed to break the waves and create a bowl assuring the best of log rolling conditions.

Logging has died out in the area, but this year Lumberjack Days will bring back the favorite sport of the American Lumberjack — called log rolling.

Porcupine Has Top Defenses In The Woods

Nature has provided some of its lesser creatures with strange defensive weapons: the armadillo has its armor, the skunk its smelly spray and the octopus its camouflaging ink cloud. But in its arsenal of odd protective devices, none is more repulsive to the would-be attacker than the quill of the porcupine, according to the current issue of Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine.

Porcupine does not shoot its quills, as many Americans once believed, but when cornered it smacks its enemy with a bristling tail, leaving the attacker with a paw or face full of quills, says the National Wildlife Federation's children's monthly. Those quills are actually needle sharp hairs.

"The quills are very hard to remove," Ranger Rick reminds vacationers who are bound for the woods, "because they have tiny hooks, or barbs, on their tips." The more the victim moves, the more the barbs — like fish hooks — dig into his skin.

Average adult porcupine is armed with about 30,000 of the black-tipped quills. With these defenses working for them, it is not surprising that more porcupines are killed by cars and trucks than by other animals. Only occasionally does a wolf, bobcat, or fox manage to flip a porcupine onto its back and bite into its soft belly, Ranger Rick reports.

The spiny creatures are found throughout Canada and most of the northern half of the U.S. Just as birds molt, porcupines lose their quills, the magazine report advises. But don't plan on catching one that isn't bristling. New quills grow in as fast as the old ones fall out so that the shy, touch-me-not rodent is never left without its strange defense mechanism in working order.

Warroad Will Host Women's Softball Meet

A 16-team women's slow pitch softball tournament will be played Sunday, Aug. 10, in Warroad.

Sponsored by the Warroad American Legion Post 25, the tournament will feature first place prize money of $125. All players must be at least 18-years-old.

Entry fee is $30. Entry deadline is August 4. Tournament director is Cheryl Sandy, Warroad, MN 56763, telephone 386-1099.

Newest Listing Of Endangered Species Posted

—Official U.S. list of endangered and threatened wildlife and plants worldwide now carries 773 species of which are native to the United States.

"That's up 77 from last year," Dr. Paul Opler of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's endangered species office said, referring to the previous list published in January of 1979. "But that increase," he was quick to add, "has more to do with improved research than the continuing, general deterioration of the world's wildlife environment. We're simply finding more plants and animals that need to be classified."

An "endangered" species if one this is in danger of extinction throughout all or a significant part of its range. A "threatened" species is one that is likely to become "endangered."

Additions made to the list of endangered and threatened species in the last year and a half come from every part of the earth. Two of them — Guatemalan fir and the Chilean false larch — are the first foreign plants ever to be listed. Other species include the Caribbean monk seal, West African manatee, North China Sika deer and the Kern (California) primrose spinx moth. During the last 18 months, 36 plants (mostly cacti), 29 mammals, nine reptiles, four fish, one bird and two insects were added.

Basic cause for endangerment of either animals or plants is loss of habitat.

Many of these species are important for economic, commercial, and historic reasons. Some, such as a number of cacti native to the southwestern U.S., recently have become extremely popular house and garden plants. Others have suffered exploitation and destruction of their habitats for a much longer time.

Since at least the time of the ancient Mayan Empire, Indians have burned the highland forest habitat of the Guatemalan fir to plant corn. The practice is still followed, the reproduction of the rate trees if further limited by the grazing of sheep and goats.

Decline of the Chilean false larch, a tree that may live for 3,000 years and grow to be 150 feet tall, began almost 400 years ago when the Spanish Conquistadores learned of the amazing durability of its wood. Widely exported since that time, it has been nearly eliminated from all assessible sites.

Seamen of those times replenished their shops' stores with fresh meat from the Caribbean monk seals that inhabited the waters of the West Indies. Later, the seals were taken for the oil and pelt trade. But it was modern-day commercial fishermen, who saw the seals as fish predators, that may have delivered the final blow to the animal. No monk seals have been officially recorded since the early 1960's. Toe totoaba, a huge sea trout that grows to 225 pounds and lives in the Gulf of California, is another valuable animal that has suffered from commercial exploitation. In 1905, according to an old biological survey report, "totoaba thronged the east shore of Lower California and choked the mouth of the Colorado River." Since then, however, it has been fished almost to the point of extinction.

Once a plant or animal is listed as threatened or endangered under the Endangered Species Act, a variety of activities involving the species are strictly regulated. For United States species, laws provide for protection of its habitat and limit the conditions under which it may or may not be taken, or used in interstate commerce, or exported to other countries. The laws also cover all listed foreign species, controlling how any of them may or may not be imported into the United States. In addition, the U.S. Government offers technical assistance to State and foreign governments for the conservation of endangered species.

Since the Endangered Species Act of 1973 was enacted, the U.S. list has almost tripled from 106 to 276.

THIS SIX-POUND Northern was launched at 7:45 p.m. last Wednesday near the Golf Club on the Red Lake River in Thief River Falls by Gene Leppala, son of Fred and Marion Dablow of Thief River Falls. The fish was caught on a black lead-head jig and minnow.

Water Death Toll Is Rising In Minnesota

-Minnesota's waters have claimed 42 persons so far this year, up slightly from the total one year ago.

The total of 42 is broken down into 23 nonboating fatalities and 19 boating deaths according to Kim Elverum, boat and water safety coordinator for the Department of Natural Resources.

Elverum said that nearly all of the boating fatalities involve small open fishing boats where the victim fell overboard or capsized the craft.

To prevent these types of tragedies Elverum advises:

+ Always wear a personal flotation device or life perserver. In several of the more recent accidents persons who were wearing these devices survived while their unfortunate companions drowned.

+ Watch the weather. In Minnesota, summer storms can easily capsize a small boat. These storms usually come from the west of southwest. If you are caught out in rough weather, head the boat into the waves at an angle.

+ Use the proper navigation lights at night. State law and common sense dictate that you "light up your life" when boating after sunset.

+Remain seated in a small boat when starting an outboard or netting a fish.

+ Learn more about boating safety. Remember, most boating deaths in Minnesota involve fishermen. Even though you may not be a boater in the true sense of the word, you should take the time to learn the basics of boating safety.

Note Increase In Kirtland's Warbler Count

Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) announced that its 1980 census of the Kirtland's warbler population in Michigan was up 30 pairs from last year's census. The inventory revealed 242 pairs of Kirtland's warblers in the six-county survey.

Kirtland's warbler, a federally endangered species, is dependent on Michigan's jackpine habitat for nesting. The tiny bird winters in the Bahammas and returns to Michigan each year to nest.

Thomas Sheldrake, an endangered species biologist with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) in Minneapolis, said that although the 1980 census was good news, the Kirtland's warbler population is still precariously scant in total numbers.

"Our cooperative goal for the Kirtland's warbler is 1,000 pairs," he said. "This target population level can only be achieved by increases in the nesting habitat."

Sheldrake said biologists conclude that it will take roughly 36,000 acres of prime nesting habitat to achieve a population of 1,000 pairs. Currently the warbler population in Michigan was around 17,000 acres of nesting habitat.

FWS said the recent Mack Lake fire did not affect the warbler population. The birds simply left the area for other sites when a large scale fire swept through the area.

The DNR's 1980 census figures are based on counts of singing males. It is generally acknowledged that the singing male has a mate, hence the count of singing males is an estimate of pairs in an area.

MGRI Supports Efforts Toward Bonding Issue

A resolution calling for passage in November of a constitutional amendment lifting limits on state trunk highway bonds was unanimously supported by the board of directors of Minnesota Good Roads, Inc. (MGRI) at its July 9 meeting.

"The amendment is of critical importance to the future of Minnesota's highway system, since the state — not surprisingly — has found it impossible to sell highway bonds at five per cent," said Rep. Tom Osthoff (DFL, St. Paul), author of the amendment.

He stressed that although the action will lift the $150 million bonding limit and five per cent interest ceiling, it does not mean unlimited funding for trunk highways. "The actual amount of each individual bond sale and the interest rate at which bonds are sold must be determined by legislative action," Osthoff said.

He called on Minnesota Good Roads to aggressively seek public support for the amendment since failure to vote will be counted as a "no" vote. Constitutional amendments require a clear majority in order to pass.

Echoing Osthoff's viewpoint were Rep. Shirley Hokanson (DFL, Richfield) and Sen. Roger Laufenburger (DFL, Lewiston), both members of the select legislative committee on transportation.

Hokanson, who also serves on the governor's highways for economic vitality task force, urged rural and urban voters to join in a partnership for transportation, seeking an overall system which benefits all Minnesotans.

Laufenburger challenged MGRI to use its influence to assure that the bonding amendment is successful. "The needs have been clearly established, the problem to be solved is funding," said Laufenburger. "Transit, rail and water all receive dollars from the general fund; however, highways continue to rely on the user fund. The proposed amendment will reflect the philosophy of the user fund — those who use roads pay for them."

Richard Braun, commissioner for the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT), pledged his support to MGRI since transportation funding is "one of Governor Quie's top priorities — and the only increase in spending he's calling for."

As a result of the persuasive remarks by Osthoff, Hokanson, Laufenburger, Braun.

PENNINGTON CO. BOARD OF EQUALIZATION

July 23, 1980
Official Proceedings
Pennington County Board Of Equalization
July 7, 1980

Pursuant to Law the Pennington County Board met as a Board of Equalization in the Commissioners' Room in the Courthouse in Thief River Falls at 10:00 A.M., July 7, 1980. The 7th of July being the 1st Monday after the 4th of July.

Members present: Hoffman, Grabanski, Koop, Stenberg and Tasa. All present. County Assessor DeHahn, Deputy Finstad and County Attorney Dave Olin were also present.

The appeal of Joel Sorvig for consideration of a reduction of his value was presented as carried over from the July 1st meeting. After discussion the value was reduced from $33,900 to $29,280 upon motion by Koop seconded by Stenberg and declared unanimously approved.

The reference in the 1st of July meeting to the value of Mike Trudeau acreage in Silverton was merely a resolution of an understanding and did not require further consideration.

Detailed comparison sheets were studied that showed comparative values for each Township and City from 1975 to 1980. The average value of tillable acres were indicated on maps to show comparisons in the County. The total values to apply on the 1980 payable 1981 budgets indicate a real increase in values, partly because of the property being revalued and in part because of the Legislative action that provided for the elimination of the Limited Market values. The total values will not be known until the State valued property has been certified (pipe lines, etc.)

Moved by Koop seconded by Stenberg that the General Property Assessments in all classes and Mobile Home Assessments for the entire County be accepted as returned by the Local Boards of review, and further that the Market Value of all Agricultural Lands, Buildings, Improvements and Machinery of the various Townships and Cities be accepted. Motion declared unanimously carried.

Moved by Hoffman seconded by Grabanski that meeting adjourn. Motion carried.

Horse Racing Returns Here At County Fair

Horse racing returned to the Pennington county fair in a flurry of hooves, mud and wheels Sunday afternoon after an absence of many years. Even then it was a day late, having been postponed from its scheduled Saturday night date to Sunday afternoon due to a steady rainfall.

About 750 racing fans were in the stands to watch the rescheduled events, however, and the attendance and participation by the racers have caused the fair board to consider another horse racing program for next year.

Ron Klinke of Fosston won the pony chariot race, capturing first place in both heats of the event and posting the fastest time of 38.32 seconds with a different team in the second heat.

In the open chariot class, where many of the two-horse teams were thoroughbreds, August George of Tappan, N.D., captured first place in 29.62 seconds.

The quarter-mile open class, which was comprised mostly of quarter horses, was won by a horse owned by August George and ridden by Wayne Schindler. Time for the winning heat was 28.21 seconds.

Three-quarter mile open was raced by three thoroughbreds with the August George entry again winning in a time of 1:28.5 with Schindler riding. Second place went to Dwaine Tveit of Roseau with Alfred Nelson up and third to John Rouland of Thief River Falls with "Bimbo" Omdahl riding.

Ben Hur race for chariots pulled by ponies hitched four abreast was won by Ron Klinke in 35.17 seconds for the quarter mile. Dwaine Tveit of Roseau was second and Norman Svegdahl of Greenbush was third.

Half-mile open was won by the Duane Tveit horse with Alfred Nelson up in a time of one minute and five seconds. Bill Yonke's horse from Newfolden placed second with "Bimbo" Omdahl in the saddle and Ken Mund of Fargo had the third place entry with Clay Sorteberg riding.

The 100-yard sprint, with horses released from the starting gate, was won by August George of Tappan, N.D., in 7.75 seconds with Schindler as the jockey. Duane Paulson's horse was second with Omdahl in the saddle while Ron Sundby of Verndale rode his own mount to third place.

Stock horse class consisting of a race down the track, around a barrel and back was won by Betty Job of Windsor, N.D., in a time of 15 seconds flat.

Final event of the day, the chuckwagon race, drew only two entries for the quarter mile classic. Arlen Tveit of Roseau and Norman Svegdahl of Greenbush finished in a dead heat as judges were unable to determine a winner at the finish line.

ONE JUMP BEHIND coming out of the starting gates but all alone at the finish of the half-mile open race Sunday afternoon at the Pennington county fair was the Dwaine Tveit horse ridden by Alfred Nelson of Roseau. Others shown at the start are horses owned by Kenny Mund of Fargo, N.D. (right) with Clay Sorteberg riding and by William Yonke (center of Newfolden with Don "Bimbo" Omdahl in the saddle. The Tveit horse finished the race in a minute and five seconds on an extremely heavy track following Saturday night's rains which postponed racing to Sunday.

IN FIRST PLACE but almost exhausted is this horse owned by August George of Tappan, N.D., and ridden by Wayne Schindler, in the three-quarter mile open during Sunday afternoon's horse racing program at the Pennington county fair. The race was run in 1:20.5 on a heavy track made almost soupy in spots by Saturday night's rain.

QUARTER MILE OPEN race Sunday at the Pennington county fairgrounds saw these three horses bunched as they neared the finish line. In the lead and winning the race in 28.21 seconds was a horse owned by August George of Tappan, N.D., and riddeny by Wayne Schindler. Second was the Dwaine Tveit horse from Roseau ridden by Alfred Nelson and third was the horse owned and ridden by Ron Sundby from Verndale.

AFTER TOOTH EXTRACTION
Following the extraction of a tooth, the wound in the jaw usually heals within a few days without complications. If some swelling develops in the face, this is usually nothing to worry about and it can be minimized by the application of an ice bag to the affected region.
Actual bleeding should stop shortly after tooth removal. Nature's way of stopping the bleeding is the formation of the blood clot in the socket. Let nature do its job and do not disturb the formation of the clot. How?-
Do not suck on the hole for starters. Do not take hot food or drinks for five or six hours, by which time the clot should be formed. If you get hungry, drink a cold drink or eat a soft, cold food. Avoid eating hard foods, and don't smoke.
If delayed bleeding occurs, fold a piece of gauze and bite on it for a half hour. A moistened tea bag will also do the job. If bleeding persists, by all means, call your dentist. Free bleeders, especially people with hemophilia, should tell their dentist BEFORE extraction so that he can take special precautions.

Card of Thanks

We would like to thank our dear friends that helped us in the cleanup job after a tornado hit our farm on Friday evening and demolished a new one-year-old garage, many small buildings, a windmill, the roof of the house and many trees. We would like to thank Marie Lehrer, Polly Longtin, Louette Busse and Karen Lehrer for preparing and bringing food. Also, thanks to Allen Remick for coming so promptly and supplying us with electricity.

Again, many thanks. Words cannot express our feelings. God bless all of you dear people.

I would like to extend a special thank you to everyone — my dear family, relatives and friends who remembered me with cards, gifts, telephone calls and more than that for your prayers. A special thank you to Dr. Pumala and also Dr. Pinsonneault and the entire staff at the Warren hospital for the very special attention that was given to me while I was a patient there.

County Board Proceedings

July 23, 1980
Official Proceedings
Board of County Commissioners
Pennington County, Minnesota
July 14, 1980

Pursuant to Law the County Board met in the Commissioners' Room in the Courthouse in Thief River Falls at 10:00 A.M., July 14, 1980.

Members present: Hoffman, Grabanski, Koop, Stenberg and Tasa. All present.

Wayne Altveby, Director of Library and Board members of the Northwest Regional Library Board appeared and discussed a new Library agreement to be effective Jan. 1, 1981 to support the Library Budget. The agreement provides for the several supporting Counties and Cities to enter into a Joint Powers Agreement to support the Library budget. The County Attorney was requested to study the agreement and assist in any adjustment deemed necessary. Moved by Grabanski seconded by Stenberg that the County enter into a Joint Powers Agreement with the present supporting Counties and Cities subject to approval of the County Attorney. Motion carried.

Woodrow Almquist and Ron McKercher appeared with complaint and request for compensation for apparent damage to Sunflower fields by spray that apparently drifted onto the fields while County forces were spraying the road ditches for brush control. Gary Novak accompanied the men as an observer. The Engineer indicated that the supplier had represented the product used as one that would not have a drift problem. The Board instructed the Engineer to work with the supplier and the insurance company covering the County operations in order to get a satisfactory settlement of any alleged damage by County forces.

Kay S. Kraetz of the U of M of Crookston appeared representing a R.S.V.P. (Retired Senior Volunteer Program) which gets Senior Citizens involved in various programs to help those in need and to provide an outlet for the unused talent of persons still able to do certain things and need something to do. The various programs may produce about 75 volunteers and with those persons providing a service it was proposed that the County should provide an insurance to cover the individual while performing such services. Primarily it would be a supplementary insurance for drivers should they be assisting with transportation. The Board took the matter under consideration to be taken up again at the next meeting.

The minutes of the meetings of June 3, 26 and July 1 were read and approved as read.

County Surveyor Vernon Holmstrom presented a Plat for preliminary approval that he is preparing for Melvin Swenson on property in Ives Addition in St. Hilaire and adjacent unplatted property, as well as a Plat he is preparing for Roger Forsberg on Property in Rocksbury Township along CSAH No. 7 East of the Airport road. It was suggested that more area may be included but that the preliminary Plats be approved, upon motion by Grabanski seconded by Koop and declared carried.

Moved by Stenberg seconded by Hoffman that Sheriff Richards be authorized and instructed to purchase a used Highway Patrol car from the State of Minnesota for a sum not to exceed $1,250.00 and the Auditor be authorized and instructed to draw a County Warrant in payment of said car upon presentation of an invoice. Motion declared unanimously carried.

Moved by Hoffman seconded by Stenberg that the Road Committee and the Bridges and Culvert Committee inspect roads, bridges and culverts at 9:00 A.M., July 29, 1980. Motion carried. Commissioner Hoffman introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption: RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR THE ISSUANCE AND SALE OF $400,000 GENERAL OBLIGATION STATE-AID HIGHWAY BONDS OF 1980.

WHEREAS, this board has under consideration the construction of various improvements including County State-Aid Highways numbered 26 and 17; and WHEREAS, the estimated cost of such construction work is $400,000.00; and WHEREAS, pursuant to the provisions of Minnesota Statutes, Section 162.181, it is possible for the County to issue bonds in anticipation of the allocation of County State-Aid funds in an amount not to exceed the total of preceding two years' State-Aid allotments, for the purpose of establishing, locating, relocating, constructing, reconstructing and improving County State-Aid Highways in the County; and

WHEREAS, the total of State-Aid allotments to the County from the County State-Aid Highway fund of the State of Minnesota for the calendar years 1978, 1979 and 1980 are $586,242, $684,193, and $737,082, respectively, as certified by the Minnesota Commissioner of Transportation; and

WHEREAS, it appears that the allotment from the State of Minnesota from County State-Aid funds will be more than ample to support a bond issue of $400,000:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the County Board of Commissioners of Pennington County, Minnesota, as follows:

1. It is hereby determined to be necessary and expedient to issue the negotiable coupon $400,000 General Obligation State-Aid Highways Bonds of 1980 of the County to defray the expense of the aforementioned improvements.

2. In order to provide financing for the improvements, the County shall therefore issue and sell Bonds in the amount of $393,000, in order to provide in part the additional interest required to market the bonds at this time, additional Bonds shall be issued in the amount of $7,000. Any excess to the purchase price of the Bonds over the sum of $393,000 shall be credited to the sinking fund for the Bonds for the purpose of paying interest first coming due on the Bonds. The Bonds shall be issued and sold in accordance with the terms of the following Official Notice of Sale:

Date and Maturities

The bonds will be dated August 1, 1980, will be in denomination of $5,000 each and will mature on May 1 in the following years and amounts: 1983, $20,000; 1984, $20,000; 1985, $60,000; 1986, $60,000; 1987, $60,000; 1988, $60,000; 1989, $60,000 and 1990, $60,000.

Interest on the bonds will be payable on May 1, 1981, and semi-annually thereafter on each May 1 and November 1. All bonds maturing on the same date must bear interest from date of issue until paid at a single uniform rate, not exceeding the rate specified for bonds of any subsequent maturity. Each rate must be an integral multiple of 5-100ths of 1 per cent, and no rate of interest nor the net effective average rate of the issue may exceed 12 per cent per annum.

Paying Agent

Principal and interest will be made payable at any suitable bank recommended by the purchaser and approved by the County Board, and the County will pay the customary charges for this service provided that such recommendation is received within 48 hours after the sale, and the Board will select the paying agent if the recommendation is not approved.

Each bid must be unconditional and must be accompanied by a cashier's or certified check or bank draft in the amount of $8,000, payable to the County Treasurer, to be retained by the County as liquidated damages if the bid is accepted and the bidder fails to comply therewith. The bid authorizing the lowest net interest cost (total interest from date of bonds to stated maturities, less any cash premium or plus any amount less than $400,000 bid for the principal) will be deemed the most favorable. No oral bid and no bid of less than $393,000 for principal plus accrued interest on all of the bonds will be considered, and the County reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive any informality in any bid.

A REAL VACATION

They had waited for this real vacation — this long trip — for years. But this time it was different, this time he wouldn't be going back to his job.

At first, retirement seemed frightening, like being shut off from the mainstream of life. He had seen too many men age beyond their years, after their career ended. He had no wish to be on the sidelines. He and his wife could have moved to a warmer climate and just have taken it easy. He didn't want that. So, before he left home, he had a long talk with his minister.

He found that there was plenty a man his age could do. Financially secure, he could afford to volunteer for a job. In fact, through the Church there was work he could do that would spread to the farthest corners of the world.

Right now, he is enjoying this vacation. He is savoring every moment of it. Because, when he gets home, he's going to lead a full and useful life. And that's the way he wants it.

Coverage Varies In Homeowners Plans

In the excitement and anxiety of buying a home, it is not uncommon for proud new homeowners to acquire insurance without fully understanding the coverage they've purchased or possible alternatives.

"Details vary depending on the state you live in and the company you insure with," states Roger B. Knauth, director of personal lines insurance at a major insurance company. "But there are some things everyone should know about homeowners insurance — whether you live in the city or the suburbs, whether you own a house, live in a condominium or rent."

Many companies have simplified their policies to make them easier to understand, so it's worthwhile, if you're currently insured, to read your policy carefully. If you have questions or doubts, make a list to discuss with your insurance agent.

You'll be more comfortable discussing specific coverages and needs if you are familiar with the basic features of homeowners insurance. Homeowners insurance includes two kinds of protection.

The first type is property coverage protecting the home and personal possessions (like furniture and clothing). The insurance will either be a "specified perils" policy providing protection against listed happenings (like fire, vandalism, windstorm or theft), or "all risks" coverage on the dwelling to get protection against any occurrence except those listed as exclusions. Some of the things excluded are damage resulting from neglect, floods or the consequences of nuclear accident. Personal property, it should be remembered, is protected only against listed perils.

Liability coverage is the other type and protects you in case of accidental property damage or bodily injury to others. Exclusions to the coverage are listed in the policy. Some important ones are liability resulting from auto accidents or business pursuits. Except for the maximum payment (which depends on the amount of insurance coverage you buy), homeowners insurance policies provide substantially the same liability coverages.

For those who rent, renters insurance protects personal belongings — furniture, clothing and appliances, for example — against specific perils. It gives the same liability coverages as other homeowners policies. And, if you've spent your own money improving your apartment or rented house, some renters policies will cover damages to those improvements. With this, as with any policy, it's essential that you know the limits — how much your policy will pay — for each part of the coverage.

If you own a condominium, you need insurance protection for your personal possessions, for improvements and decorations to the structure that you paid for, and for that part of the condominium structure that you own individually. Normally, the condominium association carries insurance on commonly-owned real property, including some real property directly related to individual units as well as common facilities like a club house or swimming pool.

A condominium policy provides protection against specified perils and the same liability coverages as other homeowners policies. It's important to remember that a condominium's "improvements and betterments" coverage (for things like carpeting, kitchen cabinets and lighting fixtures) is usually limited to $1,000. Increased coverage is available as a separate option. Optional coverages are available for other needs unique to condominium owners — including loss assessment and owner's rental of the unit to others.

How much coverage do you need? Since the purpose of insurance is to enable you to rebuild or repair damage, you must know the current replacement cost of your house — how much it would actually cost to rebuild at today's prices. Most insurance companies and agents will provide a questionnaire to help you determine the replacement cost of your home. Results of the questionnaire are used along with construction cost data from reputable appraisal companies to obtain a reasonably accurate estimate.

If your home is insured to at least 80 per cent of what it would cost to replace it, a partial loss to the dwelling will be paid without penalty or assessment for depreciation as long as the damaged property is rebuilt or replaced. But if a home insured at less than replacement value is totally destroyed, the policyholder faces a substantial out-of-pocket expense to rebuild. So most companies urge that you review your coverage annually and raise your policy limits to keep pace with inflation.

Most companies insure furniture and other personal possessions for 50 per cent of the coverage on the home itself. So if you insure your home for $60,000, your belongings would be insured for $30,000. Personal property is usually covered for its depreciated value, although some companies offer the option to purchase "replacement cost" coverage for personal belongings.

Some personal belongings are susceptible to loss — cash, securities, silverware, jewelry, furs or guns, for example — and you should be aware that homeowners insurance generally gives only a limited amount of coverage on these. You can, however, buy increased coverage for these items. And some companies offer special policies for valuable items that give broader protection against losses. With the value of many items increasing rapidly, you should make a point to consider whether you need extra protection.

How can you save on insurance costs? First, the deductible for your property coverage will affect the cost of your policy. The deductible is the amount you agree to pay for a loss before the insurance takes over. If you have a $100 homeowners deductible, for example, and have a $600 loss, your insurance pays $500. With deductibles, you gain the benefit of substantially lower premiums while keeping protection against serious financial losses.

Second, you may be eligible for a discount rate if you have certain protective devices in your home. Talk with your agent about a discount rate if you have a burglar alarm, a fire alarm or smoke detectors.

Finally, remember that some buildings are more fire resistant than others; some communities have better fire protection. These and other factors are considered when an insurance company determines the total cost of your policy.

"Your home is likely to be your most valuable asset," Knauth pointed out. "In the same way you look after other major investments, you should get the best possible advice on protecting your home. A professional insurance agent can cut through the complexities in language to help you get the coverage suited to your family's needs."

Update On MN. Laws Covering Handicapped

Concerns for handicapped people in Minnesota are in part a responsibility of the Minnesota department of public safety.

One of the chief concerns is parking for the handicapped, a law which was passed in 1975. According to the state council for the handicapped, another state agency, one of the primary needs is more understanding of the law.

The law says that designated handicapped parking spaces on either private or public property are reserved for physically handicapped persons. Violations by those who are not disabled are petty misdemeanors and subject to fines up to $100.

Before a disabled person is allowed to park in a designated space, the vehicle being parked must display special handicapped license plates or a handicapped parking certificate obtained from driver and vehicle services, a division of public safety.

Vehicles displaying special license plates or parking certificates are allowed to park at public meters or in time zones without having to return to feed a meter or move the car before the time limit expires. That privilege is extended to those from out of state if they have the required certificate, insignia or license plate. The law was passed by the Minnesota legislature in 1979.

The 1980 legislature passed two laws relating to the handicapped. One requires that all state organizations holding meetings must have places accessible to handicapped persons. The other law requires groups sponsoring meetings to provide auxiliary aids if the handicapped person(s) makes a request for such an aid.

Another law passed in 1979, but not frequently publicized, requires gasoline stations having both full-service pumps and self-service pumps to provide full-service at self-service prices to those cars having handicapped parking stickers or license plates.

Convicts Draw Social Security

Following is from the Washington Report:

Convicts who have a lot of time on their hands while in prison, have figured out a way to collect as much as $500 monthly from the federal government and the problem appears to be growing.

Two Republican lawmakers have introduced legislation to close the loophole in the Social Security laws which the prison inmates have been using to collect disability funds.

"Whoever said that 'crime doesn't pay' apparently never heard about the thousands of convicts who collect disability payments at great cost to the American taxpayer," commented Sen. Malcolm Wallop (R-Wyo.), sponsor of the loophole-closing measure.

Wallop said that the convicts can collect the money in numerous ways, but one of the most popular, which has spread through the prison grapevine, is to claim mental disability.

"Because Social Security records are confidential, there are no firm figures on how many inmates may be taking advantage of this loophole," Wallop said.

"The Social Security Administration estimated in 1970 that only 4,000 inmates were collecting disability payments. But Rep. William Whitehurst (R-Va.), who has introduced similar legislation in the House, puts the figure closer to 30,000 at a cost of $60 million," he added.

Interviews conducted with inmates and prison guards nationwide have revealed estimates that thousands of convicts are participating in the disability-payments scheme. Convicts are reportedly using the money to buy such products as color televisions and sporting goods, while others are putting the funds into investments.

The Alaska Question

Following editorial is from the Morris Sun:

The U.S. Senate begins debate July 21 on a bill which will determine the status of millions of acres of land in the state of Alaska. The outcome of this debate could have a far-reaching impact on America's economic and political future.

Alaska, which encompasses one-fifth of the land mass of the United States, contains more than one-third of the nation's known energy reserves. Estimates of Alaska's oil potential vary between 50 and 75 billion barrels. In comparison, Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil producer, claims proven reserves of 110 billion barrels.

Congress is faced with the task of providing for future development of Alaska's energy-rich areas while preserving the unique environment and ecology of the state. House and Senate bills dealing with the question are world apart in their present form.

The Senate bill, approved in the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee by a 17-1 vote, would place 120 million acres, an area larger than the state of California, in federal conservation systems and "special use" areas. The Senate bill does not provide for immediate development of Alaska's energy-producing areas. However, it does call for study of the state's petroleum potential and the possible ecological consequences of oil exploration, with the idea that development might be permitted if the benefits outweigh the risks.

The Senate bill does not completely satisfy most Alaskans, who feel that they should have more of a say in the determination of land use in their state. Their claims are supported by Alaska's enviable record in the field of environmental protection. In a sense, the Alaska lands questions is similar to the Boundary Waters Canoe Area controversy, where inhabitants of a remote area, who have proven that they are good stewards of the land, are told that they must bow to the whims of centralized authority.

But any misgivings Alaskans have about the Senate bill are overshadowed by their fear that something like the present House bill may become the law of the land. The House bill would establish 155 million acres of new and redesignated conservation units. Nearly one-half of this land would be designated as "wilderness". The wilderness designation, which would apply to the area considered to have the greatest oil potential, absolutely prohibits any form of development forever.

About one-half of the oil used in this country is imported, and the supply could be interrupted at any time by political turmoil. Against such a backdrop, it is utterly unreasonable to advocate permanently locking up domestic energy resources which could prove to be vital to the security of the nation. For this reason, we strongly oppose the wilderness designations contained in the House bill. The version of the Alaskan lands bill approved by the Senate committee strikes a much better balance between energy and environmental concerns.

Below Average Taxes

Following editorial is from the Rapid City (S.D.) Journal:

No one likes to be below average. But when it comes to paying local and state taxes, South Dakotans can take some consolation in the fact that per capita local and state tax burden is below both the national average and median.

A study by Commerce Clearing House, based on U.S. Census Bureau data, shows that Americans paid an average of $888 in taxes to local and state governments in fiscal 1978. That was an increase of $75 per person from the previous period.

The median state-local per capita tax burden was $848, which was a $99 jump from fiscal 1977.

The per capita figure for South Dakota for 1978 was $683 which was a $54 increase over fiscal 1977. That figure ranked the state 37th among the 50.

The highest per capita tax burden was $2,871 in Alaska and the lowest was $553 in Arkansas. Both states retained that respective position from the year before, although the per capita bite in Alaska dropped $425 compared to fiscal 1977.

New York was second to Alaska for the highest per capita tax load with $1,308 and the District of Columbia ($1,425) nosed out California ($1,227) for third place. Five other states — Wyoming, Massachusetts, Hawaii, Nevada and Minnesota — also had per capita local and state taxes in excess of $1,000.

At the other end of the scale, three states, Mississippi, Alabama and Arkansas — collected under $600 per capita in property, sales and state income taxes.

California remained in the lead in total collections by bringing in $27.3 billion to state and local coffers. New York followed closely with $23.2 billion. Illinois and Pennsylvania were the only other states to realize $10 billion.

No one is happy about their taxes. We cite these figures only to show that if misery likes company, South Dakotans have plenty of company.

Penalizing Pensioners

Following editorial is from the Boston Herald-American:

Increases in the consumer price index for the first three months of the 1980 have triggered an automatic increase of 14.3 per cent in social security benefits, beginning in July. This is good news for the 36 million Americans receiving social security checks, but bad news for those looking at the increased payroll taxes needed to support the program.

The $17.6 billion in benefit-increases will bring the cost of social security to about $135 billion in 1981 — a figure already anticipated in the budget now before Congress.

While the maximum monthly benefit will rise to $653.80 with the July increase, the average benefit will come to about $330 — a sum that does not go far for anyone relying entirely on social security for support. By choice or by necessity, many senior citizens are supplementing their retirement income by working.

This has led Sen. Barry Goldwater and 19 other senators to propose that Congress eliminate the $5,000-a-year limit on the amount a person retiring at 65 can earn without sacrificing a portion of his or her social security benefit. They base their argument not only on today's economic facts of life, but on fairness.

Whether older persons earn extra money or not should have nothing to do with their social security benefit, the senators maintain. The money that working people pay into social security is theirs, and the government's only responsibility is to pay it back.

The point is well taken.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

The Wisdom of Big Brother III

Cheer up Virginia, there really is a free lunch. Only on Capitol Hill it's been euphemistically renamed The Official Expense Allowance. The Washington Post recently revealed that a fat chunk of the $40 million the House will spend on "office operations" this fiscal year will actually be for cushy perquisites of public service.

The nice thing about these publicly-funded official expenses is that they can apparently be used whenever and wherever our Congressmen need them — either here in Washington, or back at home during one of those "district work periods," which used to be called a Congressional recess. Indeed, in reviewing the 1979 expense records, it's easy to understand why the Post likened them to "a great mail-order catalogue of life's amenities," for they include: Rented cars, first class air fares, charter flights, meals in fine restaurants, entertaining of constituents, and tens of thousands of dollars for postage stamps to subsidize personal mailings.

In fairness, many members of the House do not abuse their expense allowances, and the Senate operates under much stricter guidelines for its own allowances.

Son of Sam Sabotaging Social Security

David (Son of Sam) Berkowitz, who is serving 315 years in prison for his grotesque murders of six people, was last reported receiving $300 a month in Social Security payments. Social Security officials say the benefits are virtually automatic and are sent to his estate since he has been declared too mentally ill to hold a job.

Actually, Berkowitz is not alone. By one estimate, Social Security is providing as much as $60 million at taxpayers expense to imprisoned criminals. Who said crime doesn't pay?

All of Which Reminds Me...

The Social Security Administration has admitted that the error rate in welfare payments in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program is more than 10 per cent a year. Money sent to ineligibles, or, otherwise overpaid, now exceeds $1 billion.

The Social Security folks did a much better job, however, administering the overall Social Security program itself. Errors there "only" amounted to $209 million during the latest recorded 12 months, although, of course, paying people like David Berkowitz is not considered an error.

Latest Bulletin from the Energy Front

The National Treasury Employees Union recently compiled a questionnaire and sent it to a random sampling of Department of Energy Employees. Some of the more interesting responses to the survey revealed:

That 80 per cent thought management was poor, or exhibited no leadership; that 94 per cent believed DOE is being politicized by the Administration, and that 67 per cent were considering leaving their jobs.

A Confession from One Who Should Know

Sam Brown, director of the federal Action program, recently told a group of Vista volunteers, community organizers and other activists: "Despite our best intentions, the government programs we have supported have unwittingly made the poor dependent and created a new bureaucratic and expert elite that too often denies poor people the opportunity to help themselves.

". . .We have, in short, created a system of helping that encourages the poor to be passive rather than active, dependent rather than self-reliant, recipients rather than producers, (and) clients instead of people proud of their own work."

Loans

Ask how you can qualify for a low interest loan from Minnesota Housing Finance Agency and Northern State Bank.

With the coming summer months, you may be thinking about making some energy-conserving improvements on your home or that long needed addition to your home. If you qualify for an MHFA loan, you can make those changes, and pay low interest! The interest rate on an MHFA loan is from one to eight per cent depending on your income; you can't get much better than that!

To qualify: you must own the property you want to improve, you must be a reasonable credit risk, and have an annual adjust gross income not exceeding $16,000.

Here's how and where to apply: Decide what home improvements you wish to make. Get bids from the contractor(s) you have selected or cost estimates of materials needed.

Take this information to Northern State Bank, and they'll give you the appropriate forms to fill out, and answer any questions you might have.

Now is the time to make those improvements.

Laget Brings Visitors From Many States

The Setesdalslaget of America had a very successful 71st convention in Oklee June 28, 1980.

Eight hundred people attended and they came clear from Washington Dc., California, Washington, Montana, Iowa, Washington, Colorado, North Dakota and 22 towns from Minnesota and many visitors were there from Norway that were visiting relatives in the area.

The Setesdalslaget sponsored three groups of Norwegian entertainers from Norway and they gave their best in Norsk culture.

A light rain fell, the wind blew and it was cold for late June. The Norwegian-American second, third and fourth generations came to listed from miles around. They want very much to keep in touch with the old country and preserve the Norwegian culture.

President Oliver Lien, Master of Ceremonies opened the afternoon program by singing the National Anthem, Star Spangled Banner and Kan Du Glemme Gamle Norge accompanied by Alice Skreland on the piano. A welcome was given by Mayor Earl Swanson who recently returned from a three weeks stay in Norway.

Dreng Bjornaraa of Minneapolis brought greetings from the Bygdelags. Dreng presented a beautiful rosemaling "bolle' bowl to the Setesdalaget president Lien from Sigurid Bjornaraa of Northern California in memory of his sister Mrs. Erick (Selma) Johnson who gave the Lag twenty-seven years of faithful and outstanding work. Father Bjorgulv Borriaraa was president of the Setesdals Laget for 32 years.

Dreng introduced Mr. Oscar Tytswa of Norway, a rosemaling instructor at DeKorah, Iowa.

The outstanding musical Olson family from McIntosh entertained for the afternoon and evening program. Grandpa Charley Olson, age 80 years young, played on the button accordian accompanied by his son Clifford on the accordian. Clifford rendered several selections on the accordian. Daughter Sheila played several selections on the guitar and also the piano. Holly Olson of Minneapolis sang Green Grass of Home and Hilsa Dem Dar Hemma and was accompanied by brother-in-law Clifford on the accordian. Joe Bak of Fertile sang several Norsk songs accompanied by his guitar.

Also featured was a Setesdoel Audrey Stawarski of Oklee singing Valsen til Mor accompanied by another Setesdoel Truman Sorenson of Grand Forks on his guitar. Audry gave a humorous reading about a Norwegian girl living in America and she wrote a letter to her sister in Norway on her life in the USA.

The Jessheim school band, Jessheim, Norway arrived late for the afternoon program. The band was stranded in Crookston due to heavy rains, making it impossible to drive their bus. The group of 80 school students preformed a beautiful one hour concert. The band motored to Grafton, N.D. for an evening concert.

The Nidaros Norwegian Folk Dancers from Trondheim, Norway were the highlight of the evening program. The young group were talented as folk dancers, musicians and singers. The group danced various dances, Snoos Dance demonstrating how the Norwegian girls hate snoos and they danced the Norways yarn weaving, demonstrating the spinning wheel. Other dances were Spring Dan, Gangar and various folk dances accompanied by an eight string Hardanger violin musician.

The Oklee community club hosted the group to a supper at local restaurants. The Nidaros teenagers were overnight guests at homes in the Oklee area. Numerous door prizes were given away at each program sponsored by the local merchants and businesses.

Reidar Aknes and his orchestra played for the Setesdalslaget special dance held at the City auditorium with a large crowd in attendance.

The Setesdalslaget souvenir pins designed by Ethel Wiseth of Goodridge along with Norwegian records were sold at the Stevne.

Viking Church Celebrates 75th Anniversary

Dr. Cecil Johnson, bishop of the Northern Minnesota district ALC, gave the sermon during Sunday services celebrating the 75th anniversary of Zion Lutheran church of Viking recently.

The congregation was organized Dec. 12, 1905 and is affiliated with the American Lutheran church. Bishop Johnson spoke on the theme, "What's Going On In Zion." Scripture lessons were read by George Erickson, vice president of the congregation and by Duane Krohn, president, while the Gospel lesson was read by Rev. K. David Gabrielsen.

Special music during the services was provided by the Zion men's quartet composed of Roger Anderson, Dean Broten, Rev. Gabrielsen and Richard Erickson. Additional music was provided by Cynthia and Karen Ness who presented vocal selections.

Mrs. Gloria Ness, organist, played the prelude, which was followed by the order of service taken from the Lutheran hymnal of 1912.

The two-day celebration began with the 75th anniversary banquet which was conducted at the Viking school auditorium. Duane Krohn and LeRoy Gustafson, trustee, gave the opening greetings and lunch was served by the Mission Covenant people. Two musical selections were sung by the citizens for Christ group from Zion Lutheran church. Lloyd Ranum, mayor of Viking, extended his greetings to the gathering.

Greetings were also extended by former pastors Rev. Arthur Grorud, Centerville, SD; Rev. Victor Anderson, DeQueen, AR; Rev. T.J. Weltzin, Watford City, ND; Rev. Wesley Mathre, Audubon; and Rev. Ralph Hofrenning, Harvey, ND.

Other activities during the celebration included a fellowship dinner and an open house at the new parsonage, Oak Ridge and Zion parish. An informal program was also conducted in the church with Rev. Gabrielsen as host.

Prelude during the program was played by Elvera Samuelson and Gloria Ness on piano and organ. Opening hymn was followed by devotions led by Mrs. Irene Grandstrand, American Lutheran church women (ALCW) president.

Marvel and Virgil Hjelle sang the song they wrote entitled "Tribute to Viking." An accordion solo was presented by Rev. Weltzin and Rev. Hofrenning played several selections on the piano. A greeting was given by Erwin Aaseby, chairman of th Oak Ridge church, sister church of the Viking parish.

Kristi Lind and the Zion quartet also presented musical selections.

CRAZY DAYS In T. R. Falls This Thursday Don't Miss It!

Ripley Alliance Brings Aid To Battered Women

Martha Rogers Ripley Alliance for Battered Women currently operating in Thief River Falls is a non-profit organization that provides services for abused women and their children.

The shelter located here serves the counties of Pennington, Marshall, Norman, Polk, Red Lake, Kittson and Roseau, and includes the following in its program:

(1) Emergency housing; a protective place for a woman to come with her children. The shelter is staffed 24 hours a day and has a full security system in the building. The shelter also provides emergency housing outside of the shelter through a network of volunteered safe homes which may be used when the shelter is full or when immediate transportation to the shelter is unavailable;

(2) Advocacy: focus of the staff in working with residents of the shelter is to listen to each woman's needs. Each resident is encouraged to decide for herself what is right for her. Once she has made this decision, an advocate works with her to find appropriate community services and to help enforce her rights in the legal, medical, welfare and financial systems of the community.

This is necessary, according to a representative of the alliance, because for a long time the battered woman has been viewed as a "sick person" rather than as the victim of a sick environment and so she is not taken seriously and often her needs are not seen as valid. After the woman leaves the shelter, continued advocacy and support are available as long as they are requested.

(3) A 24-hour crisis line is available into the shelter. Police, hospitals and social services throughout the region have the shelter's number as do current telephone books.

(4) Information and referrals to the necessary agencies and organizations are helpful to women.

(5) One of the most valuable services the shelter can provide to abused women is its support groups (comparable to the Alanon groups of this area), where women can come together to share and give moral support to one another.

(6) The Ripley alliance also has a community education program with a trained speakers bureau available for speaking engagements. So far five advocacy training seminars have been conducted to recruit and train volunteers and one seminar has been conducted for law enforcement people in Region 1.

Minnesota is leading the nation in programs for victims of domestic abuse, the alliance representative said. Emergency housing and advocacy for battered women

Miller And Tanem Vows Exchanged In St. Paul

Miss Sally R. Miller and Gregory J. Tanem exchanged marriage vows recently at a three o'clock ceremony at Faith Lutheran church in St. Paul.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Harriet Miller of St. Paul and the late Harry Miller. Parents of the groom, a former resident of Thief River Falls, are Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Tanem of Inver Grove Heights. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hanson and Mr. and Mrs. John Tanem of Goodridge. They were honor guests at the wedding.

Officiating at the ceremony was Rev. Charles C. Grant, 92, pastor at Faith Lutheran church for the past 66 years. Louise Borak, St. Paul, was the organist, and Curtis Johnson, Inver Grove Heights, sang, "We've Only Just Begun," "You Light Up My Life," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Candelabra and arrangements of pink and white carnations graced the altar.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her uncle Herman Theis of St. Paul She was attired in a floor-length gown of candlelight knit featuring a pleated skirt, with chapel-length train. The fitted bodice was styled with bishop sleeves and a high neckline with Venice lace trim. A headpiece of Venice lace held her fingertip veil of ivory netting. She carried a crescent bouquet of miniature pink roses, white carnations and babies' breath.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Pamela Tanem of Inver Grove Heights, a sister of the groom. Holly Hodge of St. Paul was junior bridesmaid. The maid of honor was attired in a gown of pink voile with a rose print, styled with a full skirt, bustled in back. An open neck capelet topped the gown. A similar gown, only in solid pink voile, was worn by the junior bridesmaid. Both carried bouquets of pink carnations and white daisies with pink ribbon streamers.

HAPPY 25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

From The Kids

Temperance Unit Studies Home Protection Plan

"Home Protection," was the theme of the July meeting of the Thief River Falls Alice Mae Stuart Women's Christian Temperance union held at Our Savior's Lutheran church.

To correspond with the theme, and in observance of National Independence day, the devotional meditation was based on Heb. 12:28-29. It was noted "That as a nation, we are proud of our independence from the British rule, gained on July 4, 1776, and since then God has blessed us and allowed us to become a great nation. Just as our nation has freedom from Great Britian, we, as individuals, can also have freedom from the slavery to sin. This can be accomplished only by accepting it as a gift from God. As freedom is accepted, it must be shared by service to fellow man, regardless of color, race or creed. Failure to do so had led to many of today's problems." The meditation concluded with the reading of the home protection plan, II Chron. 7:14: "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

The program included the reading of several articles and clippings. Agnes Longren read the Times article, "Decline noted in number of women smokers," stating that although today's nationwide smoking rates for teenage girls and adult women are declining, the decline isn't as great as for men and boys. It was also noted that since the ban on cigarette advertising on public airwaves in 1971, tobacco companies have stepped up their campaign to promote smoking as "young and beautiful," in splashy magazine and billboard ads.

The article "College opens cocktail lounge to teach responsible drinking," was read by Geneva Overum. That project, financed for a three year period by the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism at the cost of about $43,000 a year, is taking place in a $12,000 cocktail lounge at the University of Washington. The program is not designed to study alcoholics or problem drinkers, but is aimed at helping people become responsible drinkers. Volunteer college students, at least 21 years old, are selected for the experiments. They are offered free beer and wine and permitted to drink as much as they ordinarily do. Subjects are then videotaped through a one-way bar mirror in an effort to detect the development of early warning signals that may indicate future drinking problems and to observe the development of normal drinking patterns."

A later article, "University Dispenses Free Drinks," from the National Statesman, on the same subject, concluded with "the most highly educated Americans are also the most heavily addicted to alcohol. Every Gallup poll ever taken on this subject shows that the higher the level of formal education received, the more likely an American is to drink liquor. Surely this says something loud and clear about the kind of 'education' most Americans are receiving."

Miss Overum also read the article, "The Baby is the Key", which opens the door to love to everyone, responsibility for parents, accountability for the church, and opportunity for the child.

"Young Alcoholics are drinking their brains away," was read by Olga Larson. Although cirrhosis of the liver has long been the medical consequences of alcoholism Danish scientists in Copenhagen report that brain damage appears sooner and more severely than liver damage. Researchers reported in the British medical journal Lancet on results of studies on 37 alcoholic men, all under age 35. The most remarkable finding in the group was that more than half showed signs of intellectual deterioration. In 11 patients the deterioration was so severe that they were occupationally disabled. In 18 patients atrophy or wasting of the actual brain tissue, particularly in the areas associated with higher thought processes, was noted."

Ruth Haugan read "Thurmond has sobering idea about liquor," based on his fight to put labels on bottles of liquor warning that booze may be hazardous to health. In the Senate vote of 68 to 21 in favor, Minnesota's Republicans split on the vote. Sen. David Durenburger voted to kill the labeling proposal while Sen. Rudy Boschwitz favored the warning. Thurmond's argument carried to the floor was not that booze was immoral, but that it was unhealthy. He stated that liver cirrhosis caused by alcohol abuse is the sixth most common cause of death in the United States. He also stressed medical findings about fetal alcohol syndrome, such as birth defects and retardation from use of alcoholic beverages by the expectant mothers. He asserted that alcoholism is one of the most preventable maladies in man's catalog of diseases.

Valborg Hanson read an article, "Phase Out Tobacco" from the local "Times". Following the reading of the article, members commended the Times for the articles that appeared on drinking and smoking in the June 16, 30 and July 16 issues of the paper.

The meeting concluded with the reading of a thank-you note from the National WCTU for the $100 donation to the new film project, and the note from the Oakland Park Nursing home for hosting the residents' birthday party, which included a program and refreshments.

Scripture Reading for Today: Acts 18:1-11

THE BOLDNESS OF BEECHER

Be not afraid, but speak, and hold not thy peace. Acts 18:9

GOD commands His servants to proclaim His Word with courage and boldness. In His strength they must declare the truth unflinchingly and not be afraid to condemn evil. One who was always ready to enter the fray when he saw social or moral problems that needed to be solved was Henry Ward Beecher. Back in the 1800s, he was recognized as an oratorical giant who vigorously opposed sinful practices. Some may not agree with his theology, but none could ever doubt his dedication in fighting slavery, immorality, and drunkenness.

Once during his pastorate in Indianapolis, he preached a series of sermons against gambling and the liquor trade, denouncing the men who profited by these evils. The Gospel Herald described his uncompromising stand when on one occasion he was accosted on the street by a would-be assailant. Pistol in hand, the man demanded a retraction of the declarations he had made from the pulpit. "Take them back right now," he said with an oath, "or I'll shoot you on the spot!" "Shoot away!" was Beecher's response as he calmly walked on. After he had taken a few steps and nothing happened, he hurled over his shoulder this parting remark, "I don't believe you can hit the mark as well as I did!" Dumbfounded by his holy boldness, his enemy realized that Beecher could not be bluffed.

Perhaps this fearless preacher was not wise in taking his life in his hands. One thing, however, is certain: We must be as forthright as he was in fighting the forces of evil. Asking God to strengthen our hearts, let's be willing to speak out boldly for the truth. —H.G.B.

The life that counts must toil and fight,
Must hate the wrong and love the right,
Must stand for truth by day and night;
This is the life that counts. —Anon.

THOT: A man is likely to fall for error if he's afraid to stand for truth.

Community Ed. Program Begins In Plummer

In September of 1979 the board of education of Plummer public schools elected to have a community education program. Since that time the advisory council has been formed and after much work the program is well on its way, offering something for all ages, from pre-schoolers through senior citizens.

Participation has been excellent, considering that some people must be gone at times for vacations, work, Bible camp and other commitments, according to the advisory council.

Activities that are offered are varied. Swimming has the largest number of participants, with as many as 80 on a given day. Other activities, and some with different age groups, include baseball, arts and crafts, open gym, women's exercise, adult recreation, men's softball, gym with organized activities, story hour, women's softball, tennis and horseshoes. There have also been trips for senior citizens.

Members of the advisory council are Cliff Randall, chairman; Carol Torkelson, vice-chairman; Lorraine Fisher, secretary; Fern Hesse, Loretta Hesse, Jerry Freitag, Art Frolland and Roger Walter, directors; and Brad Rosten, student council representative. Community education coordinator is Milton Anderson. Hired as director of summer recreation is Gary Brantl. Diane Zimpel is teaching the arts and crafts classes.

There will be adult classes offered during the school year.

Alliance To Help Battered Women Formed

and their children are only the beginning steps in ending family violence. Ultimate goals are to have working programs for the abusing partner.

According to a recent news release, parents who fight physically in front of their children provide a role model for them. Children who observe violence between their parents or who have been victims of violence themselves are most likely to engage in conjugal violence as adults. Fifty per cent of those who observed conjugal violence presently fight physically with their spouses.

In a study by John Flynn, "Recent Findings Related to Wife Abuse," interviews with 33 victims by Flynn yielded the information that of those assailants whose family histories were known, over half had parents involved in an assaultive situation. Two-fifths had been abused as children. In one-third of the cases, the assaulter was said to abuse his children.

Another important issue relates to spouse abuse and child abuse. A large percentage of husbands who assaulted their wives also abuse their children.

Issues of "battered women and family violence" are being talked about in homes, churches, clubs and organizations throughout the region. As the consciousness raising progresses and people learn the reasons battering exists and why women stay in violent relationships, many women will be taking a long hard look at their relationships and asking themselves many questions: "He's only hit me a few times, am I a battered woman?" "He never hits me, but threatens to, quite often. Will the time come when he carries out those threats?" "At times I feel responsible for making him angry, but do I really deserve to be beaten... hit... slapped... pushed... kicked... threatened... etc. because of it?" "Does anyone have the right to abuse or threaten to abuse another for any reason?" "What is a battered woman?"

WAITING THEIR TURNS to bat are these youngsters from Plummer who are taking part in one of the activities (softball) included in the community education program at Plummer. Included in the program are activities for all ages.

A manual written and distributed by the state department of corrections states that any minor who is married or has a child or an adult woman in a relationship with a man who physically abuses or threatens to abuse her to the point where she changes her behavior in order to attempt to avoid further abuse or avoid increasing severity of abuse can be defined as a battered woman.

Other questions surrounding the battering issue may be: "Are there laws that protect me and my children?" "Is there a safe place for me to go with my children if I decide to leave?" Is there help for my husband if I decide to stay?"

These are only a few of the many questions surrounding battering issues. Now there is a place to go for answers.

The Ripley Alliance for Battered Women in Thief River Falls will be having an open house later this summer. For more information concerning the shelter or to help stop the cycle of abuse in a family, call the crisis line at 218-681-5557 or business line at 218-681-5596 in Thief River Falls.

Dear friends,
In grief, people will talk about the last thing the deceased person said and did — the 'last' time mother went to church — the 'last' time dad went fishing. The 'last' thing daughter said when she left the house. It is important for them to tell you these things, which they will cherish and remember always.
Respectfully,

Federal Waste, Extravagance Costly Items

The nation's capitol of Washington, D.C., has the largest press corps in the world. At last count, approximately 3,000 correspondents and photographers, including television representatives, are accredited or assigned to cover Congress.

Across the city a contingent of 1,700 media representatives is accredited to cover the White House, and at the national political conventions in July and August, a throng of press people covered the Republicans in Detroit and will cover the Democrats in New York.

But you can count on one hand — possibly one finger — the number of investigative reporters assigned full-time in Washington to tracking down waste and extravagance in the federal bureaucracy — probably history's greatest dispenser of favors, which spends and misspends over $600 billion a year, according to the chamber of commerce of the United States.

Donald Lambro, special projects reporter for United Press International, one of the major wire news services, is a unique reporter in Washington and may well be the only one assigned exclusively to investigating and writing — in his words — "about the issue of excessive, extravagant, unnecessary and ineffective federal spending."

It's a "monumental" story, he believes, but largely "unreported by the media." Despite UPI's interest, Lambro feels the story still is not covered adequately, and that is why he has written a new book, "Fat City: How Washington Wastes Your Taxes." Four years ago he wrote a similar book, "The Federal Rathole."

Lambro talked about his new book with another renowned critic of government waste, Dr. Richard L. Lesher, president of the U.S. chamber of commerce, as guest on "What's the Issue?" a network show produced by the chamber.

"Fat City" is loaded with "specifics" documented by Lambro.

How many taxpayers are aware, for example, that they must pay:

—$100,000 a year to provide masseurs for members of Congress who take rubdowns in the Capitol gyms.

—$8 million a year for travel services.

—Up to $750 million a year to provide groceries and other commodities at cut-rate prices for retired military personnel, many of whom hold second career jobs.

—$2 billion a year for a consultants' industry mushrooming around Washington which frequently engages in duplicative, needless or wasteful studies.

—Several hundred thousand dollars to a consultant to learn whether community block grants help the poor. (When the consultant replied it was not possible to tell, the government reauthorized the study for three or four more years.)

—$25 to $50 billion a year in waste and abuse of federal programs because the programs are so numerous and broad that they present vast opportunities for chiselers and mismanagement.

—The salaries of 63,000 federal workers who have been added to the payrolls since the Carter administration took office.

—$50 to $60 million a year more than needed for a host of advisory commissions and panels which perform little practical service.

—High interest rates in order for the federal government to borrow billions to distribute under revenue-sharing programs to states and cities, which often have surplus funds.

According to Lambro, these are simply a few of the examples of waste that could be eliminated in full or in part if Congress and the White House took seriously the task of riding herd on spending by the agencies — and their own.

The media, like the bureaucracy, tends to dismiss stories of waste and mismanagement as old news. But just imagine how many new stories could be ferreted out if the media were to assign say a hundred or so investigative reporters full-time to the biggest story in town.

Health Care Committee Has Vacancies

Foundation for health care evaluation announces five vacancies on its consumer liaison committee as a result of terms expiring this month. The committee responds to consumer concerns in the areas of health care cost and quality.

The consumer liaison committee appoints consumer representatives to the foundation's board of directors and numerous committees and pursues other ways that consumers may influence decision-making in the health care system. Members of the committee provide input from the consumer point of view in such areas as hospital medical audit, quality of care studies and the evaluation of care given to nursing home residents.

The consumer liaison committee meets once a month to hear reports from its representatives who participate in these discussions and to review additional activities.

The foundation for health care was formed in 1969 by metropolitan area doctors and at first reviewed doctors' fees as a result of complaints from consumers, insurance carriers and others. The foundation later expanded its peer review efforts to evaluate health care quality as well as cost.

The foundation's physicians now work with the federal government to monitor the care given hospital and nursing home patients at government expense. This program extends beyond the Twin Cities to the part of Minnesota north and west of the seven-county metropolitan area. The foundation also will contract with government agencies, insurance carriers and private industry for similar health care review programs.

For an application form and other details about serving on the foundation's consumer liaison committee, contact Marlyce Helm, Public Affairs Coordinator, Foundation for Health Care Evaluation, 20 Washington Ave. S., Suite 400, Minneapolis, MN 55401; telephone (612) 340-8500.

ELLEN CUMMINGS, first aid director from Fargo, explained first aid techniques to a group of Cadette scouts who attended Camp MOE all last week. Girls attending the week outing included those from Red Lake Falls, the Grand Forks Air Force Base, Thief River Falls, Greenbush, Bismarck, Crookston, Roseau, Karlstad and Lancaster.

THIS COLLECTION of filmstrip and cassette tapes was presented to the Northwest educational cooperative service unit (ECSU) Thursday by the Agassiz regional environmental education council (REEC). Howard Teague of Bemidji (right), regional coordinator for the Minnesota environmental education board, and Alice Hofstad, media coordinator for ECSU, are shown with Wayne Alfveby, librarian for the Northwest regional library. The audio-visual sets were selected for coverage of northern Minnesota's ecological, natural resource and wildlife information for use by the area's schools. Subject areas are bog communities, forest fire ecology, Minnesota prairie, water birds, white-tailed deer, wildlife territories, marshes, and rivers and streams. Letters will be sent to northwestern Minnesota schools in the near future informing teachers of the availability of these materials.

Voters Urged To Pre-Register For Primary

Voters are urged to pre-register for the September 9 primary so they will not have to wait in line to register on election day.

Nearly 80 per cent of Minnesota's 2,892,000 qualified voters are registered. In order to be eligible to vote, persons must register if they are not currently registered; if they have changed their name or address since they last registered; or if they have failed to vote in the past four years.

In order to be qualified to register, a voter must be a citizen of the United States; be a resident of the state for 20 days preceding the election; be 18 years of age by election day; and not be under guardianship over his person, adjudicated insane, or convicted of treason or felony without having his civil rights restored.

"It appears that we lead the nation in the registered voter category," Joan Anderson Growe, secretary of state, said. "But, we can do better. It is very important that people pre-register or they run the risk of not being allowed to vote on election day if they do not have proper identification."

PRESENTING HER farewell speech during the 1980 Miss Thief River Falls scholarship pageant is Jane Olson, Miss Thief River Falls of 1979-80 who gave up her crown Saturday evening to the Miss Thief River Falls for 1980-81, Alice Melgard of Warren, who was also crowned Miss Warren this spring.

WIC Clinic Dates Slated During August

Certification of participants for WIC (Women, Infants and Children) food supplemental and nutritional education program will take place during August, according to Muriel Roley, WIC coordinator. There are immediate openings for new clients.

WIC is a United States Department of Agriculture sponsored program which makes nutritional education and certain food supplements available to people who have been certified.

Briefly, people who may be eligible for WIC include: pregnant or lactating women who are shown to have a nutritional or medical risk; infants from birth to 12 months of age with a shown nutritional or medical risk factor; children from one year to five years of age with nutritional or medical risk factors. Also, to be eligible persons must be residents at one of the four counties served by the four County WIC program, which include Kittson, Marshall, Pennington and Red Lake counties. Family income may also be a determining factor.

Because the participant load is increasing, it is necessary for potential clients to call or write the four County EPS service in Warren to make a WIC certification appointment. New clients will be seen by appointment only. Initial certification will take approximately one to one and one-half hours. Potential clients must bring the children they wish to have certified with them. Immunizations will be given from 9 a.m. to noon.

All WIC clinics begin at 9 a.m. Please be prompt for all appointments.

Schedule for August is as follows: Grygla, August 4, community center — contact Lillian Sundberg at 294-6146; Newfolden, August 5, Bethlehem Lutheran church, 9 a.m. to noon; Hallock, August 6, Presbyterian church; Red Lake Falls, August 7, St. Joseph's Catholic church, 10 a.m. to noon, contact Inter-County Nursing Service at 253-2796; Thief River Falls, August 8, Redeemer Lutheran church; Oklee, August 11, Zion Lutheran church; Karlstad, August 12, First Lutheran church; Warren, August 14, Evangelical Covenant church.

Wheat Price Increase Would Boost Economy

An increase in U.S. wheat prices to a range from about $5 to $6 per bushel for the 1980-81 season would increase farm income by 26 to 34 per cent and have a positive effect on the overall nation's economy, according to a Minnesota What Grower's funded study conducted by Chase Econometrics for the National Association of What Growers.

According to Don Loeslie, a Warren wheat producer and chairman of the NAWG's economic research committee, the NAWG study assumes alternative higher export projections, which would generate higher farm-gate prices. Export assumptions under the study ranged from 1.7 to 1.9 billion bushels in 1980-81, and from 1.6 to 1.8 billion bushels in 1981-82. Wheat exports for 1979-80 were just over 1.3 billion bushels.

The study results indicate that the country's real gross national product (GNP) would increase by $1.4 billion if prices averaged $5.10 per bushel for the current season. In addition, 20,000 new jobs would be created. Farm income increased by 21 per cent and 34 per cent, to $28 billion and $30.9 billion, when the average wheat price in the study was increased to $4.77 and $5.70 per bushel respectively. The $5.70 per bushel seasonal average price would add further to the nation's GNP, while raising the consumer price index (CPI) by only two-tenths of one per cent, according to the Chase Econometric study.

Midwest Co-Op Medalist Sale Hits $4,390

Midwest Breeders cooperative opened the doors of its Stewartville sire housing and production facility to the public July 12, 13 and 14 for an open house and two big sales. Over 750 people walked through the barns at Stewartville viewing various exhibits and Midwest's junior sires in waiting.

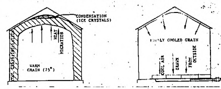
The medalist sale that evening brought to the sales ring 35 daughters of Midwest's proven Holstein sires, including 33 by sires currently active. These cows and heifers averaged $4,390, the highest medalist sale average ever, and grossed a total of $153,650.

The top cow, a VG-85 daughter of 21H280 Ford, sold for $15,000. She has just broken the national senior two-year-old milk production record and will finish this lactation at the farm of her consignors, Les and Kris Terpstra of Seymour, Wisc. Then she'll be off to Arie Breedyk of Waukena, Calif.

The Terpstras will be filling that empty spot in the barn with a 21H184 Sky Chief daughter purchased at the medalist sale. This cow, bred to 21H280 Ford, is under contract for a bull calf for Midwest, and brought her consignor, Ray Koepp of Fremont, Wisc., $11,300.

Following the judging contest, the Futurama heifer sale averaged $1,970, with sales totaling $117,045 on 59 head, all daughters of Midwest's unproven young Holstein sires. Thirty registered heifers sold averaged $2,280, while 29 grades sold for an average of $1,650. The top bid was $4,000 for a 21H343 Anstar daughter, consigned by Edwin and Mary Hall, Deer Park, Wisc. and purchased by Robert Thompson, Clarks Grove, Midwest Breeders' president.

FACTS ON GRAIN AERATION
PROBLEM
UNAERATED BIN DURING FALL OR WINTER
ANSWER
AERATED BIN DURING FALL OR WINTER



Warm air rises in the center of the bin, carrying moisture from warm grain in center of the bin to the cold grain at the top of the bin. This condition can be detected visually at the top center of the grain, at the grain surface. This will appear as ice crystals or crusting.

Equalizing the temperature within the grain mass will minimize the air currents and therefore eliminate the crusting.

A Real Pro

How many times have you heard sports commentators talk to athletes about some phase of the game or adversity suffered by the player and the player has replied that he or she is a professional and therefore expected to react in a particular way? Except for some notable exceptions in tennis and boxing, most of them conduct themselves with restraint and determination.

We would like to add the name of Charly McClain to the list of those public performers who can be classified as real pros in the most constructive sense of the term.

The young country-western singing sensation has enjoyed a huge share of success in the past several years — enough success to turn the heads of most people her age. She had become a valuable commodity for her agent and producer, a necessity which may stifle individuality to some degree, and she could be expected to be somewhat unapproachable and more than a little temperamental.

Miss McClain came into Thief River Falls about 6 p.m. Sunday after hundreds of miles on the road in her bus. Her scheduled performance outdoors at the county fair that evening was forced into the sports arena by a summer rain shower, and difficulty with electrical equipment delayed her phase of the concert further. Following the performance she was closed in by a large crowd of autograph seekers and she faced a 16-hour bus ride to her next performance in Michigan.

Under the circumstances, she might well have canceled a post-concert interview which we had scheduled in advance with her. Not Charly. Not only did she carry out the interview near the midnight hour, she responded to questions graciously, openly and thoroughly and submitted to candid photos willingly and enthusiastically. She exhibited a warm personality and a real desire to be helpful. As a representative of a small town newspaper with a relatively small readership for a national celebrity, we were impressed.

We have had the opportunity over a period of years to interview a number of people of varying national acclaim. More and more we affirm the thought that the truly great people are those who can make the rest of us feel like we might be worthwhile, too. For the most part, the bigger the star, the nicer they are.

Charly, never let success change you. You're a real pro!

Not A Viable Factor

Following editorial is from the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

Ronald Reagan is 69 years old. For starters, age is not a viable factor in the selection of a president and if that is to be the base on which the opposition builds its campaign they are indeed in deep trouble.

The Republican candidate is in good health, both mentally and physically. On top of that, he is a relative youngster compared to many of the world's leaders in the fields of government, science, medicine, law — you name it.

Do you really think any man his age has lost his value to a nation or the world because of chronological manipulation? Do you really think that DeGaulle, Eisenhower, Truman, Stalin, Tito, Franco, BenGurion and an endless list of others were ineffectual because of their years? We don't.

We think that Reagan's age has already been of great benefit to the American people. It has put more importance on the selection of a vice presidential candidate than ever before, and here again Reagan shows the value of experience by putting more emphasis on the capabilities of the vice president as a possible successor than on public voter appeal.

Walter Mondale wasn't selected by Jimmy Carter as his vice president because of his capabilities of replacing Carter in the event of tragedy. He was selected because of his popularity in the areas where Carter was, at that time, considered to be the weakest. Such has been the case time after time, practically since the birth of the republic.

Reagan is taking a different approach — one which we feel is much more befitting of a presidential candidate. His choice is being based on ability to succeed, and nothing more. And by so doing, he is refuting those who would turn from him primarily because of 69 years on this earth. He is telling the people "look, our nation will be in good hands regardless of what happens to me."

As we sorrowfully have learned, the longevity of a president can be determined by a number of things other than age. An assassin's bullet, a cerebral hemorrhage, disease — a walk across a busy intersection.

Those of us who would put down Reagan because of his age, or any other candidate for any other reason, are trying to outguess the will of God. That's a project we have never felt quite capable of undertaking.

Sharing The Burden

Following comments are provided by the chamber of commerce of the United States:

Although the social security system now covers 90 per cent of all workers, 10 per cent are still outside the system. Most of these work for government or nonprofit groups.

Such a system is bound to have inequities. For example, under our present dual system, federal workers — and members of Congress — are exempt from paying their fair share of the welfare aspects of social security. Social security is the nation's largest income distribution program. Today's work force pays the benefits distributed to those who already are retired or who are widows, orphans and disabled — some 36 million Americans.

Come Jan. 1, 1981, social security taxes will jump again — by some $14 billion a year.

EARNINGS	TAX 1980	TAX 1981
$10,000	$ 613	$ 665
$20,000	$1,226	$1,330
$29,700 and up	$1,587	$1,975

Nine of 10 American workers will be affected by the 1981 increases but not federal employees or members of Congress. The question naturally rises: Why should any select group of taxpayers be relieved of paying their fair share of the nation's taxes?

The answer, of course, is that no group of taxpayers should be relieved of this duty. Social security should be expanded to include all workers.

151 Taxes On Bread

Next time you take a bite out of a sandwich, reflect on the thought that there are 151 taxes on the loaf of bread from which the sandwich slices came. That is the compilation made by the Tax foundation, a private research organization, and dramatizes the hidden taxes consumers pay on every product they purchase, including everyday food items.

The foundation started with a loaf of bread made and sold in Indianapolis. It counted federal and state taxes paid by the grocer, the baker, the companies making the ingredients used in the bread and the railroads that hauled the ingredients. Here, in part, is what the study showed:

The grocer paid four federal taxes, the baker eight federal taxes. Both also paid 15 states taxes with the bakery paying most of them because it was a corporation and because of the gasoline and motor vehicle taxes on its trucks.

A Kansas City flour mill, which supplied the baker, paid seven federal taxes and eight Missouri state taxes. The railroad that brought the flour to Indianapolis paid five taxes to Uncle Sam and an assortment of taxes to Missouri, Illinois and Indiana.

Next, the sugar that went into the bread came from a large New Orleans refining company that paid eight federal taxes and six Louisiana taxes. There were also taxes paid by the railroad that hauled the sugar to Indianapolis, the sales warehouse in Chicago from which the same came, the malt company in Chicago, the shortening manufacturer in Cincinnati, the milk solids company and the yeast factory, both in Chicago, and the railroads that carried these ingredients.

To be sure, the distribution of these taxes in relationship to the total number of loaves of bread they affect may seem slight, but the impact of taxes on the costs of doing business can not be minimized.

Interesting Opinions:

"The greatest blessing of our democracy is freedom. But in the last analysis, our only freedom is the freedom to discipline ourselves."
—Bernard M. Baruch

"The person who does not love himself may adapt to his condition by becoming a critic of others, always finding and pointing out their faults. Of course, his accusations are really self-accusations though he does not realize this. His criticism is based on a projection of what he thinks he is. Since hating himself for his worthlessness and faults would be too painful, he projects them into others, and proceeds to ventilate his venom with deadly aim."

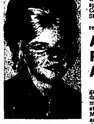
Jodie Nelson Finalist In Teen Pageant



Jodie Nelson, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Duane Nelson of Goodridge, has been selected to be a state finalist in the 1980 Miss United Teenager pageant to be held at the Winona state university at 7:30 p.m. on August 2. The pageant is the official statewide finals for the Miss United Teenager pageant.

Contestants from all over the state who will be competing for the title are between the ages of 14 and 18 and must have at least a "B" average in school. They are requested to participate in the Volunteer Community Service program of the pageant. Through this program many youngsters are becoming involved in community activities by contributing at least eight hours of time to some worthwhile charity or civic work of their choice.

Winner of the state finals will receive an all-expense paid trip to compete in the national finals, a three-phase pageant in Hollywood, California, Waikiki Beach, Hawaii and Washington, D.C.; where she will compete for $15,000 in cash scholarships, a new automobile for her reigning year, a trip to Europe, $5,000 appearance contract, $2,000 wardrobe and other wards.

Contestants will be judged on scholastic, civic achievements, beauty, poise and personality. No swimsuit competition is required. Each contestant will write and recite on state a 100 word "Essay" on the subject, "My Country".

Jodie, a student at Goodridge high school, is sponsored by Consumers Coop, KTRF radio station and St. Hilaire Elevator.

Average Gas Prices Decline Across State

Overall average price of a gallon of gas in Minnesota dropped slightly this past month, according to the latest state-wide survey by the Minnesota State Automobile association (AAA). Largest decrease was found in the Twin Cities area where the average price of regular gas at full-service stations dropped 3.3 cents. All other prices changed only slightly.

This marks the fourth consecutive month that prices have not increased. However, we are not seeing the drastic price reduction that has been predicted, the AAA report states.

Supplies throughout the state continue to be ample. None of the stations surveyed reported being out of any grade of fuel.

Service station hours of operation remain favorable for the summer traveler. Presently, 57 per cent of the stations are open past 8 p.m. on weekdays, 60 per cent are open past 6 p.m. on Saturdays and 70 per cent are open all day Sunday.

Currently, the average price per gallon at full-service stations is $1.259 for regular, $1.358 for premium, $1.314 for unleaded, $1.356 for premium unleaded and $1.101 for diesel.

Vets Advise Awareness Of Canine Disease

Responding to more and more inquiries from dog owners, Minnesota veterinarians are advising clients about the dangers of a new canine disease.

No Minnesota outbreaks were on record last week, but the very contagious disease known as "parvovirus" has been diagnosed in pets in many other states, including Iowa, Nebraska, Georgia, Pennsylvania and New York.

Parvovirus is likely to cause severe diarrhea and vomiting within a short time after infection.

Minnesota veterinary medical association suggests that dog owners, particularly those with dogs that are to be in shows, in kennels or in other situations involving interaction with other dogs, should contact their veterinarian concerning prevention, symptoms and treatment.

As parvovirus spreads elsewhere around the nation, some Minnesota veterinarians are recommending that show and kennelled dogs be vaccinated against the new disease. A vaccine developed specifically for the prevention of parvovirus has been licensed since February 6 of this year.

Animal disease experts report that parvovirus, a disease of viral origin, was diagnosed for the first time in dogs about two years ago in the states of New York and Texas. Because the disease is new and very contagious, dogs are very susceptible. Time is against animals building a natural immunity to the disease.

Dr. Dave Gilgenbach of Elk River, a spokesman for the Minnesota veterinary medical association, explains that the diarrhea and vomiting produce dehydration, resulting in what has been seen as a high mortality in some outbreaks.

Mortality rates of from 10 per cent to 90 per cent have been reported around the nation. Death is more likely to come to puppies than mature dogs, Dr. Gilgenbach said.

Specific evidence indicates that the virus is spread from dog to dog through their feces.

Emergency care for the diseased dog can be provided at home, but the association suggests prompt veterinary consultation regarding prevention before infection or treatment at the first sign of symptoms.

Otter Tail Co. Asks One-Third Rate Increase

Otter Tail Power company has applied to the North Dakota public service commission for an increase in its electric rates that would yield $16.8 million in additional revenues for an average increase of 33.46 per cent.

The company received increases of 7.4 per cent in August of 1977 and 7.63 per cent in May of 1980.

R.M. Bigwood, company president, said that ownership costs associated with the completion of Coyote plant near Beulah, N.D., were the primary elements in the rate increase. Other elements are general inflation and the need to continue to attract investment capital.

"In spite of evidence that our customers are using electricity wisely and conserving," Bigwood pointed out, "our loads are growing at about six per cent per year. This means that — our customers are continuing to use electricity and that we are adding customers. We must add capacity to serve these growing needs," Bigwood stressed.

The company filed last August 16 for a two-step increase of 34.85 per cent, requesting approximately half of it to take effect in April of 1980 and half a year later when Coyote plant was to go on line.

"A large portion of that request represented construction work in progress (CWIP) at Coyote," Bigwood explained. "But the commission whittled down the increase to 7.63 per cent when Coyote construction was disallowed from the rate base.

"Today's rate increase request has the entire Coyote investment cost in our rate base because we expect the plant to be used and useful — to be on the line — by the time this request has been acted upon early in 1981," Bigwood concluded.

State Records Increase In '80 Lamb Crop

Minnesota recorded it's first increase in the state's lamb crop in 1980 and after nine consecutive years of decline. A total of 205,000 lambs were saved, four per cent more than last year, according to the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service.

The state's lambing percentage (number saved per 100 ewes one year old and older on January 1) at 125 is one point above last year. This ties the 1978 percentage, which is the highest lambing rate on record dating back to 1924. On Jan. 1, 1980 breeding ewes one year and older numbered 164,000 a three per cent increase over the previous year.

Shorn wool production in 1980 is estimated at 1,924,000 pounds, nearly equal to the previous year. A drop in average fleece weight from 7.7 to 7.4 pounds was offset by a three per cent increase in number of sheep and lambs shorn, now totaling 260,000 head.

The 1980 United States lamb crop is estimated at 8.28 million head, three per cent more than in both 1979 and 1978. On January 1, 1980, the inventory of breeding ewes one year old and older totaled 8.39 million head, two per cent more than a year earlier, while ewe lambs under one year totaled 1.77 million head, up seven per cent.

The 1980 lambing rate (lambs born in the native states, and lambs docked or branded in western states) per 100 ewes one year old and older on hand January 1 was 99 compared with 98 in 1979.

Wool shorn and to be shorn in the United States during 1980 is estimated at 102 million pounds, grease basis, one per cent less than in 1979. Sheep and lambs shorn and to be shorn are estimated at nearly 13 million head, one per cent more than a year earlier. The average fleece weight for 1980 is estimated at 7.87 pounds compared with 8.02 pounds in 1979.

QUESTION: My mother has a case of osteoporosis. Should she receive chiropractic adjustments?

ANSWER: Osteoporosis is a general demineralization of the bone which occurs many times after menopause. This is a calcium loss which makes the bones very brittle. Harsh manual adjustments are contraindicated in such advanced cases but rather instrument adjusting should be employed.

QUESTION: My doctor tells me to get an adjustment whenever I am in pain and not to bother when I feel good. Is this a good idea?

ANSWER: There are many different opinions of this in the chiropractic profession. However, modern chiropractic research indicates that adjusting for pain is merely symptomatic relief and not correction. Your individual program of care must be based on objective findings. That is, a program based not only on symptoms but examination findings and usually x-ray findings. This is then followed up by specific spinal corrective exercises. Without a program, the condition will continue to advance until eventually it will deteriorate beyond repair. Chiropractic, in order to obtain lasting results, must have a plan that is adhered to.

COLLECTION OF 77 sheriff's department patches from throughout various counties in Minnesota was displayed Friday afternoon by Mike Dombrovski, 28, a St. Cloud resident who pedaled his way from St. Cloud to Thief River Falls to obtain three more patches to add to his collection.

It Beats Walking . . .

Bicyclist Pedals Way To Sheriffs' Patches

by Bonnie Reed
Times Reporter

A DETERMINED patch collector, Mike Dombrovski of St. Cloud, arrived in Thief River Falls Thursday evening after a four-day trip to obtain a patch from the Pennington county sheriff's department to add to his collection of the 77 patches he has so far. The 460-mile round trip from St. Cloud involved a single-speed bike, a backpack, and a water cooler.

Why would someone travel on a single-speed bicycle 460 miles with a backpack and a small water cooler as his only companions?

The answer to that question lies within the determination of Mike Dombrovski, a 28-year-old St. Cloud resident determined to become familiar with the 87 counties in the state of Minnesota.

Dombrovski relaxed comfortably in the law enforcement center in Thief River Falls Friday afternoon following his four-day trip, dressed in the casual blue jeans, checkered shirt, and hat and clutching the patch he had received from Sheriff Charles Richards of the Pennington county sheriff's department.

"I have 77 of them so far," he said, referring to the patches that lay on the floor beside him. "I only need 10 more to make the 87. Maybe after I've received all 87 I'm going to try to get the state patrol patch which will represent the whole state of Minnesota."

Last Monday morning Dombrovski left St. Cloud destined for Thief River Falls — the farthest he has traveled so far to complete the collection which he began working on in February of 1979. His three major stops along the way included a short stay at his brother's home at Lake Alexander Monday evening, a stop in Bemidji Tuesday evening, and a visit to Bagley Wednesday evening.

"I got into a sticky situation in Bagley," Dombrovski commented. "A relative I was supposed to stay with wasn't home, so I had to find another place to stay." It turned out that that place was the home of another relative of Dombrovski's so no major expenses were spent on lodging for the three evenings he was on the road.

"The only money I carried with me was the little bit in my wallet," he added, emphasizing that the trip was made knowing that there would be relatives along the way. And the only major problem he encountered during his trip was his water cooler which broke three times, he said, as he picked it up by the wire handle he had constructed so it could be carried on the journey.

It was during the summer of 1978 that Dombrovski first obtained the idea to start a collection of sheriff's patches throughout various counties, he said.

"I met some sheriffs deputies from St. Louis county in Duluth and was talking with them as if they were Stearns county (St. Cloud) deputies," he said. "I decided at that time that I should learn the counties, and planned all that year how I could do it."

Last February Dombrovski noticed a display of patches in the St. Cloud police department, he said, and that gave him the idea to start his own collection.

"Right now I know 75 per cent of the counties in Minnesota," he said proudly.

And, Dombrovski feels that it is important not only to collect the patches but to learn the different counties.

"When I hear news from various counties I'll know where that news is happening," he said. "And I'll also be able to know where storms are or where they're coming from."

The weather was perfect the entire time, Dombrovski commented. "Yesterday it was a little bit drizzly but at least it wasn't hot," he said. And, he was against the wind during the entire trip, he said. "Now maybe the wind will be going with me for once," he said of his journey back to his home in St. Cloud.

He likes to collect coins, too, he said, but has been directing most of his attention to patch collecting for the past year. Dombrovski has been working at Perkin's in Sauk Rapids, a small town near St. Cloud, for the past eight years.

And the reason for using his single-speed bike for the journey is because, "that is all I've ever had," he commented. "I was raised on a single-speed bike. I consider that a benefit. This was a stiff trip but it would be worse with a 10-speed, with the hand brakes for one thing.

"My dad and I checked all through it (bike) before I left," he added.

The reason for Dombrovski's visit by bike to Thief River Falls and the surrounding area was because he needed three patches from the area — one from Clearwater county, one from Red Lake county and the third from Pennington county.

Written correspondence is the method he uses to obtain the patches through various sheriff's departments, he said.

"If they don't send me the patches I go and get them for myself. I've gotten all but 13 of them through the mail so far," he added.

Dombrovski was eager to begin his return journey back to his home in St. Cloud Friday. He would make his same three stops along the way — first to Bagley, to Bemidji Saturday, Lake Alexander Sunday and finally to St. Cloud Monday (today).

Friday afternoon he was 58 miles away from the 300 miles traveled so far to obtain the patches that he hadn't received in the mail. When he reaches St. Cloud today he'll be beyond those 300 miles, and he'll have three more patches to add to his unique collection.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Do I believe in people? The answer is yes, I do.

The question came up a few days ago if it would be fair to ask the relatives of the people buried at Northwood cemetery north of Grygla if they would be willing to contribute to a fund for a large culvert to be placed in the Moose river to provide access to the cemetery which we haven't had for over five years.

There are now 50 graves in the cemetery. Some wives yet living have their husbands buried there. Also quite a number have plots there and wish to be buried there, too.

Most of these were early pioneers; many of them came before roads were even built. This cemetery and little church, which stands nearby, are landmarks to our community. Proverbe 22:28 tells us: "Remove not the ancient landmarks which thy fathers have set."

I have personally seen what people will do when they believe it is a worthy cause.

Only I don't think it should be limited to relatives. There are many business places, organizations and other individuals that would say, "We want to help, we want to lighten the load, we see something that usually money can't buy. We see the past, present and future. We want a part in it too!"

If you would like to help, any donations may be sent to Richard Dougherty or Norris Hagen at Grygla and will be greatly appreciated.

Yours Truly,
Gordon Foss
Grygla, MN

To the Editor:

First of all, I want to commend Jane Olson for the terrific job she did the night of the pageant. Representing Thief River Falls for a year is a great experience and Jane Olson did an excellent job. I throughly enjoyed most of the pageant.

However, there was one thing that really bothered me that night and I was almost embarrassed to be sitting in the audience. I am not saying that everyone was rude, but the noise was shocking when the MC was on stage trying to do his job. To me, not paying attention when he was talking, even if you weren't interested in what he was saying, was very inconsiderate. There should have been more consideration shown to the people in the audience who wanted to listen, and to him for trying to run a smooth program.

I am sure that it wasn't only people from Thief River Falls who were being inconsiderate. There were people from the surrounding communities who attended the pageant also. I sincerely hope that the citizens of Thief River Falls will set a good example next time and that this won't happen again.

The Jaycees, Mrs. Jaycees and Jane worked too hard on this pageant to be shown this kind of rudeness. Let's be proud of our Miss Thief River Falls pageant and support the efforts that go into a program like this.

Sincerely,
Brenda Laidley

Schedule Takes Its Toll

East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls will both compete this week in the 1980 Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament at Red Lake Falls, but East Grand Forks will enter as the Sub District 4 champion while Thief River Falls has the role of Sub District 4 runner-up following Sunday's 3-1 East Grand Forks win in the finals of the northwest League playoffs at East Grand Forks.

It wasn't a very sharp performance by Thief River Falls, the regular season Northwest League champions. The visitors were listless, perhaps showing the affect of a 37-game schedule, the most games a Thief River Falls American Legion team has played in recent memory.

First-year Thief River Falls American Legion coach Nick Drees admitted that the unaccustomed longer schedule might have taken its toll on the players, who began the summer with a 14-1 start and then played just .500 ball the final month of the season.

"They kind of ran out of gas," acknowledged Drees. "And they played that way today."

Is 37 games too many? Probably not. But it obviously takes getting used to. Add the 18 high school games the Prowlers played this spring and that's 55 baseball games for many of the players this season. Maybe that's not unusual for other areas of the country or even other areas of the state, but that's a lot of baseball for a northwestern Minnesota youngster. East Grand Forks played 31 American Legion games this summer, but East Grand Forks doesn't play high school baseball. Crookston, while playing a similar high school-American Legion schedule as Thief River Falls, is more accustomed to a longer Legion schedule under Coach Jim Simon.

Next year's Thief River Falls American Legion baseball schedule might not be quite as long, but even if it is, the players may be a little more ready for it.

TRF, EGF Face Gonvick, Fertile

Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks will have to wait until tonight (Monday) to find out their opponents Thursday in the first round of the 1980 Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament at Red Lake Falls.

The eight-team, double-elimination tournament features champions and runner-up teams from the four sub districts within the Ninth District. The winner will move on to the state tournament in Richfield the following week.

As Sub District 4 champion, East Grand Forks will play the Sub District 3 runner-up Thursday at 6:30 p.m. As Sub District 4 runner-up, Thief River Falls will meet the Sub District 3 champion Thursday afternoon at 3:30.

Gonvick and Fertile will be the Sub District 3 representatives, meeting tonight at 7 p.m. at Red Lake Falls for the title. They earned Ninth District tournament berths Sunday when Gonvick eliminated Bagley 7-6 and Fertile ousted Red Lake Falls 3-1 in the Sub District 3 semifinals.

Ninth District tournament play starts Thursday at 1 p.m. when the Sub District 2 champion plays the Sub District 1 runner-up. Thief River Falls will play at 3:30, East Grand Forks will be on the field at 6:30 and the opening round's final game at 9 that night will feature the Sub District 1 champion against the Sub District 2 runner-up.

Games start at 1 p.m. again Friday and Saturday, leading to Sunday's 7 p.m. championship game.

A Thief River Falls win Thursday would produce a 6:30 p.m. game Friday against Thursday's first-game winner. A Thief River Falls loss Thursday would produce a 1 p.m. game Friday against Thursday's first-game loser.

Northwest League Champs Struggle

Sunday's 3-1 Thief River Falls loss to East Grand Forks marked the second straight year and the sixth time in the past eight years that the regular season Northwest League champion has failed to add the Sub District 4 playoff title to its collection.

Crookston in 1978 and Thief River Falls in 1977 are the only Northwest League pennant winners to reign as Sub District 4 champions since 1973.

A year ago Crookston won the league title, but Roseau took the sub district tournament. In 1976 Thief River Falls was league titlist, but Crookston took the sub district event. Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks shared the 1975 Northwest League pennant, but it was Crookston winning at tournament time. An East Grand Forks and Roseau co-league championship in 1974 only led to a Thief River Falls tournament triumph. Crookston was league champ in 1973, but Thief River Falls was the playoff champion.

Miscellaneous

+ Bemidji gained its first American Legion district baseball tournament berth since 1977 with a sub district championship performance last week that featured wins over Staples 2-1 in eight innings and Park Rapids 11-1. Two-time defending sub district champion Wadena was upset by Park Rapids 6-0 in first round play as Frank Lamb of Akeley pitched a no-hitter. Bemidji, now 15-12, will be playing either St. Cloud or Melrose in opening round district tournament play at St. Cloud.

EGF Beats TRF 3-1 In Sub District Title Game

East Grand Forks won its first Sub District 4 tournament title since 1972 Sunday afternoon by beating regular season Northwest American Legion baseball league pennant winner Thief River Falls 3-1 in a rain-soaked championship game at Stauss Park in East Grand Forks.

But both finalists will compete this week in the 1980 Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament at Red Lake Falls starting Thursday. Sub district semifinal wins Saturday assured continued tournament play for East Grand Forks, a come-from-behind 11-8 winner over Crookston, and Thief River Falls, a 16-2 winner over Warroad.

East Grand Forks, involved in a second place tie with Crookston in the final regular season Northwest League standings, will take a 21-10 record to Red Lake Falls Thursday. Thief River Falls, presented with the Northwest League trophy before the start of yesterday's game, is 25-12.

It was a gloomy day for Thief River Falls as a game-long rain and an East Grand Forks lead from the very start produced a listless performance and a 3-1 defeat for the regular season Northwest League champions who had beaten East Grand Forks twice during the year, 9-8 and 6-2.

"We just didn't come to play ball," acknowledged disappointed Thief River Falls coach Nick Drees as he tried to explain his team's poor showing.

East Grand Forks didn't exactly overpower the ball in gaining a 3-0 lead through two innings, either.

Dave Swanberg started it in the bottom of the first when he dropped a bloop single into short left field. Swanberg then ended up on third base when Jeff Smith's sacrifice bunt in front of the plate was fielded by Thief River Falls catcher Jim Nyland, whose throw to second for the lead runner sailed into the outfield. Swanberg crossed the plate as John Roche hit into a short-to-second-to-first double play.

Brian Nelson drew a walk to start the East Grand Forks second inning and stole second. Jeff Strandell also walked, but was replaced on the bases by Pat Babinski on a fielder's choice play that moved Nelson to third. Dan Gasperlin was called on to lay down a suicide squeeze bunt and blew the assignment by failing to get his bat on the ball. But Nyland couldn't find the handle and was groping for the ball near Gasperlin's feet as Nelson crossed the plate standing up. Thief River Falls asked for an interference call on the stationary Gasperlin on the play, but the plea went unanswered.

Babinski then scored East Grand Forks' third run when he went under a high throw from second baseman Tom Drury on an aborted Thief River Falls double play. After forcing Gasperlin at second base, Drury chose to go home with the throw instead of to first and would have gotten the second out of the inning with a good throw.

Meanwhile, Roche, hit hard just two weeks earlier in that 6-2 loss to Thief River Falls, gave up just three singles through six innings before the sun finally broke through and Thief River Falls scored a seventh inning run.

With two out, Nyland singled up the middle, moved to second on a wild pitch and reached third when his slide jarred the ball loose from Swanberg, trying to apply the tag after Gasperlin has gone far to his right at shortstop to field a ball hit by Drury. Nyland scored and Drury went to second as the ball rolled away from Swanberg at third. But Roche fielded Scott McKeever's ground ball back to the mound and ran over to first to record the final out himself.

Losing pitcher Jeff Ulrich gave up just three base hits, but issued seven walks while striking out five.

Elks Lose 6-4 Opener In State Tournament

Shakopee broke open a 2-2 ball game with a four-run sixth inning Friday to beat the Thief River Falls Elks 6-4 in the first round of the 1980 Babe Ruth state baseball tournament at Morris.

The winners finished with a 9-3 base hit advantage to make up for a 5-2 edge in errors.

Second start of the week-long double-elimination tournament for the Elks will be today (Monday) at 5:30 p.m. against either Edina, Burnsville or Moorhead.

A loss today would eliminate Thief River Falls from the 14-15-year-old tournament. A win would find the Elks, now 22-5, playing again Tuesday at 12:30 p.m.

Back Court Club Popcorn Ready For Distribution

All boys and girls who sold popcorn for the Back Court basketball club fund raising project are reminded to pick up their popcorn for distribution tonight (Monday).

Boys and girls who practiced at Washington school are to pick up their popcorn at the Marland Kloety home, those who practiced at Knox at the Paul Tangquist residence, those who practiced at Franklin at the Ron Schwietz home and those who practiced at Lincoln at 212 No. Tindolph.

Youngsters who took orders for popcorn have until August 9 to deliver the product to purchasers and to collect and turn in the money.

Division Titles On Line This Week In Slow Pitch Softball

Titles in all four divisions are up for grabs as the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association closes out its 1980 regular season schedule this week.

A pair of head-to-head pennant confrontations will take place tonight (Monday) when first place McDonald's-Dallmann (17-3) faces the challenge of second place American Legion Raiders (16-4) in an American League West Division showdown at 6:20 p.m. on Field 1, and first-place TRF Merchants (14-6) are tested by second place Furuseth-Nelson (13-7) in an American League West Division duel at 7:40 p.m. on Field 3.

McDonald's-Dallmann overcame a 5-0 first inning lead to beat Tony Dorn, Inc. 9-6 Thursday on the strength of Greg Higdem's two-run home run, while the American Legion Raiders swept a Friday doubleheader, getting by short-handed Hobo Haus 4-3 and picking up a 7-0 forfeit win over Popplers-Action Realty.

Furuseth-Nelson continued a late-season charge with a 9-1 victory over Home Lumber Thursday, gaining ground when the TRF Merchants dropped a 12-8 decision to Swenson Plumbing that same night. Hobo Haus, although it picked up a forfeit win over Tony Dorn, Inc. in the second half of a scheduled Friday doubleheader, blew a chance at a first place tie in the American League East with its first-game loss to the Raiders.

A Tuesday 6:20 p.m. meeting on Field 1 between Consumer's Co-op and E.T.'s Bees will have title-bearings in the National League East Division where Consumer's Co-op (14-6) clinched at least a title tie with a 12-6 Wednesday night victory over Schumacher's Tireland behind back-to-back fourth inning home runs by Bruce Mattson and Terry Dyrdal. But E.T.'s Bees (12-8), 2-8 at one point earlier this season, have ratted off 10 straight wins and are still in position to gain a title tie.

It's a real mess in the National League West Division where First Northwestern Insurance Agency (16-5), Schumacher's Tireland (15-5) and First Federal (15-5) are all tied for first place. It was a tough week for the Schumacher's Tireland players who saw a two-game lead evaporate with the Wednesday loss to Consumer's Co-op and an 8-5 Friday defeat at the hands of Thorp-KKAQ.

First Northwestern Insurance Agency has an edge in the win department National League West thanks to a 4-3 nine-inning win over The Club Wednesday and an RBI double by Clyde Sorenson in the bottom of the seventh inning that beat upset-minded Lon's 5-4 in the second half of a Friday doubleheader.

But First Federal took First Northwestern Insurance Agency 10-7 in the first half of that Friday twinbill as Bill Poole, Rick Kolvisto and Rick Holmes all collected three base hits.

The National League West question could be settled Thursday when Schumacher's Tireland and First Federal clash at 7:40 p.m. on Field 4.

Elsewhere during the week, Great Northwest Agency defeated IWA 16-6, Lon's edged the TRF Aggies 10-9, Thorp-KKAQ slipped by Wilson Brothers 11-10 and Hardees handled Sparby-Johnson 18-8 Wednesday; Phase II downed Terry's Mobil 5-3 while Bridgeman knocked off Home Lumber 15-9 Thursday; and Hardees outscored Thorp-KKAQ 22-10 Friday.

KEY PLAY SUNDAY in the Northwest League sub district American Legion baseball tournament championship game played in East Grand Forks occurred in the second inning when East Grand Forks batter Dan Gasperlin (11) attempted to lay down a suicide squeeze bunt. He missed the pitch, but Thief River Falls catcher Jim Nyland dropped the ball, allowing base runner Brian Nelson to score from third. Nyland argued for an interference call on Gasperlin on the play. East Grand Forks scored twice in the inning en route to a 3-1 win.

TRF 13-Year-Olds Finish Season 11-7

After opening with a first round 5-2 victory over Crookston, Thief River Falls dropped a pair of 9-5 decisions to East Grand Forks and Crookston Wednesday to bow out of the four-team, double-elimination Babe Ruth Prep League baseball tournament for 13-year-olds played at Roseau.

Coach Paul Williams' Thief River Falls squad, the defending district champions, finished the 1980 season with an 11-7 record.

The tournament began Tuesday when East Grand Forks blanked Roseau 12-0 and Thief River Falls stopped Crookston 5-2. On Wednesday, regular season league pennant winner East Grand Forks beat No. 2-seeded Thief River Falls 9-5, Crookston eliminated Roseau 8-7 and Crookston then ousted Thief River Falls 9-5.

East Grand Forks handled Crookston 14-3 Thursday in the championship game played in Thief River Falls to earn a berth in the 1980 Babe Ruth Prep state baseball tournament, scheduled to start Friday at Moorhead.

Coca-Cola vs. Action Realty

League Leaders Meet Tuesday

Coca-Cola and Action Realty, co-leaders in the Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league, will meet for the third time this season Tuesday at 9 p.m. on the fairgrounds fast pitch diamond.

Both teams missed opportunities to break a first place tie last week when Action Realty dropped a 9-3 Thursday night decision to Schmidts and Coca-Cola fell to Northland Pro 7-5 Friday. Action Realty had opened a Thursday night doubleheader with a 7-2 victory over Melvies.

Regular season league play is scheduled to be completed this week, but Action Realty has a pair of make-up games to get in before the pennant issue can be decided, including yet another confrontation with Coca-Cola, along with a game against cellar-dwelling Melvies.

The two league leaders split a pair of earlier decisions this summer, with Action Realty posting a 4-3 win back on June 6, but Coca-Cola taking an 8-6 victory in their latest meeting July 11.

Melvies 2

Scott Bergland's fourth inning single proved to be the winning hit as Action Realty beat Melvies 7-2 to open a Thursday doubleheader.

Action Realty scored two runs in the top of the first inning as Kelly Gutterud struck out, but reached first base on a passed ball. Paul Drees singled, sending Gutterud to third. Nick Drees plated a run with a base hit and Harley Drees produced the second run with a sacrifice fly.

In the fourth inning, Mark Harder slapped a single to right field, moved to third on Al Erickson's sacrifice bunt and Gutterud's single, scoring on Bergland's base hit to left.

Mark Thorstad's second homer of the year, a two-run shot, highlighted a four-run fifth inning as Action Realty boosted its lead to 7-0.

Melvies scored twice in the bottom of the sixth on Rick Kofstad's run-producing base hit and a throwing error that allowed Karl Chromy to score.

Schmidts 9
Action Realty 3

Schmidts shocked Action Realty in the second half of the Thursday twinbill with a 14-hit attack and a 9-3 win. It was Schmidts' fourth win of the year — one victory over each of the other four teams in the league.

The game started in normal fashion as Wayne Smith hit his fifth home run of the season in the bottom of the first inning for a quick 1-0 Action Realty lead.

Schmidts went ahead 2-1 in the top of the second inning on Don Foss' second homer of the year, a pair of singles and an error.

Action Realty tied the contest 2-2 in the bottom of the inning on a walk, sacrifice, wild pitch and error.

But another two-run Schmidts inning made it 4-2 in the third on singles by Bob Tunheim, Howard Dalager and Foss, along with a fielder's choice.

Just to keep things in a groove, Schmidts had another two-run inning in the fourth, with Dalager's two-run double being the big blow.

Mark Thorstad responded with a lead-off fourth inning triple to right, and eventually scored on Scott Bergland's ground-out for a 6-3 game.

But Mark Haats' bases-loaded double in the top of the fifth plated three Schmidts runs for the final 9-3 margin. The last two innings, in contrast to the first five, were scoreless.

Smith's home run tied him with Karl Chromy for the league lead.

Northland Pro 7
Coca-Cola 5

Northland Pro used the odd innings to score a 7-5 Friday night win over Coca-Cola to keep the losers from taking advantage of Action Realty's Thursday night loss to Schmidts.

It began with Northland Pro scoring three runs in the top of the first when Bob Lundbohm and Brian Peterson drew walks and Jeff Hendrickson hit his third home run of the year.

Coca-Cola got two runs back in the bottom of the inning as Rob Almquist reached base on an error, Mike Drury singled to center, Bruce Johnson gained first base on another error, with Almquist scoring on the play, and Mark Huot drove in Drury with an RBI single.

But Northland Pro matched those two runs in the third inning on Mark DuChamp's fielder's choice and Tim Engelstad's single, then added single runs in the fifth and seventh innings for a 7-2 cushion.

Coca-Cola staged a seventh inning rally (providing all the game's scoring in the odd-numbered innings) as Tom Drury led off with a single to left and Roger Cota hit the first pitch he saw for a home run. Mike Drury reached base on a fielder's choice, advanced on an error and a passed ball, and scored on Johnson's single to left.

Other species include the Caribbean monk seal, West African manatee, North China Sika deer and the Kern (California) primrose sphinx moth.

EVEN THOUGH SHE was wrapped up in the arms of Roseau Transport first baseman Karen Severts, St. Hilaire Saints base runner Christy Thompson was ruled safe in the third inning of Wednesday's Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league game when the umpire — while unable to see the tab being made — rules the first baseman had been pulled off the bag by the throw. St. Hilaire Saints held on to their Division I lead with a 6-5 victory over Roseau Transport, entering the game in a second place tie with Ekeren Drug, just one game behind the leaders. Ekeren Drug gets a shot at the Saints this Wednesday.

St. Hilaire Saints Tip Roseau Transport 6-5

A pair of three-run home runs hit by Sharon Stauss and Linda Tabor carried the St. Hilaire Saints to a 6-5 victory over Roseau Transport Wednesday in a match-up of first and second place teams in Division I of the Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league.

Roseau Transport led briefly when the Saints committed three errors on a two-out, three-run play in the bottom of the second inning.

But Stauss tied it in the third and Tabor won it in the fourth with homers. Julie Tunheim's two-out, two-run home run in the sixth closed the gap to 6-5.

St. Hilaire will face last-place Pizza Hut tonight (Monday), but will have to meet the challenge of Ekeren Drug Wednesday. A 13-12 winner over the Mush-a-Rettes, Wednesday, Ekeren Drug was involved in a second place tie with Roseau Transport, one game behind the division-leading Saints.

Ekeren Drug kept pace with the St. Hilaire Saints with that 13-12 victory over the Mush-a-Rettes in a game shortened to six innings by the league's time limit rule. Doreen Larson paced the winners with two home runs and a bases-loaded triple.

Dwight's Hartz clinched the Division II pennant with a 14-0 rout of second place Schmidt Stealers as Carla Reed pitched a five-hit shutout. Julie Odegaard and Julie Rosetta homered for the winners.

A triple play in the seventh inning protected a 12-11 Walseth Construction triumph over Great Northwest Agency. Kim Hamilton, Chicky Walseth and Jodi Swanson all homered for Walseth Construction.

Credit Bureau got by The Barbers 10-7 as Laurie Charbonneau homered and Joanie Melander and Kim Olson tripled.

Patty Genereaux homered and hit two triples to lead Northern Employers Agency over Pizza Hut 20-9, the Ridge Runners edged American Legion 8-7 and Hydra-Mac shaded the Health Hustlers 4-3.

The league has three more playing dates to close out the 1980 regular season — Monday and Wednesday of this week, and Monday, Aug. 4. Post-season playoffs will consist of a pair of single-elimination tournaments Sunday, Aug. 10, that will crown winners in Division I and Division II.

An awards banquet will be held Tuesday, Aug. 12, at the Elks. Cocktail hour will be held from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m., with dinner being served at 6:30.

THREE NICE WALLEYES, the largest of which weighed over six pounds, were caught in the Horseshoe area of Thief River Falls Thursday morning by Matt Samuelson of Thief River Falls. Samuelson was casting from shore with a Rappala plug and said he had another good sized walleye on but lost it after a short run.

Save Energy

Being fuelish costs dollars easily saved for other necessities. Joy-riding is a luxury Americans can no longer afford. An outdoor sport and a way to save dollars while enjoying the Minnesota scenery when traveling is by bicycle. If you have never tried it, don't knock it. More Americans ride bikes today than ever before in our history, according to Chuck Neuenschwander of Egan.

And if you already have a bike, it is possible to electrify it.

There are several varieties of bicycles available at affordable prices for any purse. Many attractively priced models have battery powered bicycle motor systems. One bike on the market will travel at 20 miles per hour, and have a 40 mile range. It can also be taken apart and stored in the trunk of a car, or office, etc. There are also heavy duty baskets for the rear of the bikes. Batteries are easily recharged on household current overnight.

Neuenschwander demonstrated a three-wheel trike which provides the lowest transportation cost for shopping or work. It had a heavy-duty basket at the rear and could travel 8 miles per hour. Other bikes had variable speeds, depending upon one's preference.

Chuck stressed that the bikes and trikes are American-made. He said they are safe to operate and all models have single lever handlebar controls. And on the easy take-apart bikes, no tools are needed.

Entire families can enjoy bike riding together, travelling to a nearby lake for a day of fishing or whatever. This might also be considered a 'tag-a-long' sport since the family unit can all be included in activities while saving gas dollars.

Senior citizens are using the battery-operated bikes and trikes too. Electroped bikes and pedal power bikes seem to be the answer for the new-age energy savers.

The Neuenschwander family is well known in Minnesota. Chuck's parents operate a well known family resort, Calm Bay, on Lake Kabetogama at International Falls.

Hot Walleyes

Mark Lee, a guide with the Nisswa guide league, set some kind of hot weather record late in July. Within the period of one week either he or his clients caught 11 walleyes all weighing over eight pounds. The largest weighed 11 pounds, nine ounces. Most of the walleyes were caught on leeches. The exploits took place on Gull Lake.

Animal Welfare

John J. Keohen, publisher of the Montgomery Messenger newspaper forwarded a letter addressed to us care of his newspaper about which he remarked; "Someone is watching your column." Here is the letter from Fran Lipscomb, research assistant, society for animal protective legislation in Washington, D.C.:

"Dear Stu and Dee Mann,

Your March 20, 1980 column on trapping has recently come to our attention, and we were so pleased to see your views on the steel jaw leghold trap.

"Animal Welfare Institute has recently published "Facts About Furs", a book on trapping and the fur industry, and if you are interested in receiving a copy, please let us know.

"Thank you for your help. We look forward to hearing from you soon."

We urge anyone who may be interested in the trapping and use of the steel jaw leghold trap to please contact Fran. The address is the Animal Welfare Institute, P.O. Box 3650, Washington, D.C. 20007.

Because there are irrefutable mistakes in our conservation education, it doesn't mean we should continue to be blinded to the anguish of helpless animals, victims of mass indifference to their eventual plight to exterpate them. There are other alternatives.

Lamprey Control Key To Fishing Lake Superior

Some unusually good fishing has been reported this season from Minnesota waters of Lake Superior, the Department of Natural Resources said.

Anglers from the Duluth area and up the North Shore say they have been enjoying better than average success this spring catching lake trout, chinook and coho salmon.

Fish are being taken by trolling just off shore, and many have been caught by anglers standing on shore and casting out into the lake.

DNR fisheries chief Jerry Kuehn said he is gratified at the stories of fishing success, since the rehabilitation of sport fishing in Lake Superior has been a major project of states bordering the lake and of the U.S. and Canadian governments.

Sport and commercial fishing went into a disastrous decline many years ago when the predatory sea lamprey entered the Upper Great Lakes from Lake Ontario with the opening of the Welland canal.

In recent years a concerted effort has been made to eradicate — or at least control — lampreys. A selective chemical is applied to the water which kills the larvae in streams where they are hatched and spend the first two to six years of their life before entering the lake to begin their attacks on game fish.

Kuehn emphasized, however, that the future of fishing on the Great Lakes depends on a continued intensive lamprey control effort.

"This species has a high reproductive potential, and complete eradication is not possible on such a large watershed as that occupied by the Great Lakes," he explained.

1980 Hunting, Trapping Seasons Are Announced

Most of the small game hunting and trapping seasons for 1980 are similar to last year, Department of Natural Resources commissioner Joseph Alexander announced recently; however, he noted that there are a few changes which are significant.

Alexander also emphasized that 11 public meetings were held around the state before setting the seasons to give sportsmen an opportunity to express their views on hunting regulations and game populations.

Raccoon and fox hunting season will not be split this year. Both will open statewide at noon Friday, Oct. 24. A change in the law allows fox to be taken day or night. Artificial lights may not be used for fox hunting, however.

Wildlife officials report that small game populations look good. Roadside pheasant counts were up substantially from last year mainly because of the mild winter and, with reasonable nesting success, there could be a good harvest.

Ruffed grouse populations were also good this spring showing an increase of 28 per cent in the southeast, 58 per cent in the central hardwoods and the same as last year in the northeastern one-third of the state.

Most significant change in the trapping season this year is the closure of fisher trapping. In the past three years, wildlife studies have shown that the fisher breeding population has declined about 30 per cent. The closure of the season will allow the population to rebuild more quickly than would a shorter season or decreased bag limits, Alexander noted.

Beaver trapping will open on the same date as mink and muskrat with the northern zone opening October 25 and the southern zone opening November 1.

For the first time since 1978, trapping will be permitted in muskrat structures. House trapping was prohibited in an effort to speed the recovery of muskrats. Research, however, indicates that trapping pressure has little to do with the status of the muskrat population. Alexander reminded trappers that all vegetation removed while trapping in a house must be thoroughly wetted and placed back in the hole made in the structure.

Limit on otter has been reduced from three to two.

Bear season will open the day after Labor Day as in the past.

Information received at the public season setting meetings earlier this year indicated that some taxidermists had received spoiled bear hides due to the warm weather at the beginning of the season. This is a problem caused by improper care of the animal and can occur even in cool weather according to wildlife officials.

They urged all bear hunters to skin their bear immediately upon taking and to refrigerate both the hide and the carcass. Bears should not be left unskinned overnight, they said, as they may spoil.

The taking of any age bear will be legal this year. This change was made because of the difficulty hunters have in distinguishing young-of-the-year from adults. Wildlife officials do not feel that this change will substantially increase the number of cubs taken since most hunters will not knowingly take a cub.

A new law requires a bear guide license of any person who receives compensation for placing bait to attract bear or otherwise assists in taking bear. More details will be announced later.

Alexander reminded deer hunters that the deer season, which was announced previously, had only two significant changes. In zones 1 and 2 the taking of antlerless deer by permit will be allowed through the season. Persons wishing to apply for an antlerless permit must buy their licenses first and then submit an application by September 15. Licenses will be available August 15.

Overall waterfowl production in Minnesota is expected to be better than last year, the commissioner said. Except for the drought area of western and northwestern Minnesota, water levels have held up well with June rains supplementing them in many areas.

Spring breeding numbers of waterfowl were up 26 per cent from last year with much of the increase being blue-wing teal displaced from the Dakotas. Mallard breeders were up 15 per cent. The overall total of breeding ducks was estimated at 750,000 compared with 600,000 a year ago.

Alaska Proposals Stir Controversy

Back in 1867, when the U.S. bought Alaska from the Russians for $7 million, critics of the purchase branded it "Seward's Folly."

The phrase expressed their contempt for Secretary of State William H. Seward, who negotiated the deal, as well as his scheme to acquire more than half a million square miles of cold, barren, "worthless" land, an area one-fifth the size of what is now the "lower 48" states.

Today there is no dispute about Alaska's worth. Seward's deal ranks with the purchase of Manhattan for $24 in trinkets as one of history's greatest real estate bargains.

But Alaska is still controversial. There's a battle raging over the vast "land beyond" as Congress attempts to decide the fate of millions of acres of Alaska that belong to the American people. On July 21 the Senate began an Alaska lands debate in an effort to settle a question that has been called the most important conservation issue of this century.

The question, oversimplified, is: How much of Alaska should be developed, and how much protected from development?

The argument is a bitter one. Some developers are accusing the conservationists of trying to put Alaska's riches in a "deep freeze" while some conservationists are calling the developers "rape and run" exploiters. Some major conservation groups, such as the National Wildlife Federation, insist that a balance between those extremes is attainable.

Battle lines for the Congressional debate were drawn last month when, in separate press conferences on the same day, a coalition of 53 conservation and other public interest groups called for passage of a bill sponsored by Senators Paul Tsongas (D-Mass.) and William Roth (R-Del.) while Alaska's Gov. John Jay Hammond demanded adoption of a bill reported by the Senate's energy committee.

At their press conference the conservationists dismissed oil, gas, and timber developers' claims that the Tsongas-Roth measure would "lock up" vast acres of Alaska's natural resources. In fact, they pointed out, under Tsongas-Roth, which is similar to the Alaska lands bill overwhelmingly passed by the House in May, 1979:

+95 per cent of all favorable potential oil and gas areas in Alaska would be open to private leasing for exploration and development.

+60 per cent of Alaska's mineral potential would be outside of protected parks, refuges and wilderness areas.

+A timber harvest adequate to sustain Alaska's forest products industry would be allowed.

Conservation groups complained that the Senate energy committee's bill would cut 38 million acres of wildlife refuges from the House-passed bill, thus opening up priceless wildlife habitat to mining and other development. In addition, they argued, it would allow oil and gas exploration in the fragile caribou calving grounds of the Arctic national wildlife range, would open three areas in national parks and preserves to hardrock mining and would mandate overcutting of the magnificent southeast Alaska forests.

By opening up millions of acres of vital wildlife habitat to surface mining exploitation, said Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the National Wildlife Federation, the Senate energy committee's bill threatens the future of healthy wildlife populations in Alaska.

"Alaska's caribou, grizzlies, wolverine, musk-ox and Dall sheep — mammals which are found in almost no other state — are dependent on undeveloped habitat for survival," he explained. "In addition, millions of waterfowl that migrate throughout the world depend on Alaska's pure and undeveloped wetlands for nesting and breeding. The Tsongas-Roth measure guarantees a safe future for these precious wildlife species."

Kimball ridiculed the idea that Tsongas-Roth was an "anti-hunting" bill, as it has been labeled by developers, pointing out that the bill would leave 91 per cent of Alaska open to sport hunting. The areas left open to hunting contain the vast majority of Alaska's big game species.

At a session with journalists following the conservationists' briefing Alaska's governor Hammond, speaking for the Senate energy committee's bill, defended his state's record on environmental problems and argued that it must develop a diversified economy.

Hammond insisted that there would be "little hazard" to caribou on the Arctic national wildlife range as a result of oil exploration under the energy committee bill. Alaska, he said, "does not so much have to be protected from Alaskans as it must be protected from the inconsistent policies of the federal government."

Virtually the only aspect of the argument on which both sides agree is the fact that its outcome will be important to Americans now unborn. Jack Calvin, who flew to Washington from far-out Sitka, Alaska, to speak for the Tsongas-Roth bill summed it up: "The children of the nation and generations into the future will be grateful that some parts of the magnificent land of Alaska have been preserved for their education and enjoyment."

Ely Planning For 1980 Legion World Series

In the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y. there is an area set aside for the recognition of American Legion baseball and each year: a "most valuable player" selected from the World Series teams is enshrined there for one year with his picture and listing his accomplishments that entitled him to this honor as the MVP of American Legion baseball.

Selection of the MVP at the Ely-hosted 1980 World Series of American Legion baseball will be handled by a select five-man committee that will have no other duties than the observation and study of the players and their statistics to make this most important decision — the MVP.

Named to the committee are Gordon R. "Scotty" Scott, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, chairman of the committee and the state director of American Legion baseball in Iowa; Burleigh A. Grimes, Holcombe, Wis., member, Baseball Hall of Fame and representing the Hall of Fame; Carl "Lunk" Lundquist, Westbury, N.Y., writer and sports coordinator, scorer for baseball writers' association for both American and National Leagues; Harold C. "Pinky" Kraft, University of North Dakota head baseball coach, and associate professor of physical education UND; and Robert L. Freitas, Eugene, Ore., field representative, national association of professional baseball leagues.

Hit, error, fielder's choice? The statistics of the game are the responsibility of the official scorers in baseball and they play a vital part in the creating of the story of the game on paper.

Six highly qualified official scorers have been named to be the scorers of the 1980 World Series of American Legion baseball Ely August 28 - September 1.

With broad and varied backgrounds, the six scorers bring a wealth of experience and knowledge of the game to the press box at Ely to provide a key element so important to the game.

Named by national director of American Legion baseball George Rulon of Indianapolis, Ind., to serve as official scorers for the 1980 World Series are:

Donald J. "Don" Friday, sports editor, Stevens Point, Wis.; Gary R. Mueller, sportswriter, St. Louis Post Dispatch; Robert C. "Bob" Schabert, sportswriter, St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press; Robert W. "Bob" Smith of Fargo, N.D., scorer for regional and state tournaments since 1968; James F. "Stooks" Stukel of Ely, official scorer at the 1979 World Series in Greenville, Miss.; and Robert H. "Bob" Ellis of Boyertown, Pa.; scorer for Pennsylvania American Legion program for 15 years.

Six men have been named to be the "Men in Blue" at the 1980 American Legion World Series.

"The six men who will umpire the world series represent over 125 years of umpiring experience at all levels of baseball and are recognized as being very competent at their jobs. With their experience and knowledge of the game, we are certain to have games that will be umpired at the highest level of efficiency," said George Rulon, national American Legion baseball program director.

The six umpires for the world series are Robert J. "Hatch" Marcinek, Munster, Ind.; Donald M. "Don" Proctor, Burlington, Iowa; William D. "Bill" Taunton, Willmar; Steve P. "Hawk" Molinari, Williston, N.D.; Warren L. "Beanie" Benko, Highland, Ind.; and Merle Lunceford, Ely.

The six umpires have worked high school, college and semi-pro baseball during their continuing careers as umpires and are currently working in those levels of baseball.

ANOTHER TROPHY WALLEYE from the Red Lake river is this nine and three-quarter pounder caught by Greg Rowley of St. Hilaire. Rowley was fishing near the rock dam at St. Hilaire, casting from shore with an orange and silver spoon, when he caught this lunker about 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

Ducks Unlimited Battles Drought Across Canada

While British Columbia and Alberta have experienced some relief from dry, spring conditions, the prairie region in Saskatchewan and Manitoba continues to receive a devastating "drought drubbing" according to Ducks Unlimited, North America's largest waterfowl conservation organization. Officials say the bone-dry conditions make waterfowl production prospects for the Canadian prairies look bleak.

"We are currently evaluating these circumstances," said DU Executive Vice President Dale E. Whitesell, "and this much we do know. The persistent, dry prairie conditions have frankly caused a number of birds to completely forego breeding efforts, which will likely mean an overall decline this fall from the numbers of birds in Canada's 1979 fall flight. Brood sizes are generally smaller than normal, and hatching dates of the birds that did nest successfully have been strung out. In Manitoba, for example, early-summer precipitation is 50 to 90 per cent below normal. Habitat conditions in southern Saskatchewan continue to deteriorate, but conditions are improved on the larger, northern marshes which are holding above-normal numbers of waterfowl. It is to these areas that we will look for the nucleus of a population which will return to the prairies next spring."

Though it has taken its toll with waterfowl broods, there are some positive aspects to the present drought situation according to Whitesell. The dry, firm ground, he points out, has enabled DU's construction crews to make good progress in their programs of building the dams, dikes, and other water-control structures which will help prevent a continuation of this year's devastating dry conditions next spring.

"I'm in no way trying to minimize the severity of this drought," said Whitesell, "but the dry, solid ground has indeed helped our construction crews push equipment in a cost effective manner into regions which are often wet and basically inaccessible at this time of the year. No one can change the fact that the drought has turned 1980 into a difficult waterfowl production season. Ducks Unlimited, however, was born in the Dust Bowl '30's, and the spirit that moved DU founders then is not unlike the long-range responsibility we feel for the waterfowl resource today. Drought or no drought, we plan on completing a 1980 construction schedule involving 77 new habitat projects in Saskatchewan and Manitoba designed to help the birds in their production efforts next spring, and for plenty of springs after that."

Under the bone-dry circumstances, Whitesell said the prairie provinces will simply yield as many birds as possible, with good to excellent production expected from eastern Canada. "Even though the prairie conditions are currently disappointing," said Whitesell, "DU is working toward minimizing the effects of droughts in years to come, and indeed hopes to work with the Canadian and U.S. governments in the future towards this end. In the meantime, the situation could have been a lot worse in critical areas had it not been for the moisture retained by DU water-control projects across the central part of Canada.

Oklee, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Radniecki motored to Rochester on Monday. Lovonne will undergo major surgery Tuesday morning. Hurry and get well there. Lovonne received word Saturday that her brother, Buck Horsewell of Montana passed away from a heart attack. Sympathy is extended to the family.

James Sparby and Tammie Chervestad exchanged marriage vows Saturday at the Oak Park Lutheran church with Rev. Keeler officiating. An outdoor evening reception was held at the parents' home, Juell Chervestads. Concluding the special event was an inch of rain. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sparby are making their home on the groom's farm northwest of Grygla. Overnight guests were Mrs. Juell Chervestad, a niece, and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Pundt and Nathan of Minneapolis.

Birthday luncheon guests in honor of grandson, Gregory's eighth birthday Sunday held at the Virgil Radniecki home were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sorenson, Stephanie and Jessica, and Mr. and Mrs. Errol Rustan and Sam.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bolstad called at the Julian Gunderson home Sunday evening, also visiting at Erving Hamm's of Goodridge.

Signe Evenson and Helen Chervestad visited at the Alvin and Sophie Burstad home of rural Thief River Falls Friday. They enjoyed viewing Sophie's flower beds.

Mr. and Mrs. Lacoursiere of Milwaukee (nee Helen Gustafson) are spending a few days visiting at her parental home, the Arthur Gustafsons. They returned from a trip to California and other sightseeing highlights. They are visiting with relatives and friends in the area.

Mr. and Mrs. Kal Lindberg and family of Thief River Falls were business callers at the Orlando Chervestad home Monday evening.

LEGAL NOTICE

July 28, 1980
Meeting Concerning Public Hearing on August 30
Agassiz Health Systems Agency

The Health Planning and Resources Development Act of 1974 (P.L. 93-641) was amended in 1979, requiring certain changes to the board composition of health systems agencies.

The major change in the composition for Agassiz HSA involves the consideration of the Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area of Grand Forks and Polk Counties. Board composition requirements direct that "the proportion of non-metropolitan representatives must be at least equal to the non-metropolitan proportion of the population of the service area". This means that the composition of the Agassiz Board must insure the proportionate representation of non-metropolitan areas within Agassiz.

A public hearing has been scheduled for 7:00 p.m., August 30, 1980 at the Westward Ho Motel, Grand Forks, North Dakota. Comments on this proposed board composition will be received up to and through this public hearing. Comments should be mailed to: Eric M. Monson, Executive Director, Agassiz Health Systems Agency, 31 South Third, Box 129, Grand Forks, North Dakota 58201.

Copies of the proposed board composition may be obtained at: Northwest Regional Development Commission, Crookston, MN; Headwaters Regional Development Commission, Bemidji, MN; and County Auditors offices or directly from Agassiz Health Systems Agency.

Courage Residence Helps Handicapped Be Independent

In the past, young adults with severe physical disabilities had a limited number of choices when they planned their future.

In most cases, they found they either had to live with their parents, relatives of friends, or reside in a hospital, nursing home of similar institution. Those who wanted to find employment or continue their education found those opportunities virtually nonexistent.

But now, as part of the modern re-definition of services for people with physical disabilities, severely handicapped young adults, living at Courage residence in Minneapolis are learning how to make the transition from dependence to independence.

Since its inception in 1976, Courage residence has provided the training and support necessary to help dozens of young men and women overcome the barriers of their disabilities and begin a lifestyle of self-dependence. Courage residence is a 64-bed facility adjoining Courage center, which is a United Way-affiliated rehabilitation organization. Most residents are individuals who have been injured in accidents or are disabled by congenital defects; they come from restricted situations such as nursing homes, hospitals or dependence on their families.

Courage residence is demonstrating that, for emotionally stable and intellectually capable young adults, institutional care is an obsolete concept, even for those with severe disabilities. Living in a relaxed dormitory-like atmosphere, residents benefit from a combination of physical restoration programs, counseling, vocational, recreational and social services. Residents' goals are self-directed, implemented by a contract system defining desired goals to be reached during their stay. The goals may include improvement of physical function, growth of self-dependence in personal care, development of cooking and home management skills, training for a vocation, finding and furnishing an accessible apartment and hiring an attendant. For some people, the contract system represents their first step in setting goals and taking responsibility for their own lives.

All of Courage center services are available to Courage residents. Some of the more than 70 programs are occupational therapy, physical therapy, driver education, sports, amateur radio, attendant care services, computer training services and the services of rehabilitation engineers (a combination of trained technicians and volunteers who evaluate each individual and then design and adapt apparatus to enhance that person's self-sufficiency).

In addition, transportation is available to residents to sports events, school, programs and recreational facilities throughout the Minneapolis-St. Paul area. Residents are encouraged to become familiar with the community and take advantage of the numerous accessible services which the metro area provides.

Because the concept is transitional and residents stay for only a limited amount of time, discharge planning is an integral part of the Courage residence program. A discharge planning specialist works with the resident soon after arrival to provide him or her with an understanding of personal skills and knowledge of community resources which will enable the resident to live more independently once he or she leaves the residence. Follow-up services are also essential to help former residents when they move into the community, so a public health nurse keeps in contact with newly discharged residents to be a supportive resource.

Courage residence has had a dramatic impact on clients' health and sense of well being. A recent follow-up study of former residents established that prior to moving into Courage residence, their average hospital stay had been 31 days per year. After completing their residential program, these individuals reduced their average annual number of days in the hospital to seven.

Courage residence, which is now receiving applications from all over the country, is open to adults with physical handicaps regardless of race or religion. Information is available by writing to the Administrator, Corage Residence, 3915 Golden Valley Road, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55422, or by calling (612) 588-0811.

Asks Disaster Payments For Special Crops

Congressman Arlan Stangeland announced recently that he has introduced legislation to provide disaster payments to the producers of the 1980 crops of flaxseed, soybeans, sugarbeets, sunflowers, potatoes and pinto beans for crop losses caused by natural disasters.

"Although current department of agriculture emergency assistance allows disaster payments for some of the drought-stricken farmers in northwestern Minnesota, a great many of our area farmers cannot receive these payments because their crops are not covered under the existing program. The 15-county disaster area provided over two-thirds of the sugar beet and potato crops in Minnesota in 1979 and also provided over 60 per cent of the state's flaxseed and sunflowers, yet none of these crops are now elibible for disaster payment assistance," Stangeland said.

The bill would establish a disaster payment program similar to that which is currently administered by the agricultural stabilization and conservation service. Farmers in disaster-declared areas would be eligible for payments of up to 60 per cent of the value of what the crop would have been in a normal year. The payment rate for each crop would be that which is determined by the secretary of agriculture to be fair and reasonable in relation to the rate for which disaster payments may be made for the 1980 crop of wheat.

"Because of the importance of these crops to the farmers in the drought-affected area, it is essential that they immediately be included in the disaster payment program. USDA emergency programs must be tailored to meet the needs of the severely impacted farmers in our area and I intend to continue pushing for appropriate legislation, as well as USDA administrative action, which will insure that adequate protection will be afforded our agricultural community and the entire Seventh District economy," he said.

FORMER MILITARY PLANES, now in private ownership, were included in the display Sunday during open house and air show activities at the Thief River Falls regional airport. Thousands of people turned out for the event and watched stunt flying by Jack Grahn of Roseau, Gregg Grahn from Brooten and Robert Schroeder from Erie, N.D.; low level flights by T-38 jets from the Grand Forks air force base and RF-4 jets from the Duluth national guard; aerial spray demonstration by Dean Philipp and Herb Weller; and ultra-light Eagle demonstration by Stuart Holmes. Take-off of the military aircraft shown above took place before rainfall put an end to the day's activities.

Two Appointed To FmHA Board For Three Years

Two appointments to the Farmers Home administration (FmHA) were made recently, according to Francis J. Koehmstedt, FmHA county supervisor.

A. Clifford Arveson, a grain and livestock farmer in the rural Trail area who is active in local community affairs, was appointed to the Pennington county committee of the FmHA. Also appointed was Glen N. Haugen, a grain and beef farmer in the rural Red Lake Falls area who is active in local community affairs, who was appointed to the Red Lake county committee of the FmHA.

County committee members are selected by the FmHA state director and serve for three year terms. In making the appointment, state director John Apitz noted, "the Farmers Home administration county or area committee has a vital knowledge of local agriculture in determining the eligibility of FmHA farm loan applicants. The board also acts as an advisory committee on FmHA farm program implementation."

Both the Red Lake county and Pennington county FmHA committees are composed of three members, each appointed by the FmHA state director for a three-year term. One appointment expires each year. County committee members must be knowledgeable of the type of farming operation in the area and have a good understanding of agricultural financing.

Other members of the Pennington county committee include Cornelius Appleman of rural Goodridge and Curtis Swanson of rural Thief River Falls. Other members of the Red Lake county committee include Darrell Glass of rural Red Lake Falls and Einar Kvasager of Oklee.

NW Experiment Station Herd Sets Record

According to Dr. George D. Marx, dairy scientist, production of the dairy herd at the Univeristy of Minnesota's Northwest experiment station has reached an all-time high of 18,907 pounds of milk and 677 pounds of fat per cow, actual DHIA 12-month rolling herd average.

This average was high enough to place the herd in the top 100 herds in Minnesota as published in the annual dairy herd improvement summary released on July 1, placing the herd in the top one per cent of herds in Minnesota. Minnesota has 855,000 cows in 19,000 herds with 33.6 per cent of the herds on the dairy herd improvement (DHI) testing program.

Nationally the herd was selected as an honor list herd by the Holstein-Fresian association for its high production. On official DHIR test the herd is ranked eighth in the state of Minnesota and the recrods were officially published in the recent annual summary edition of the "Holstein World." This is the first time a university herd in Minnesota has been placed on the national Holstein honor's list.

The herd consists of 65 registered milking cows, 30 bred heifers and 42 calves and open heifers. This is a closed herd, on the female side, meaning that no animals are purchased or brought into the herd from the outside. The herd has been upgraded genetically through artificial insemination, and with good nutrition and application of the latest technological and managerial skills the herd was developed to achieve this high level even though some of the research projects may occasionally deter top production.

Crazy Day Set This Thursday

Popular sidewalk sales, crazy auction and costume contest return as Crazy Days events for the 1980 in Thief River Falls on Thursday with new additions including a Hot Wheels race for the kiddies and a children's program at the city auditorium.

Sidewalk sales are scheduled to begin at 8 a.m. Thursday with stores to remain open and street sales to continue until 9 p.m., according to Ron Kalinoski, chairman of the event for the sponsoring retail business association of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce.

As encouragement for store employees to create imaginative and humorous costumes for the day, the retail business association is sponsoring eight cash prizes for the costume contest. First place winner selected by the judges will receive $40, second $30, third $25, fourth $15 and four fifth place winners will receive $5 each.

In addition, each store is being encouraged to select a theme and have its employees costumed in accordance with that theme. Winning store in that competition will receive a $20 cash prize and a number of entries have been made in that division.

Children's programs will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. in the city auditorium under sponsorship of the Northwest regional library.

Another addition to Crazy Days activities will be a Hot Wheels race program for children beginning at 1 p.m. at the K-mart parking lot. Boys and girls will compete for a total of $40 in cash prizes and trophies in divisions for ages 4-5 and 6-7.

The crazy auction will be held at 2:30 p.m. on LaBree avenue by KTRF radio with a number of merchandise items to be sold for crazy prices.

Once again store owners, managers and employees are being urged to walk or ride bicycle to work Thursday to provide as many parking spaces as possible for Crazy Days shoppers.

Pork Producers Plan Hog Day Here August 17

Northwest Minnesota Pork Producers association has planned a hog day for Sunday, August 17, at the Pennington county fairgrounds in Thief River Falls, according to Ken Stalboerger, general chairman for the event. Bob Fincher of Viking is president of the sponsoring association.

A feeder pig show will be held during the day with $1,500 in prize money to be awarded in classes for lightweight feeder pigs, heavyweight feeder pigs, champion gilt and champion barrow, Stalboerger said. So far 24 agriculturally-related businesses have arranged for booths in the sports arena on the fairgrounds.

A prok barbecue will be served beginning at 4:30 p.m. and will be open to the public with a fee to be charged.

The barbecue will precede the main public entertainment event of the day — a hog wrestling contest scheduled for 7 p.m. Four member teams will compete against the clock in an attempt to capture a 220-pound hog in a muddy 20x20 foot pen and deposit the animal in a barrel in the center of the pen.

Men's and women's teams will be entered in the competition with cash prizes of $150 for first place and $75 for second place to be awarded in both men's and women's divisions. Ad admission charge of $1.50 will be made to witness this event.

DURING A YEAR in which area crops are generally poor and many acres have been plowed down, the occasional good crop stands out like an oasis in the desert. This sunflower field about 10 miles west of Thief River Falls on the Roger Hible farm is a case in point. Although foliage has been tattered by insects, the plants seem unaffected and the heads being formed are large and full. Ability of sunflowers to reach down for moisture with a long tap root has made the crop one of the potential bright spots in an otherwise gloomy harvest picture. An extended dry spring and early summer retarded germination of small grain crops and stunted grain which did sprout. Hay crops also suffered and hay is expected to be in short supply for area livestock producers this winter. Although about 110 farmers in Pennington county requested permission to plow down about 8,000 acres under a government disaster program, estimates by Phil Bergland of the county ASCS office are that less than 1,000 acres has been turned under. "A number of farmers have come in and said they had second thoughts," Bergland said. "The thoughts appear to be good ones at present because price increases make even a poor crop better than a disaster payment."

Book Reading Program Ends At Library

Northwest Regional Library's summer reading program will end Wednesday, August 12, with a grand award ceremony and pet show.

Attendance will be by invitation only. All children who have completed their summer reading goals by July 31 will receive their invitations in the mail. Any other children completing their goals by August 9 will receive their invitation at the time of completion.

Over 125 children have been involved in the library's summer reading program. Over 40 still have one or more books to read to reach their personal goal. Children having questions about the recorded progress on their reading goal should call the library at 681-4325. Deadline for recording progress is August 9. Children have until that date to read and report on books.

175 Register For Selective Service Here

Approximately 175 young men in the 19 and 20-year-old age bracket have registered for the selective service system in the Thief River Falls post office, according to Dick McCloskey, assistant postmaster.

McCloskey said there were no protests and the registration process is going smoothly. "We hear a few jokes and comments but nothing serious," he said. A suggested schedule for registration according to birth dates is posted in the post office and young men are advised to consult that schedule for most orderly registration.

Paper Drive Set August 16

Another paper collection drive in Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire has been scheduled for Saturday, August 16, according to Mrs. Donna Olson, coordinator of the drive.

FIRST PLACE WINNER in the baby photo contest sponsored by the Thief River Falls Jaycee women was Kia Frericks, 13 months, daughter of Mike and Lori Frericks of Holt. As first place winner in the contest, the Frericks will receive a $50 bond. Over 36,800 votes were cast during the two-week contest, according to Sue Schulthorp, co-chairman of the project.

Many Events Remain In Jaycee Aquacade Schedule

Windup of the 36th annual Jaycee Aquacade will take place throughout the remainder of this week with several major events still on the schedule, according to the sponsoring Jaycee chapter.

Tonight the dance contest will begin at the Elks club rooms under the director of Lee Furuseth of the Jaycees and Dave Rislov, manager of the Elks club. Couples which consent to be judged tonight could be selected to return as finalists Thursday, Furuseth and Rislov said. Winning couple will receive a trophy and designation as best dancers for 1980-81. Persons interested may contact the Elks at 681-3045 or Furuseth at 681-1996.

Tomorrow (Thursday) at 7 p.m. the annual water fights will be held on Second street between Knight and Duluth avenues. Larry Hansen, chairman of that activity, noted that registration of teams will remain open until that evening and teams may register at the water fight site at 6 p.m.

Several teams have been entered already, he said, and entries may consist of men's, women's or mixed teams which will compete equally. Entry fee is $10 per team of four to five members and all entry fees will be paid back as prizes to the top three teams.

Semi-finals and championship matches in the Jaycee racquetball tournament are also being played in the next several days. Details on the tournament are included in today's sports section of the Times, as is information on the archery tournament scheduled Saturday and Sunday.

Jaycee tennis tournament will begin Friday with junior events and continue on Saturday for men's and women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles play. Championship matches will be played Sunday. Entry deadline is today and entry forms must be completed and returned with entry fees to Terry Beich, tournament director. He may be contacted at 681-4124.

Several events scheduled Sunday will make that day an action-filled conclusion to the Aquacade week which began with a parade and Miss Thief River Falls pageant last Saturday. Among events scheduled for Sunday are the following:

Canoe Races

Canoe races will begin at 9 a.m. with canoes leaving the Smiley bridge landing southeast of Thief River Falls on the Red Lake river and racing downstream to a finish at the swimming beach at LaFave park.

Competition will be held in men's women's and junior divisions and pre-registration

Charly McClain, Country Star, Proves Daddy Right

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

When Charlotte McClain's daddy was hauling his son and daughter around the countryside to play and sing at every dance and gathering he could find, he never doubted that his little girl would be a country-western singing star. Time has proved him right.

Now 24 years old, her first name shortened to Charly, his little girl is the fastest rising star in the country music field. Her appearance at the Pennington county fair was one of many which has her schedule completely filled from last January through the month of September.

"It is a demanding occupation and I do sometimes feel that I really don't have time to be myself," she confided during an interview with this writer following her well-received performance here. "Somewhere I'm going to have to find a week off but I don't know when that will be."

Charly rolled into Thief River Falls about 6 p.m. in her own bus, a compact home away from home that serves as her transportation, living quarters, dressing room, office, reception area, recreation parlor and occasional dining room. After her performance, autograph-signing and interview she left with her band, bus and equipment for a 16-hour drive to her next appearance site in Michigan.

Despite the rugged schedule and thousands of miles of travel, Charly prefers the one-night stands to longer club engagements.

"It's different, more exciting than working the same place night after night, because that gets to be like dull," she explained in the accent we Yankees have come to expect from country singers and musicians. She shares that opinion with Jeannie C. Riley, last year's county fair entertainer here, who Miss McClain claims as a good friend.

She also shares with Jeannie Riley the opinion that the country music field is one in which a performer must "pay her dues" before being accepted.

"It has really taken until just recently for me to be accepted by many others in this field," she admitted. "And people feel like they have to give more applause to the top name act even if they enjoy the others more.

"I have been in shows where I KNOW the crowd loved us equally if not more than that next act, yet they save their applause for the top name. I don't know why that is, but it is true that you have to pay your dues."

This despite the fact that every song Charly has recorded since she began her career with Epic records about four years ago has made the top 100 list, and that her last three single records have sold over 150,000 copies each — considered exceptional in the field.

"Country artists don't make single records, they make albums," Charly explained. "If you hit anywhere around 100,000 each single record you're doing real well. When my record company tells me my songs are selling more than other artists who have hits out at the same time I say, 'Wow! I just can't believe it!' It's really exciting."

Those last three records with the skyrocketing sales are "Men", "Let's Put Our Love in Motion" and "That's What You Do to Me".

In her personal appearances, Charly is a diminutive figure whose voice belies her size. In her performance here she was drewsed in a shimmering white satin jumpsuit with a sequined and fringed poncho and gold high-heeled shoes. With her long brown hair and dark eyes she was a personification of femininity. We asked about the importance of appearance in relation to talent.

"These days, with as much competition as there is, I think visual appearance is a very, very big part of being successful. If a really super ugly woman with a really good voice was to walk into a recording company, they wouldn't even give her a chance to sing," she said.

"If a really good-looking woman who is just an average singer walks into the same studio, they're going to say, 'Hey, let's listen to this girl!'

"But, it goes back to the question you asked about paying your dues. A lot of female singers have 'paid their dues' in more than one way to get into the music business. I've talked to people about this several times. I never had to, thank God; I made it on what I could do. To me that's so important because you have to live with yourself forever.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Marci Gustafson And Kevin Lull Exchange Vows

Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Lull are at home at 27 Bay Street, Beechwood apartments 9632, Apartment 4, at Oceanview, VA 23503, following an exchange of marriage vows at Redeemer Lutheran church, Thief River Falls.

The bride, the former Marci Gustafson, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gustafson of this city. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Emil Harbott, Jr., of St. Hilaire.

Officiating at the two o'clock, double-ring ceremony was Rev. Keith Prekker. Preceding the processional Jan Nordin sang "Follow Me." He was joined by his wife, Diedre, in singing the "Wedding Song," before the vows. After the lighting of the unity candle and the presentation of roses to the mothers, Mrs. Nordin sang "Morning Bells." "The Lord's Prayer" was sung as the couple knelt at the altar.

Organist at the wedding was Mrs. Joyce Halbasch. Serving as acolytes were David Harbott, brother of the groom, and Mark Gervais, a cousin.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her parents. She was attired in a gown of white qiana trimmed with a silk floss Venice lace. The molded bodice, appliqued with lace, featured a Queen Anne neckline, outlined with lace, and long, tapered sleeves, enhanced by chiffon inserts appliqued with lace. Attached at the empire waistline was an A-line skirt that flowed into a lace edged chapel-length train. To complement her gown, she wore a lace edged mantilla of bridal illusion attached to a lace headpiece. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses, white daisies, babies' breath and carnations, accented with silk streamers. For the old, new, borrowed and blue theme, she wore her mother's blue garter. Her only jewelry was a diamond necklace, a gift from the groom.

Julie Gilbert, friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Other attendants were Kathi Gustafson, Vicki Gustafson, sisters of the bride, and Jodi Habedank and Pamela Grove, friends of the bride. Their gowns of yellow serenade satin were fashioned with high waistlines and gathered bodices with spaghetti straps. Topping the gowns were float capes of brown and yellow floral chiffon. Their gold necklaces were gifts from the bride. They carried bouquets of yellow roses, white daisies and yellow carnations and babies' breath with yellow silk streamers. In their hair, they wore combs with yellow and white daisies. Their flowers as well as all the flowers and corsages at the wedding were made by the bride and maid of honor.

Attired in a gown of yellow satin, lace and chiffon was the flower girl, Amy Haugen, cousin of the bride. She carried a small white basket filled with yellow and white daisies and dark brown ribbons. Her gold cross was a gift from the bride.

The bride's personal attendant was Linda Mattson. Marcia Kalinowski was flower attendant and Natalie Nelson and Dena Poole distributed the wedding programs and thank-you scrolls.

Greg Gervias, cousin of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Alan Lull, brother of the groom, Steve Fisher, cousin of the bride; and Rick Swanson and Mark Drury, friends of the groom. Ring bearer was Cory Gustafson, brother of the bride. He carried a heart shaped pillow made by the bride's mother. Ushers were Danny Lappegaard, cousin of the groom, and David Jorstad, cousin of the bride.

Hanson Files For Reelection To Senate

Marv Hanson of Hallock has filed for reelection to the Minnesota state senate from District 1 which includes Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and parts of Polk and Beltrami counties.

Hanson was first elected as state senator in 1976 and has served on the agriculture and natural resources committee, judiciary and the tax committees. Gaining recognition for his work to revise and simplify the state's tax structure, he was a member in each of the past four sessions of the legislature of the tax conference committee which shapes the omnibus tax legislation.

In 1979 Hanson was elected by his colleagues after only two years in the state senate to be assistant majority leader and vice chairman of the Senate rules committee. He also serves on the agricultural land preservation commission, the tax study commission and the legislative coordinating commission.

On filing Hanson stated, "I've worked these past four years to represent the viewpoints and opinions from northwest Minnesota at the legislature. I would like to see farm real estate tax assessments revised as well as those for small businesses and want to restructure school aids so our local school districts would receive their fair share. Legislation of mine in those areas has passed the state senate, but has not gained approval from the House of Representatives. If reelected I would work for their passage into law."

Hanson farms with his father, Byron, and brother, Cal, in Kittson county. He also does tax and estate work on a part-time basis. Hanson and his wife, Gayle, have two children, George and Kate, and live on their farm southwest of Hallock.

142 Attend Blood Drive Last Week

Community blood drive Thursday and Friday at the CNC unit at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls had 78 donors Wednesday with 14 of those deferred and 64 donors Thursday with four deferred until the next blood drive in September.

The drive was described as a "terrific turn-out" by Clarice Collins, coordinator of local arrangements for United Blood Services of the Upper Midwest blood bank.

Northwestern Bell telephone operators provided refreshments for the two-day drive, with operators serving food to all donors. The blood drive was sponsored by the Thief River Falls chapter of the Business and Professional Women's club.

1941 CHEVROLET owned by Frank Botko of Warren was one of several displays featured in the 36th annual Aquacade parade conducted in the city of Thief River Falls last Saturday afternoon. Otter Tail Co. Announces Dual Energy Plant

Otter Tail Power company vice president for North Dakota operations Bob Nygard, Jamestown, announced today that his company was proceeding with permit applications to construct and operate a coal-fired cogeneration plant near Spiritwood, North Dakota, about 11 miles east of Jamestown.

The plant will be approximately 125,000 kilowatts in size, or large enough to supply the electrical needs of a city four times the size of Jamestown.

Plant will be designed to take advantage of the efficiencies of cogeneration concepts, Nygard said. It will provide for the utilization of thermal energy as well as the production of electricity. The dual use of the plant will result in greater efficiencies than could a plant devoted entirely to producing electricity.

Nygard said Otter Tail has engaged Gibbs and Hill, Omaha, Nebraska, as the architect-engineer for the project. It is hoped that the plant can be operational by September 1985, Nygard concluded.

FILING with Joan Growe, Minnesota secretary of state, is Sen. Marv Hanson of Hallock who will be seeking his second term in the state senate. Sen. Hanson announced his filing this week for reelection to represent District 1 which includes Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and parts of Polk and Beltrmi counties.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor;

I am writing in regard to the 10 kilometer race being held Aug. 3rd in connection with the Aquacade. It seems unfair that men may enter in one of four classes based on age while women are lumped together in one class entitled "open". Both men and women are paying the same entry fee and should be given an equal opportunity to compete within their age category.

Last year I asked about this and was told that more men enter the race than women.

There are always reasons for discrimination but it is never reasonable.

Sincerely,
Jean Olds

deadline is August 1 (Friday). Entry fee is $5 per two-person team and all entry fees will be returned as prizes to the top finishers. To register contact Jesse Schimke at 681-6430 after 5:30 p.m.

10-Kilometer Marathon

This running race of 10 kilometers (6.2 miles) is cosponsored by Dallmann Athletic and offers competition in classes for women, men 19 and young, men 20-29, men 30-39 and men 40 and older. Trophies will be awarded to the top four finishers and all runners completing the course will receive a T-shirt.

Race will start at 11 a.m. Sunday at LaFave park and registration will close at 10:30 a.m. Sunday at the park. Early registration is encouraged and entry blanks can be obtained by writing to Race Director, Box 53, Thief River Falls, or contacting project chairmen Mike Kruse or Larry Mike.

Power Boat Races

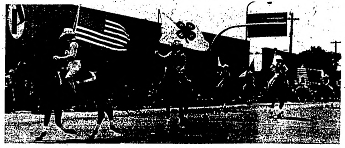
Second annual Spirit Challenge Cup power boat races will be held on the river between the Third and Eighth street bridges Sunday afternoon. The races are sanctioned by the American Power Boat association as a points event for outboard boats with five classes for both "V" and "tunnel" boars with engines up to two litres in size.

The boats range in value from $6,000 to $15,000 and will reportedly reach speeds of close to 100 miles per hour on the tight river course. Starting time is 1 p.m. and admission is by Aquacade booster button.

Following the boat racing, children's games and several other park events will take place in LaFave park. A beef barbecue plate lunch will be served at the park continuously from 12 noon to 8 p.m. Lunch cost of $3.50 is reduced to $2.50 if the customer is wearing an Aquacade booster button.

Concluding event will be the traditional fireworks display in the Eighth street bridge area. The sponsoring Jaycees have expended $1,500 for fireworks this year because of the public response to the display each year.

"One year we didn't have it," states general cochairman Randy Adamson, "and we soon realized what it means to the community, especially the children." Because of the expense, however, the Jaycees have requested financial assistance from organizations, businesses or individuals outside the organization to help defray some of the cost.



AMONG NEW UNITS this year in the 36th annual Aquacade parade was a 12-horse 4-H club drill team from Kennedy. The appearance was one of several which entertained parade-goers during the Saturday afternoon parade.

Charly McClain Proves Daddy Guessed Right

"I would hate to think that I had to be with a producer or a record company executive in any way to make it to where I am today," she emphasized.

Charly is also concerned that the drifting together of country and popular music is halted and begins to be reversed so that they can remain separate fields.

"Everybody was doing cross-over material there for awhile and it did get so you couldn't tell one from the other," she said. "I could turn on a radio station and not know if I was listening to a country station or pop station or what. But lately I'm hearing more steel guitar and more fiddle and I know that I'm going more country in the album I'm working on now."

Although riding a rise to stardom has to be an ego trip, Charly doesn't live in fear of recording what turns out to be her last hit song.

"It's going to happen some day," she said. "It has to. But I want to do a lot of other things besides sing. I want to get into television. I do some acting. I hope that when that time comes I will be far enough along into other things that I can just keep on doing what I'm doing."

Her next TV appearance is scheduled to be a 90-minute network special entitled "Roy Clark in the Bahamas", to be televised in the next couple of months. She is also doing an episode of "Love Boat" and has several other irons in the fire.

Today's Charly McClain is a long way from the 10-year-old kid who rode around in her daddy's car and sang "Divorce" and other Tammy Wynette hits in barns and halls in the southern countryside. But she can't hide the real country when she talks about her background and its contribution to her life and her career.

You can take the girl out of the country, to corrupt a popular saying, but you can't take the country out of the girl.

"She always had a real positive attitude," her dad said as we visited while the band was loading the bus. He was riding along on this six-week tour as the first time he had traveled with his daughter during her career. Mom was at home in a new house Charly had purchased for her parents.

"Whenever she talked about anything she never said 'if', she always said 'when'," Mr. McClain said. "I knew she was good and I knew she could make it. No, I never had any doubts."

After a life as a small town electrician, he was obviously enjoying the amenities of his daughter's success. "I keep up my license," he smiled, "but I haven't done much electrical work lately. I look after Charly's mail . . . answer the phone . . . take care of a few details . . . go to the bank."

Pennington county fair board members admit they were lucky. They booked the Charly McClain show a year ago at a price half of what the entertainer commands today. Celebrities have been known to jump contracts on occasion to accept more lucrative pacts. It is frowned upon in the entertainment world, but it does happen.

Fair-goers here are fortunate Charly likes her work, likes to work and honors her commitments. The show was entertaining — loud, but entertaining — and the talent was definitely there. Thanks, Charly, for going country with us.

PIONEER TALES

from the Pennington County Historical Society

by Inga Geving

We have been so busy doing things at the historical village, my column is late. So many projects have been worked on! The first one was moving in the Soo caboose. We want to thank Charles Hedeen for his able help in this project. Without that I don't know how the job would have been accomplished. His name was accidentally omitted in the Times story reporting the event, and although I did not write that story, I am so sorry that his name was missed. He moved both the Soo and Burlington Northern cabooses, and that was a big job. Thank you, Charles!

And thanks also to all the men who helped remove, clean and replace the bricks. Harold Mutzke and Edwin Helgeland spent three weeks at this job. Woody Craik spent much time helping them, along with Gilfred Sannes, Carl Bergren, Andy Nesland and Tom Mattson.

Painting inside and outside is being done; soon the old depot will look like it did when it served as the depot for so many years in the past. Some of the machinery that we have acquired has been moved into the warehouse, all taking much time and planning and work.

The telephone company has begun setting up its display upstairs in the house donated by Northwestern Bell. The downstairs has furniture and settings from over 50 years ago. Mrs. Ed Belland donated an old set of dishes for the china closet, which added much to the dining room's interest. The pantry is now a millinery shop and the kitchen has the fancy dresser and shoes.

Peter Solem donated a log house; this is ready to move into now. We would like to furnish it as a German, Polish or other nationality's house, reflecting the furnishings of any nationality which lived in Pennington county.

A very important request: We still need stories for the second volume of our historical book. Don't you have a story that should be told, one that will add to our rich history and will entertain or surprise the generation for whom we are preserving it? Every family has a story or two, or more. Share them with us, won't you? We want to get our book published soon, and we want what you have to tell us.

"We have had several guests visiting our village from other countries: Norway, Sweden, Germany, England and Canada. Also among our visitors were people from several other states. We are so happy to see them all. And if you have visitors from out of town, make it a point to bring them to the village. Everyone seems to enjoy it, and we have many proud families bringing someone in to show what we have to offer. We want to see YOU!

A LONG WALK faced marching units in the Thief River Falls Aquacade parade as they formed at the county fairgrounds and moved down highway 1 into the downtown area. This youngster was one of the smaller parade marchers but seemed to be holding up well under the strain as she reached the area near Main avenue.

THESE YOUNGSTERS were not bothered by traffic as they rolled into Thief River Falls Saturday afternoon during the 36th annual Aquacade parade conducted as one of several Aquacade activities occurring throughout this week. Various floats, bands and marching units were also featured in the parade.

MEA To Seek Federal Aids To Education

Minnesota Education association (MEA) has joined a nationwide campaign for a revenue sharing program that would provide $400 in federal funds for every student in public educational institutions.

MEA president Donald C. Hill has sent a letter to each member of Minnesota's congressional delegation seeking support of the effort, which already has the blessing of the National Education association (NEA).

Introduced by the Minnesota delegation, a new business item was adopted by the recent NEA representative assembly in Los Angeles and states the following:

"The NEA shall direct efforts in Congress to establish a per capita revenue-sharing program for all educational institutions that provides at least $400 per student be returned to every state and be disbursed through existing channels. State education associations shall be prepared to monitor the disbursement and to protect the integrity of federal funds as additional resources, not replacement resources."

In his letter, Hill points out that "public education is being victimized at an alarming rate by lack of appropriate funding — especially on the federal level.

"Failure of the federal government to respond to the needs of the public schools," Hill continues, "would allow the present decline to be fought at the state and local levels only. This is a national crisis and must be addressed as such."

June Vacation Number Rises To Normal Level

Number of Minnesota vacationers traveling by automobile during the month of June returned to normal this year after a substantial drop in June of 1979, according to Thief Minnesota state automobile association (AAA). In fact, Minnesota AAA handled 9,948 travel requests in June of this year compared with 8,361 last year, an increase of 19 per cent.

Why the increase? According to Darrell Monson, acting manager of the auto travel department, "Obviously, the biggest factor for the increase is the availability of gasoline. Last year, because of the uncertainty of purchasing fuel, people were afraid to leave home."

In spite of ample fuel supplies this summer, Minnesota vacation travelers are setting a new trend. They are planning trips closer to home. Although states such as Colorado and California remain high on the list of destinations, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin are gaining in popularity. Said Monson, "It's good to see that Minnesotans are traveling with conservation in mind. This is a trend which is long overdue. Our freedom of future vacation travel is dependent on consistant, daily conservation efforts."

Lisa Hefty At FFA Camp For Leadership

Lisa Hefty of the Thief River Falls FFA chapter is attending the state FFA leadership camp July 27 to August 1 at Crookston. The one week camp is held annually for FFA members from across the state and is designed to help members build FFA leadership in themselves and their chapter and promote personal growth and development. Members learn about FFA activities and programs such as safety and BOAC (building our American communities). Areas in personal growth include etiquette and public speaking.

This year, for the first time, there are two state camps being held. In the past few years members wanting to attend the camp had to be turned away because the camp filled. Creating a second camp allows those members who might have been turned away to attend camp. the camps are being held at McGregor and Crookston.

The camps are conducted by state FFA officers who serve as the counselors of the camp and present all of the sessions. Future Farmers of America is a national organization that has over 15,000 members in Minnesota and hopes to develop citizenship and leadership in all members.

ARE PRIMARY TEETH IMPORTANT?

Want to make your dentist cringe? Tell him not to waste his time on your child's severly decayed teeth because, "It's only a baby teeth and he's going to lose it anyway".

Don't kid yourself! Primary teeth (a much better phrase than "baby teeth") play a very important role in the development of a child's future dental health. Obviously, they are necessary for chewing. Even more important, primary teeth create the proper spaces for permanent teeth. A primary teeth that is prematurely lost can no longer do this job. The teeth nearby will crowd into the empty space, and when the follow-on permanent teeth tries to enter there may be no room. As a result, it may become impacted (lean sideways inside the gum). It may come out in the wrong place (for example, through the front of the gum). Or, it may crowd its way in and destroy the delicate balance of the mouth.

Losing primary teeth prematurely is one of the commonest reasons for orthodontic treatment later on. Prompt treatment with a space-maintaining appliance is generally called for to reserve the room for the next tenant.

A public service to promote better dental health. From the office of; DONALD R. GOODRICH, D.D.S., Professional Bldg., Thief River Falls. Phone: 681-4506.

Guardsmen Add Names To Roll At Little Falls

Young Minnesota army national guardsmen took time out from annual training at Camp Ripley to join their 19 and 20-year-old peers around the country in trekking to post offices to register for selective service rolls.

Buses were provided by the guard's 47th "Viking" infantry division, in training at Ripley July 12-26, from the central Minnesota training site to the post office in nearby Little Falls so the young guardsmen could fill out appropriate forms and beat the registration deadline.

Under the law, all 19 and 20-year-olds must register with selective service throughout the country. This includes members of the national guard even though, if a draft should be instituted, members of guard units would be exempt since they already belong to a component of the U.S. armed forces.

LARSON MUSIC
"Downtown Thief River Falls"

PARADE WATCHERS Saturday afternoon during the Jaycee Aquacade parade in Thief River Falls had a good view of the entries as they moved up Third street. While Mrs. Jerry Young and her youthful associate shared appreciation of an approaching unit, this bulldog seemed to be savoring the potential leg biting afforded by the marching bands. Judging by the owner's grip on the leash, he didn't want his canine companion to put any such ideas into practice.

Movie Monday Conducted At Library Aug. 4

Movie Mondays, a film series for young people sponsored by the Northwest Regional library, will again be conducted August 4 from 2 to 3:30 p.m. in the library's meeting room.

This week's films include:

"Licorice Train" — scenes from an urban ghetto are contrasted with the dream world of a young black boy who imagines the many places the "Licorice Train" could take him;

"Masterkiteman" — an enchanting study of the world of the kite told by Dinesh Bahadur, master kiteman. He describes the significance of kite flying, the philosophical importance and its allegorical parallel to the search for truth and beauty in life;

"Mole and the Chewing Gum" — an animated cartoon in which a mole is unable to get rid of the peice of chewing gum that is stuck on him.

"Music Box" — probably Laurel & Hardy's funniest sound comedy. All about delivering a piano to a home on the top of a hill;

"Where is death?" — low keyed drama deals compassionately with a subject which young children may be forced to face. In this movie, a six year old must face the death of her 9-year-old brother;

"Dick Smith" — a step by step look at the long and complicated process used to build a new face on the features of an actor.

HOOTS, WHISTLES AND SCREAMS from this group of boys caused a number of young ladies in the Jaycee Aquacade parade to lose their composure temporarily. This majorette with the Pershing high school marching band from Plummer was among the girls to meet with the boys' obvious approval, and the boys were undoubtedly pleased with the reaction their attention and behavior created.

Invite Grain Entries For Goodridge Fair

Goodridge area historical society will be having a grain display among the many items to be made available for viewing to the public on August 30 as part of the one-day celebration commemorating the Tri-County fair held in 1919 in Goodridge.

Farmers are encouraged to save sheaves of grain now as most of the harvesting will be completed at the time of the celebration. The society would like farmers to bring as many different displays as they can.

Participation ribbons will be given to each person participating. There will be no cash awards but the ribbon has been specially designed for this occasion.

Along with the grain displays will be garden produce, fancy work, flowers, forage, livestock and old machinery. These items will also be judged and each exhibitor will receive a ribbon.

Boosters Of Our Saviour's Academy Meet

To assist with fund raising, maintenance and other school needs, a booster group for Our Saviour's Christian academy will be formed at a meeting scheduled for Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

Our Saviour's Lutheran church has assumed operation of the former King's Way Christian academy and the booster group will be a successor to the women's auxiliary of the King's Way school.

Mrs. Mauritz Scholin, president of the former auxiliary group, will preside at Monday night's meeting at which a reorganization will take place. All parents of children attending the academy and other persons interested in providing assistance are urged to attend.

THIS TYPE OF PROBLEM in the Thief river is being corrected in five areas under a contract involving the Red Lake watershed district, Minnesota department of natural resources and Donald Larson Construction company of Holt. Silt and sand deposits such as the weed-covered ridge extending from the lower right through the center of the above photo are being removed from the inside of five river bends with a dragline. Material dug from the riverbed and dumped on the bank will be leveled. The silt and sand accumulations are washed into the river from surrounding fields during periods of spring run-off or heavy rainfall. Cleaning work is being done this year when unusually dry conditions permit the operation to be done in the most economical fashion.

Ninth District Tournament Outlook

Annually dominated by the Moorhead Blues, the Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament gets underway Thursday in Red Lake Falls with a new twist — a wide open field and no clear-cut favorite. The eight sub district survivors will be shooting for a berth in the 1980 Minnesota American Legion state tournament, scheduled to be played August 8-11 in Richfield.

First round pairings in the double-elimination Ninth District tournament shows Detroit Lakes vs. Frazee, Gonvick vs. Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks vs. Fertile and Breckenridge vs. Moorhead Golds.

The tournament is without two teams who were considered throughout the season as strong title contenders — Glyndon and the Moorhead Blues. They were seeded 1-2 in the Sub District 2 tournament, but neither one reached the Ninth District tournament field. Audubon erupted for five runs in the top of the seventh inning to eliminate the Moorhead Blues in Sub District 3 play, ending a 10-year championship reign for the Blues.

That opens up all kinds of conjecture on who will emerge as the Ninth District tournament champion. The possibilities are numerous, with Detroit Lakes, Thief River Falls, Frazee, Breckenridge and East Grand Forks all in the title picture.

A strong argument could be made to rank Detroit Lakes as the pre-tournament favorite. Detroit Lakes, 22-11-1, ripped the Moorhead Golds 13-1 for the Sub District 2 title last week. Detroit Lakes split with that strong Glyndon team during the year, winning 7-1 and losing 7-4 while dropping a close 5-4 decision to the Moorhead Blues. The Sub District 2 champions also took two out of three meetings with Thief River Falls, losing 2-1 but winning 4-2 in a July 6 doubleheader here, then posting a 6-4 win on the Detroit Lakes diamond July 20.

Detroit Lakes is loaded with pitchers, a valuable item in a longer tournament. Jeff Nelson, Scott, Santwire, Jon Grabow and Larry McLaury provide Detroit Lakes with the best pitching staff in the tournament.

But Detroit Lakes faces a first round test in Frazee, a Sub District I runner-up with a 20-11 record that has an outstanding pitcher in Scott Bergland. Detroit Lakes managed to pull out a 3-2 decision over Frazee during the season while Thief River Falls lost both ends of a June 22 doubleheader at Frazee, 5-3 and 10-6.

Breckenridge beat Frazee twice to win the double-elimination Sub District I tournament, 4-1 and then 12-2 in the finals. Breckenridge was a regular season winner in the West Central American Legion baseball league with a 9-1 record.

Thief River Falls, despite a late-season slump, still possesses enough talent to be a Ninth District tournament contender. And Nick Drees' club has a solid pitching staff featuring Jeff Ulrich, Wayne Huseth, Kelly Gutterud and Greg Harder.

East Grand Forks showed it can be a tournament threat by beating regular season Northwest League champion Thief River Falls 3-1 in the Sub District 4 championship game Sunday. But East Grand Forks, Gonvick, Fertile and Frazee may not have the pitching for a four-day tournament. The Moorhead Golds have a losing record and are not figured to be in the championship picture.

No doubt it's going to be an interesting tournament.

AFTER STEPPING ON second base for a force-out on TRF Merchants' Bill Dicken (7), Steve Nordhagen of Furuseth-Nelson tried to complete a third inning double play with a throw to first during Monday's first place battle in the American League East Division of the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association. The throw was too late to get the double play, but Furuseth-Nelson created a first place division tie by beating the TRF Merchants 9-7.

Third Cat Classic Golf Tournament Starts Fri.

A large field is expected to compete this weekend in the third annual Cat Classic golf tournament at the Thief River Country Club.

Tournament director Jon Bolen anticipates top notch competition in both the professional and amateur portion of the tournament, sponsored by Arctic Enterprises, Inc.

Headlining the list of entrants are defending champions Marty Irving of Duluth and Jay Moum of Thief River Falls.

Irving won the Cat Classic Pro-Am title a year ago with a 70, a one-shot victory over Mike Barge of Fargo in the 13-man field of top area golf professionals.

Moum beat three Mahnomen products — Gary Peterson, Paul Hanson and Jim Strandemo — en route to the title in the match play Cat Classic championship flight last summer.

Northwestern Minnesota's only golf Pro-Am will kick off the 1980 Cat Classic Friday at 1 p.m. Amateur golfers will play along with the region's top professionals and compete for prizes in a double best ball format.

Amateur portion of the Cat Classic starts Saturday at 8 a.m. for men, women and junior golfers. The men's championship division will feature 27 holes of medal play both Saturday and Sunday.

Men's, women's and junior divisions (16-under) will follow a match play format after a qualifying round. All golfers will compete for medalist honors as well as an increased purse of flight prizes.

Nancy Harris of Roseau is the defending women's champion. Jim Geatz of Thief River Falls took top honors in 1979 junior play. Last year marked the start of women's and junior competition after the Cat Classic debuted in 1978 with Paul O'Leary of Grand Forks winning the Pro-Am title with a 69 and Wade Hoppe of Thief River Falls taking the medal play championship flight with a 178, a three-stroke margin over Scott Harris of Roseau over the 45 holes.

There is no admission charge for spectators, who are welcome to follow the golfers around the 6,054-yard Thief River Country Club course.

Arctic Enterprises, Inc. will again offer a snowmobile for a hole-in-one at the Cat Classic. A 1981 Pantera valued at $2,849 will be awarded to a Cat Classic competitor posting a hole-in-one on the 160-yard, par-three fourth hole.

For additional Cat Classic tournament information contact the Thief River Country Club, telephone 681-2955.

Saints, Ekeren Drug Will Meet For Division Title

First place in Division I will be at stake tonight (Wednesday) when the division-leading St. Hilaire Saints (18-2) face second place Ekeren Drug (17-3) in the Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league.

Game time will be at 6:20 p.m. on fairgrounds diamond 2. A St. Hilaire victory in the next-to-the-last night of regular season play would wrap up the Division I title. An Ekeren Drug triumph would create a first place tie. The 1980 regular season schedule comes to an end Monday when the St. Hilaire Saints will play the American Legion and Ekeren Drug faces Pizza Hut.

Stephanie Nelson pitched a shutout as the St. Hilaire Saints blanked Pizza Hut 11-0 Monday. But Ekeren Drug needed a home run by Kelly Storhaug and two double plays to get by Roseau Transport 5-4. Cindy Bruggeman had a home run and a triple for the losers.

Great Northwest Agency pulled off the night's biggest surprise, beating the Schmidt Stealers 14-4 as Sandy Vose, Julie Tweeter and Diann Jesme all hit triples.

Hydra-Mac scored in the bottom of the seventh inning to pull out a 6-5 victory over The Barbers.

Home runs by Diane Fisher, Deb Jacobson and Carla Reed carried already-crowned Division II champion Dwight's Hartz to a 17-7 triumph over the Health Hustlers.

Ridge Runners pulled off two double plays, but still lost a 3-2 decision to Northern Employers Agency, with Linda Rux hitting a triple for the winners.

A triple by Kim Olson was featured in a 12-9 Credit Bureau victory over Walseth Construction while the American Legion defeated the Mush-a-Rettes 11-8.

After completing regular season play Monday, the league's post-season playoffs will be played as a pair of eight-team tournaments Sunday, Aug. 10, that will crown winners in Division I and Division II. The playoffs will be a single elimination affair, with a consolation bracket.

Archery Meet Is Included In TRF Aquacade

Thief River Falls archery club will host an archery tournament Saturday and Sunday in conjunction with the Thief River Falls Jaycees Aquacade celebration.

A 900-round will be shot Saturday at Centennial park, located on highway 1 across from Northland community college. Registration will be held from 9-10 a.m., with shooting starting at 9. Awards will be presented at 2 p.m.

Broadhead animal round and field round competition will be held both Saturday and Sunday at the archery range located south of the Thief River Falls regional airport.

Legion Baseball Tournament

Ninth District Pairings Set

Four opening round games Thursday will kick off the 1980 Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament at Red Lake Falls. The eight-team, double-elimination affair will send its winner to the Minnesota American Legion state baseball tournament in Richfield August 8-11.

The Ninth District tournament features the winners and runner-up teams from four area sub district tournaments. All games will be played at Red Lake Falls.

First round games Thursday will feature Sub District 2 champion Detroit Lakes vs. Sub District 1 runner-up Frazee at 1 p.m.; Sub District 3 champion Gonvick vs. Sub District 4 runner-up Thief River Falls at 3:30; Sub District 4 champion East Grand Forks vs. Sub District 3 runner-up Fertile at 6:30; and Sub District I champion Breckenridge vs. Sub District 2 runner-up Moorhead Gold at 9.

Games on Friday will match the Detroit Lakes-Frazee loser vs. the Gonvick-Thief River Falls loser at 1 p.m.; the East Grand Forks-Fertile loser vs. the Breckenridge-Moorhead Gold loser at 3:30; the Detroit Lakes-Frazee winner vs. the Gonvick-Thief River Falls winner at 6:30; and the East Grand Forks-Fertile winner vs. the Breckenridge-Moorhead Gold winner at 9.

Play resumes Saturday at 1 p.m. Championship game is scheduled to be played Sunday at 7 p.m.

Thief River Falls will take a 25-12 record into the tournament. Regular season Northwest League champion, Thief River Falls fell to East Grand Forks 3-1 Sunday in the Sub District 4 championship game. Gonvick belted Fertile 9-1 in Monday's Sub District 3 championship game to complete the Ninth District tournament field.

Elks Eliminated In State Tournament

Beaten by Shakopee 6-4 in the first round, the Thief River Falls Elks dropped a 9-3 decision to Burnsville Monday and were eliminated from the 1980 Minnesota state Babe Ruth baseball tournament for 14-15-year-olds being played at Morris.

Burnsville built a 6-0 lead after just two innings. The winners finished with a 7-2 base hit advantage while Thief River Falls accumulated seven of the game's ten errors.

The Elks returned from the double-elimination state tournament with a final 22-5 season record.

"We had a good year," pointed out Elks coach Bruce Williams. "The kids played pretty well down there (Morris). It's tough to win down there; almost impossible for us because the Twin Cities teams are all league all-star teams," he pointed out, referring to a state rule that allows a league to send an all-star club instead of a league or district championship team to the state tournament.

"We were out-manned," admitted Williams. "We've never seen pitching like that."

TRF Slow Pitch Playoffs Will Start Monday

Post-season playoffs in the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association will get underway Monday, announced association president Dennis Bendickson.

Play will be conducted within two 16-team tournaments that will crown an American League and a National League champion.

The double-elimination competition will feature American League playoff games Monday, Aug. 4; Wednesday, Aug. 6; Tuesday, Aug. 12; Thursday, Aug. 14; and finals Friday, Aug. 15.

National League playoff games will be staged Tuesday, Aug. 5; Thursday, Aug. 7; Monday, Aug. 11; Wednesday, Aug. 13; and finals Thursday, Aug. 14.

If needed because of the double-elimination concept, championship games in both leagues would be carried over to Monday, Aug. 18.

Pairings have not yet been decided. At the completion of the 1980 regular season schedule Friday, said Bendickson, teams in the East and West Divisions of both leagues would be grouped together and ranked by the association's board of directors for post-season seeding.

Women's Golf Club Leaders Are Posted

Sizeable leads are held by KTRF and Lee Plumbing & Heating in the Thief River Falls women's golf club standings.

The latest standings, announced Tuesday, show KTRF leading the A League with a 987 team stroke total, followed by Sjoberg Cable TV 1010, Thune-Upham Insurance 1021, First Northwestern State Bank 1031, Bredeson Office Supply 1044 and Alfreda's Diet Center 1073.

Lee Plumbing & Heating leads the B League with a 915, followed by Northern Motors 940, Gordon's Hallmark 944, Bergan Travel 1011, Mr. Duane's 1022 and Evan's Seed, Wool & Fur 1052.

Low net honors for the week went to Vi Larson, with a 31 in the A League, and Carol Becker, with a 27 in the B League.

Firearm Sales Scheduled By Minnesota DNR

An auction sale of confiscated firearms and other hunting and fishing equipment will be held in St. Paul on August 2 by the Department of Natural Resources.

The sale will be held in the National Guard Armory, 600 Cedar Street, starting at 10 a.m.

All items will be sold on a cash-only basis; no checks will be accepted and all sales are final. No firearm will be sold to a person under the age of 18 and non-resident buyers must have a firearm dealers license.

The firearms and other equipment were confiscated by state conservation officers from violators of Minnesota hunting, fishing and trapping regulations.

AMERICAN LEGION RAIDERS base runner Jim Weiss was forced out at second base by McDonald's-Dallmann second baseman Rex Rugland, who tried to complete a double play with a throw to first base during Monday's pennant-deciding showdown in the American League West Division of the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association. McDonald's-Dallmann didn't get the double play, but they did win the game 4-3 to clinch the division title.

Title Games Highlight Schedule

McDonald's-Dallmann and Furuseth-Nelson came up winners Monday in Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association divisional title showdowns against the American Legion Raiders and TRF Merchants, respectively.

Gordie Peterson's two-run, inside-the-park home run in the bottom of the sixth inning lifted McDonald's-Dallmann to a 4-3 victory over the American Legion Raiders to decide the American League West Division pennant.

A sacrifice fly by Tom Williams in the top of the sixth had provided the Raiders with a 3-2 edge in the tense confrontation, but Peterson lined a one-out shot off the right field fence that caromed sharply back toward the infield as the tying and winning runs crossed the plate.

But that wasn't the end of it. The Raiders looked like they had a shot in the seventh when Ken Lindquist tripled into the left field corner with two out. But his hook slide pulled him off the bag and McDonald's-Dallmann third baseman Rick Reierson put the game-ending tag on the runner.

A first place tie now exists in the American League East Division after second place Furuseth-Nelson defeated the first place TRF Merchants 9-7 in the second half of Monday's doubleheader feature.

Shaky play by the TRF Merchants helped provide Furuseth-Nelson with a 9-2 lead through 5½ innings. The gap closed at the end when the TRF Merchants loaded the bases with no outs in the bottom of the seventh. Bill Dicken and Rick Nelson collected RBI's on an infield force out and a sacrifice fly, respectively, to make it 9-7, but long ball-hitting Don Grabowska bounced into a game-ending force out.

Both teams will complete their 1980 regular season schedules Thursday when Furuseth-Nelson plays Tony Dorn, Inc. and the TRF Merchants meet Popplers-Action Realty.

Swenson Plumbing had a field day in rapping Terry's Mobil 41-12 Monday to gain a second place tie with the American Legion Raiders in the American League West Division. It was a see-saw start that produced a 10-run Swenson Plumbing lead in the top of the first inning and an 11-10 Terry's Mobil lead in the bottom of the inning. But the winners pounded out 37 base hits in the five-inning contest, with Mark Thorstad, Gary Laidley, Hal Harbott and Scott Sabo all collecting five base hits.

Elsewhere Monday, Coca-Cola knocked off Popplers-Action Realty 12-9, Wagon Wheel shut out Hobo Haus 10-0, Bridgeman took care of Home Lumber 17-7 and the St. Hilaire Bears picked up a forfeit win over Arnold Realty.

Tuesday's results produced an out-right National League East Division pennant for Consumer's Co-op, a 6-3 winner over title-challenging E.T.'s Bees, and at least a National League West Division title tie for First Northwestern Insurance Agency, a 6-5 winner over Thorp-KKAQ.

Tom Ronchetti hit two home runs as Schumacher's Tireland kept its National League West Division pennant hopes alive with a 16-9 victory over Dallmann Athletic, but First Federal was eliminated from title contention after losing an 8-1 decision to IWA as Jeff Johnson went 3-for-4 for the winners.

But First Federal can still play the role of spoiler. First Northwestern Insurance Agency has completed its 1980 regular season schedule with a 17-3 record. Schumacher's Tireland, now 16-5, needs a Thursday night win over First Federal to gain a title tie.

Elsewhere Tuesday, Sparby-Johnson, after losing 20 straight games, broke into the win column for the first time with a 16-6 triumph over the TRF Aggies, The Club beat Sound Level-Holthusen 9-5, Wilson Brothers knocked off Great Northwest Agency 10-8 and Hardees handled Lon's 12-2.

Coke Clinches Share Of Fast Pitch title . . .

Northland Pro, Coca-Cola Knock Off Action Realty

Coca-Cola clinched at least a title tie in the 1980 Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league Tuesday by shutting out Action Realty 5-0 in a match-up of the league's top two teams.

Action Realty, deadlocked with Coca-Cola for first place in the all-important loss column going into the night, already had its pennant contending status damaged in the first half of Tuesday's doubleheader when Northland Pro continued a late-season surge by beating Action Realty 5-3.

The results provide Coca-Cola (11-3) with a two-game edge with just two games remaining — a regularly scheduled Thursday contest with Schmidts and a rain-postponed make-up game against Action Realty. But a Coca-Cola victory over Schmidts Thursday night might convince league officials to drop plans to extend the 1980 regular season, scheduled to be completed Friday, into next week to accommodate the make-up game. Action Realty (9-5) also has a make-up game left against Melvies. Those are the only games the league lost this year to rain.

Northland Pro 5
Action Realty 3

Mitch Dicken hit a three-run home run with two out in the bottom of the seventh inning to give Northland Pro a dramatic 5-3 come-from-behind victory over Action Realty in the first game of Tuesday's doubleheader.

Both Al Erickson and Mark DuChamp had no-hitters going until the fourth inning. With one out in Action Realty's half of the inning, Paul Drees lined a single off DuChamp's hand. Jeff Ulrich hit into a fielder's choice, but an error found both runners safe. Wayne Smith then drilled a single to left to score Drees.

Northland Pro responded in the bottom of the fourth as Dicken led off with a single, Jeff Hendrickson walked and Tim Erickson singled to center to score Dicken. Hendrickson then scored on an error for a 2-1 edge.

Action Realty regained the lead in the sixth when Erickson was hit by a pitch and Nick Drees reached base on an error. Another error advanced the runners, with Paul Drees' sacrifice fly scoring Erickson to tie the game 2-2. Nick Drees reached third on a ground-out and scored when Smith drilled his second base hit of the night into center field for a 3-2 lead.

In the bottom of the seventh, Don Balmer drew a one-out walk, but was forced at second on Bob Lundbohm's ground ball. Brian Peterson singled to right to put runners on first and third with two out when Dicken stepped to the plate and lofted a 2-1 pitch over the left-center field fence for the win.

Action Realty 0

Action Realty, after starting the season 8-0, lost for the fifth time in six starts by dropping a 5-0 decision to Coca-Cola in the second half of Tuesday's twinbill.

Coca-Cola scored the only run needed in the bottom of the fourth inning when Mike Drury singled to left with one out and advanced to second base on Bruce Johnson's sacrifice bunt. Paul Walker drilled a shot off first baseman Wayne Liden, who recovered the ball and raced Walker to first. Walker was ruled safe on the play, and when Action Realty stopped to argue the call without gaining a time-out, Drury walked home with the run.

In the sixth, Gordie Peterson reached base on an error and Drury beat out a bunt. Peterson scored on an error on Walker's grounder, with Drury taking third on the play. Mark Huot then laced an RBI double to right; Tony Johnson's sacrifice fly scored pinch-runner Tom Drury; and an error allowed Huot to score the third run of the inning.

No. America Duck Factory Drying Out

A recent survey of the major U.S. and Canadian waterfowl nesting areas indicates that this spring's drought may have hurt the 1980 duck crop.

The survey of most of the prairie pothole region, a 300,000 square-mile area that extends across Alberta and Saskatchewan down into the Dakotas and western Minnesota, shows that the area was hard hit. In normal years, the entire area sparkles with millions of ponds and small lakes. Called the "Land of Many Waters" by the Indians, the area is also known as North America's duck factory because it usually furnishes 60-70 per cent of the continent's duck production. This year, however, hot, dry weather and a light spring water runoff combined with a lack of carryover water from last year brought about very poor waterfowl nesting habitat throughout the area. Many of the ponds did not fill to capacity and many remained completely dry.

"Conditions on the waterfowl breeding grounds are about what we expected," said Mortin Smith, head of the survey branch of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's migratory bird management office. Smith recently returned from Canada after completing the annual spring duck breeding pair survey. "With a few exceptions," he added, "the prairie parklands breeding habitat is in poor condition for waterfowl."

The duck breeding pair survey consists of 38,000 miles of aerial transects completed by a team of U.S. and Canadian biologists over certain portions of breeding grounds. Each May, a survey is made of both the general condition of nesting areas and the numbers of pairs of ducks in these areas. A second flight over some of these same areas is made in July to determine the hatching success, and thus duck production in the huge international breeding grounds can be estimated.

In normal years, around 50 million ducks return to the breeding grounds in the spring, and 100 million or more return to the wintering grounds in the fall. More than half of the 50 million ducks die because fall and spring from disease, lead poisoning, predation and other natural cuases. About 18 million are shot by hunters in the United States and Canadian waterfowl hunters shoot another 5 million.

Size of the fall flight of waterfowl is an important element in the development of the annual waterfowl hunting regulations, set by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in consultation with the states.

This spring many of the ducks, flew beyond the Canadian prairies seeking suitable nesting grounds farther north. Streams and lakes were also low in parts of the Canadian bush country. Fires have ravaged several portions of the tinder-dry north woods. Fortunately, the survey revealed some exceptions to this gloomy picture. Most notable was Alaska where nesting conditions are good and breeding populations are up. Numbers of ducks were up in Minnesota also.

"These areas, however, probably won't compensate for the losses in the drought areas," Smith summarized. "So far our studies indicate there will be reduced production this year. But we won't have an accurate estimate of how much less until the brood surveys are completed."

Wildlife Art Show Is Set In Minneapolis

Minnesota's finest wildlife artists will exhibit original art and prints at the third annual Minnesota wildlife art show, August 2, 4 and 5 at Dayton's in downtown Minneapolis.

The show will feature 68 artists including sculptors, nationally-acclaimed wood carvers and a stained glass wildlife artist. Notable among these are Grant Goltz of Bemidji, an international decoy-carving champion, and Bob Winship of St. Paul whose bronze wildlife sculptures have garnered numerous national art awards.

Also included will be David Maass of Waterville and Les Kouba of Minneapolis, winners of both federal and Minnesota "duck stamp" contests. Jim Meger of Minneapolis, 1980 Minnesota "duck stamp" contest winner will also be featured.

The show is a fund-raiser for the Minnesota wildlife heritage foundation (WHF), a non-profit organization which assists people who want to donate articles of value, land, or money for wildlife habitat in Minnesota. WHF will receive a percentage of each art sale.

The art show will be in Dayton's 8th floor auditorium during regular store hours. Admission is free.

Twins Try-Out Camp Slated August 25-26

Playing professional baseball is a common dream among young men, and the Minnesota Twins will again provide the opportunity for many such aspirants to attain that status by hosting the annual Metropolitan Stadium try-out camp Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 25 and 26.

In order to participate in the camp, one must be eligible to be signed to a contract. This requirement includes all players graduated from high school who haven't been drafted by another organization, who do not come under restrictions of baseball's college agreement and who have not yet reached their 23rd birthday.

The camp will begin at 9 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 25. All candidates should bring their own equipment (except bats and balls) and enter the stadium thru the press gate after completing registration. At the conclusion of the Monday's workout, a selected group of players will be invited back for a more concentrated session the following day.

Bear Hunting Guides Affected By 1980 Law

A new law that will go into effect this fall requires anyone in the business of placing bait for bears of guiding bear hunters to purchase a guide license, the Department of Natural Resources noted.

Minnesota's bear season opens Sept. 2.

A bear hunters guide license for a state resident costs $50 while a non-resident will have to pay $400.

Since the law provides that bear guide licenses must be purchased on or before Sept. 1, and since that date is a legal holiday (Labor Day) the last date that the license may be purchased is Aug. 29.

Bear guide licenses must be purchased from the DNR's License Center at 625 North Robert Street, St. Paul. Application forms for the licenses are available from the Center.

Bear hunter guides are also required to purchase a bear hunting license to file a report form with the department at the close of the season.

Guides are required to abide by the same laws and regulations that apply to bear hunters, department officials emphasized.

Two additional new laws relating to bear hunting will also go into effect this year: One requires that the site of bear baiting stations be registered with the department and that the site be marked with a tag showing the name, address and phone number of the person placing the bait. Another law requires that the bear carcass be tagged with a locking seal device that will be provided with the bear hunting license.

Officials urged bear hunters to read the regulations carefully before going bear hunting. Copies of the big game hunting regulations will be available by Aug. 1.

Terry Bradshaw Is NHF Day Chairman

Terry Bradshaw, Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback and 1979 pro football player of the year, has praised the nation's sportsmen for their many contributions to conservation.

"Sportsmen have contributed billions of dollars for conservation and devoted thousands of hours to local conservation projects," said Bradshaw. "Sportsmen deserve to be recognized for their efforts on behalf of conservation which benefit all Americans."

September 27, 1980, will mark the ninth annual observance of national hunting and fishing day. The day was established by congress in 1972 as a way to recognize sportsmen for their many contributions to conservation. Since 1972, NHF day has continued to grow both in size and impact. Millions of Americans participate in an estimated 2,500 separate NHF day activities each year.

"Our woods and streams make America 'the beautiful,' " said Bradshaw, who has been named honorary chairman for national hunting and fishing day for 1980. "Through programs at shopping centers, clubs, poster contests for youngsters and special magazine and newspaper articles, sportsmen and national hunting and fishing day work to keep America beautiful."

Bradshaw praised sportsmen for program they have created to teach youngsters about conservation and for introducing youngsters to the traditions of hunting and fishing. "Hunting and fishing are natural ways to enjoy the outdoors," said Bradshaw. "They provide an opportunity to enjoy our woods and waters."

Bradshaw is the first quarterback to win four Super Bowls. He led the National Football League with 28 touchdown passes last season and was chosen most valuable player of Super Bowl XIII. He was named Associated Press player of the year.

"I've been a hunter since I was a little boy," said Bradshaw, "and I can think of no other program that does as much to insure the future of hunting and fishing and the conservation of our natural resources as national hunting and fishing day.

"Last year, national hunting and fishing day received the support of the president, governors of all 50 states and millions of Americans. This year, I hope that national hunting and fishing day will receive the support of every person in the nation."

Additional information about national hunting and fishing day is available from NHF Day, 1075 Post Road, Riverside, CT 06878.

The Hawes-Cooper Act governing the shipment of convict-made goods in interstate commerce was approved in 1929, according to the U.S. Department of Labor publication, "Important Events in American Labor History".

Energy Agency Plans Solar Open Houses

Minnesota Energy agency is sponsoring a statewide solar open house Saturday and Sunday, September 20 and 21.

Homes around the state will be open to the public for viewing, and fact sheets will be available detailing solar aspects of each home. Owners or solar enthusiasts will be at the homes to answer questions.

The solar open house is being planned to stimulate interest in low-cost solar home improvements. It will also help demonstrate the effectiveness and availability of solar to the homeowner. Its goal is to remind people that solar works in Minnesota, solar is available and affordable now, it can be used by the average person, it makes a home more comfortable, and it contributes to solving our energy problems.

Homes shown where solar energy is being used will involve such things as heating water for the home; using passive retrofit to heat the home or keep it cool (combinations of insulation, window coverings, south facing windows, greenhouses, etc.), or using a variety of active ways to provide space heating.

By showing low-cost solar alternatives, the open house will suggest ways of using solar energy to people of all income levels.

To assure the success of the open house, names, addresses and phone numbers of individuals and groups known who make use of solar in their homes (including energy efficient homes) are needed. Also needed is help working on the open house in particular regions and planning solar events to be conducted along with the open house.

If interested in the solar open house weekend, send your name, address, and phone number to Sherry Dragula, M.E.A., 980 American Center building, 150 E. Kellogg Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55101, 612-296-3829 or toll free 800-652-9747.

Also, if possible, enclose the names and addresses of people who might want to have their solar homes on tour, or indicate if you would like to help work on a local solar event to accompany the open house weekend.

Additives To Silage Boost Protein Yield

When feed and fuel were cheaper, farmers didn't take silage additives too seriously. Some spoilage was expected. It was accepted as a minor cost of production. However, as the costs of producing a crop and feeding a herd keep rising, some farmers are taking another look at additives as a tool for saving protein and getting the highest value out of their silage.

How do silage additives work? They aid and speed fermentation during the ensiling process, which results in preserving protein and controlling growth of molds and harmful bacteria. One type of additive — mold inhibitor — accomplishes that by releasing acid. This inhibits mold growth and retards spoilage during the critical fermentation period. That helps to uniformly concert the fresh crop to silage.

Without an inhibitor, spoilage may occur in spots due to slow and incomplete feremenation. That's because if the ensiling process doesn't produce enough acetic and lactic acid naturally, harmful organisms and other acids can cause spoilage and a loss of protein.

Another type of additive introduces enzymes during the ensiling process. These are intended to make carbohydrates in the forage more available to desirable bacteria. Then those bacteria grow and multiply faster to produce fermentation.

The third type of commercial additive is the bacterial culture or inoculant. If viable cultures of the right bacteria can be introduced into the chopped crop, the fermentation process might be stimulated.

Additives increase the feeding value of the crop by providing more protein available for digestion. The increased feeding value of the silage can help offset increased production costs. End result if increased net profit for the farmer.

One feed company has found that introducing a mold inhibitor — dry sodium diacetate, a mixture of acetic acid and a salt of acetic acid — to the whole plant corn silage as it is chopped may save up to 15 per cent more protein available for digestion than in untreated silage. That saving reduces the amount of commercial protein supplements needed. Figuring soybean meal costs at $200 per ton, a 10 per cent boost in the protein of silage in a 20 by 60-foot silo would net $350 over the cost of treatment.

The benefits of additives — inhibiting mold gorwth and preserving available protein during ensiling — can ultimately mean better production and improved feed efficiency. As farmers face rising production costs, preserving protein can be an important means of maintaining net profits. Getting the maximum feeding value through additives is one way to help farmers stretch their ever-shrinking dollar.

Open Fisher's Landing Area On August 1

Fisher's Landing travel information center is expected to open to the public on August 1, according to Bemidji district engineer Robert E. Wolfe, Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT).

This combination information center and rest area is located off the westbound lane of US 2, nine miles east of East Grand Forks. Both lanes of the divided highway are served by the facility.

Fisher's Landing site has historical significance because boats used it as a terminal in the Red Lake river. Until the railway lanes to Winnipeg and Grand Forks were completed in 1878 and 1879, Fisher's Landing surpassed Crookston in population and business. Succeeded by neighboring Crookston and East Grand Forks, the old Fisher's Landing village area gradually deteriorated to a cow pasture.

Founded in the fall of 1875, the original landing on the Red Lake river was named in honor of William H. Fisher who was engaged in railroad business from 1864 to 1893. He was assistant manager and superintendent of the St. Paul and Pacific railroad, president and manager of the St. Paul and Duluth railroad company, and vice president and general manager of the Duluth and Winnipeg railroad company.

Fisher's Landing travel facility has a staffed information center building, restrooms, picnic areas, telephones and car and truck parking. An old log cabin in the area may be restored and moved to the rest area grounds where oak trees abound.

Constructed by Construction Engineers, Limited, East Grand Forks, the building cost about $400,000. Grading surfacing and water well grought the total cost to $650,000. The architect was Fred Kegel & Associates, Detroit Lakes.

Custodial service for the building is to be provided by contract between Green View, Inc. and Mn-DOT. Green View provides jobs for retired epople who previously made their living from farming.

Asks Interest Reduction On Farm Storage

Pointing out that interest rates for loans under the farm storage facility loan program are to be based on the rate of interest charged by the U.S. treasury, Senator Rudy Boschwitz today requested that the rates be lowered because interest rates have come down.

In a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland, Boschwitz said, "The interest rates on storage facilities rose to 13 per cent earlier this year when interest rates were on the rise. However, the interest rates have not come down as the cost of borrowing money from the U.S. treasury has. Interest rates on U.S. treasury funds are now from 8¼ to 8¾ per cent.

"The department has encouraged farmers to participate in the farmer held reserve and as part of that they should encourage the construction of on-farm storage facilities. At the least this would mean that interest rates should be at no higher level than the law requires," Sen. Boschwitz noted.

"We are not asking that these interest rates be subsidized, but simply asking that farmers receive the benefits of lower interest rates after bearing the burden of the higher interest rates," Boschwitz said.

Win Award

Farm beautification award winner in the contest conducted annually by the Pennington soil and water conservation district has been won by the Roger Peterson family of Sanders township. Honorable mention in the contest went to the Darrell Sevre farm in Black River township.

Mrs. Alfred Setten and son Gary drove to Fargo, N.D., Saturday accompanied by Jessica and Amy Grams. They attended the softball tournaments in which Charles Engler, the Setten's son-in-law was pitcher for the Band Box team from St. James. They played three games, winning all three games and out of the three games, Charles pitched two shutout games. Sounds like Engler is quite the pitcher. Jessica and Amy Grams accompanied the Englers home for a ten-day visit while Justin Engler, the Setten's only grandson, accompanied Lorraine and Gary home for a ten-day visit.

Gladys Wilkes after spending some weeks at the Elsie Kimbrough home, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Braff to Harvey, N.D., on Tuesday, where she went to visit her sister-in-law, who is a patient at a nursing home there. From there Gladys will go on to Minneapolis and after visiting friends there she will return to her home in Dixon, Mo. The Braffs returned home the same night.

Senior Citizens

Nineteen registered at the hangout on Thursday, July 24. It was cool after the good rain showers we got that morning.

Milo and Mary Ann Brekke of Auburn, Wash., Martha Olson and Annie Stengrim of Warren and Clara Nelson of Karlstad were our visitors.

Amanda and Polly finished the edge on the afghan. Ruth Harper, with a bit of help from Irene, made ticket books for the raffle on the afghan. We already sold some tickets and will be selling more hopefully. It's a lovely afghan, full bed size, so someone will get a lovely surprise some day when they learn their ticket was the lucky number. Tickets are fifty cents each or three for one dollar. We will get to you soon, or you can come to us and ask to buy some tickets.

More bed pillows and some throw pillows were finished on Thursday and we still had time to visit with our guests.

Seven door prizes were given away. Polly received the prize Ruth Anderson gave. Ruth Harper got Irene's gift. Mabel gave three that went to Annie Stengrim, Gust Johnson and Mary Ann Brekke. Elsie Kimbrough received Polly's gift, while Ruth Anderson received Evelyn's. Thank you, Sharon Wayne of St. Paul, for the good rummage.

THE OLD WAY

The old pump handle was the counterpart of our modern water faucet. You simply had to be thirsty enough to want to pump water.

New ways often bring little that's new. They just make it easier to satisfy our necessities.

But those who spiritually thirst — for souls that are dry, there is no new way. There is no way to pipe the water of a new life into the soul of man.

It isn't difficult to overcome the spiritual drought of our time. But you've got to realize your own thirst for God. And you've got to draw on the deep, refreshing resources where they are. Let the church or synagogue of your choice help you rediscover the old way.

People's Values Reflected In Homes

by Maureen Smith
'U' M News Service

All over the world, people's values are reflected in their homes. An alert observer of any culture can learn a great deal by looking at the places where people live.

"It's in the home, in the family dwelling that value orientations take their most direct physical form," said Gertrude Esteros, a professor of design at the University of Minnesota who has made a study of the cultural aspects of housing in world perspective.

Islamic homes are an example. In general, Esteros said, "the Islamic culture in its housing is inwardly directed." A walled area typically separates the house from the outside world. "You enter those gates and you're in the inner world of the family life." A clear delineation is drawn between the domains of the male and the female. Windows look to an inner courtyard.

By contrast, most American homes have yards that are open to the public and windows that look to the street. "Those are two totally different approaches to the design of your living environment," Esteros said.

Within any culture, homes vary according to the degree of affluence, the available building materials and the climate. Islamic homes in northern Africa are different from those in Pakistan or Indonesia. "There are many, many variations on the overall theme," she said.

Village homes in south India exemplify quite a different culture. The typical south India house has "a little open entry way for the stranger to freely come in and rest," Esteros said. Inside there is likely to be "a large open area with some smaller rooms around it that are quite openly used."

The indigenous homes of the world are well suited to the lives and circumstances of the people, Esteros said. "I have seen the Ethiopian straw huts in a cluster that fit the cultural circumstances and serve the people very well. The house form that's indigenous and has evolved over time is unique to that kind of culture, that kind of climate, that kind of building material.

"I have seen desert housing in villages in Iran that haven't changed essentially over many centuries, although the rulers have changed many times over. The building material is fitted very beautifully to the climate. There are many lessons to be learned in terms of energy conservation, good ventilation, inexpensive ways of doing things, flexibility of use, even though we wouldn't be copying the specifics.

"What one realizes is that every culture has developed its own environmental form. In times of rapid change sometimes we do build housing forms that don't serve us very well, although in some cases the new forms are very fine indeed.

"You find greater variation around the world in the indigenous forms than you find in those that are technologically produced," Esteros said. "Students have a hard time identifying the place when I show them recent developments from Bombay or Chicago or Minneapolis or London. There is greater similarity in the high-rise apartments than in the uniquely developed indigenous forms."

Japan is a country that interests Esteros because of the dramatic changes and rapid industrialization since World War II. "I was interested to see which modern innovations are the first to appear, which design features are the most persistent and remain."

In the rural areas, she said, the traditional house design has continued with modern features added: electric lights, ranges and refrigerators, television sets, water heaters. Change has been much greater in the cities, especially in Tokyo, but "something of the traditional house form remains." Among the elements most likely to remain are the family shrine and the tokonoma (a niche for something of beauty, such as a flower arrangement, a vase or a scroll).

The traditional Japanese home has no furniture except for small, low tables, Esteros said, and a relative absence of furniture is likely to persist, especially in the sleeping space. "You have a mat on the floor, and you roll it up in the daytime and put your bedding in a cupboard. It's very good conservation of space. Sleeping habits tend to persist. But you change your conveniences in the kitchen. You have ranges and refrigerators, all the electric appliances. Of course we know that Japan is the source of a lot of these things now for the whole world."

In looking at American homes, too, Esteros is aware of cultural variations. "We can look at the different cultural groups of Minneapolis," she said. "In south Minneapolis there are native Americans whose culture is very different from that of Americans of European heritage. They have a greater interest in larger spaces that can be shared by more people. They may need to accomodate additional members of the family who come for extended stays."

Federal Housing administration standards for home mortgages require separate rooms and provision for privacy, Esteros said, but "these requirements don't necessarily fit everybody. There are different kinds of people who form our American mix. We're not all alike, we're a pluralistic society. We need not only acceptance but accommodation, a willingness to help people achieve forms that facilitate their uniqueness."

As the daughter of Finnish immigrants, Esteros said, she was "well aware of the heavy social pressure to become 'American.' You were supposed to become like everyone else, even though I was never sure who everyone else was. America was seen as a melting pot. We fortunately aren't thinking of ourselves as a melting pot any more. We're a mosaic rather than a melting pot."

TIPS ON TRIPS

Planning a trip is more than deciding when to go and what to see. Protecting your home and property while on vacation is important too.

Besides notifying police, friends and neighbors when you'll be away, stop all regular deliveries such as newspapers. Also arrange to have the post office hold your mail.

VACATION TRIP

The editors of Mobil Travel Guide suggest other precautions:

*Install automatic switches so different lights go on at different times. Don't just turn on one light to "fool" burglars.

* If you'll be away for an extended time, have someone cut your lawn. It will help make your house look "lived in."

*If possible, install maximum security locks.

*Turn all faucets off tightly, lock windows and leave blinds partially raised to suggest you're home.

On your trip, never leave valuables such as cash, travelers cheques, credit cards, and jewelry in your car. Keep them in the hotel safe until needed.

Mobil Travel Guide, America's leading guidebook, describes and rates thousands of hotels, motels, resorts and restaurants, nationwide. Sightseeing attraction highlights, color road maps and discount certificates are also included. The Guide, published in seven regional editions, is available at most Mobil Service Stations and bookstores for $5.95 each.

Cycle Death Toll Higher Than Year Ago

Minnesota motorcycle fatality toll has reached a rate 28 per cent higher than a year ago, according to the Minnesota department of public safety.

Through July 16, the department reports 58 deaths compared with 45 on the same date a year ago. Total motorcycle deaths in 1979 was 94. In previous years of 1970 the totals were: 1978 — 103; 1977 — 88; 1976 — 61; 1975 — 62; 1974 — 51; 1973 — 63; 1972 — 52; 1971 — 48; and 1970 — 40.

Summer months are the most active for motorcycle accidents and fatalities. This year there has been a dramatic rise in the motorcycle death figures. The first motorcycle death was recorded April 2 and there were six in April. That means that 52 have occurred in 77 days, a rate of more than one every two days.

The total traffic death figure through July 16 was 372, down 40 from the same date a year ago.

Commissioner John Sopsic of DPS pleads with motorcyclists and motorists to review some basic rules of the road.

One of them is lane usage. Car drivers should know that motorcycles are entitled to the same full lane as other vehicles. Motorcyclists should activate turn signals at least 100 feet before reaching an intended turn and use hand signals as well as electric signals.

Cyclists should wear bright-colored clothing, keep their headlights on at all times and use reflectorized tape or stickers on helmets and cycles. They should also slow down when approaching intersections and be sure other motorists see them and will yield when required to do so by law.

"Learning to share the road with drivers of all kinds of vehicles is more necessary now than ever for Minnesota motorists," Sopsic said.

Picnic Pests Are Ecologically Crucial

by Madeleine Jacobs
Smithsonian News Service

They're the uninvited guests at every picnic and probably have been since the first picnic was held.

But the next time you're tempted to stomp on that battalion of ants carrying off your potato salad and fried chicken, try looking at them from the viewpoint of the Smithsonian institution's Dr. James F. Lynch, an expert on those ubiquitous little creatures.

"Ants are not just a nuisance or an interesting fringe element in our society," the zoologist insists. "They play a critical role in the overall ecology of our planet."

That may be small comfort while they're interrupting your picnic, invading your kitchen or building a nest on your patio, but consider this: At any one time there are more than a quadrillion ants on earth — a number that makes the sales of hamburgers pale in comparison. They are the most abundant of the visible insects and incredibly diverse — scientists estimate there are as many as 12,000 to 14,000 species of ants.

Ants are constantly turning over soil, aerating and enriching it. In fact, together with earthworms, ants are the principal movers of soil in both tropical and temperate regions. Ants also are the main scavengers of dead insects, devouring fallen creatures like vacuum cleaners.

Still not convinced? Well, consider this: Ants are found virtually everywhere on Earth, except Antarctica — ranging from the arctic tree line, south to the tip of South Africa, and on virtually every oceanic island.

And if you're still not persuaded that ants are important, remember that ants, like humans, are social creatures. In fact, they are the most social of the social insects — those that live in colonies — with a behavior rivalled in complexity in the insect world only by the honeybee.

All of which has made ants a subject of interest to Lynch, who carries out his studies at the Smithsonian's Chesapeake Bay center for environmental studies near Annapolis, Md. Lynch doesn't have to look far for his subject matter. There are about 500 species of ants in the United States as a whole, and he's already identified 60 species on the Center's 2,600 acres, which contain a variety of habitats — farmland, shoreline, marsh, open field, new forest and mature hardwood forest.

As he looked around, he found that many ant species used different habitats or food types, but others somehow seemed to coexist in the same habitat, feeding on a similar range of foods. Competition for food seemed inevitable, Lynch surmised. "And for so many different species to share successfully the same ecological niche," he says, "I guessed that each species had to behave somewhat differently in its search for food and in its defensive actions."

The larger issue for Lynch is the nature of competition among species of animals. "In nature," he explains, "you rarely observe different animal species in the same habitat actively competing for food — you simply infer that over the course of evolutionary time competition has occurred and that the ecological and behavioral differences you see today are the results of that evolution. But with ants, one can actually observe and measure the process of competition between different species."

For his studies, he chose the three commonest ant species found in the forests in the entire eastern United States, and their close relatives occur in west coast forests and elsewhere in North America.

Lynch set out "baits" — small plastic discs — using tuna fish to simulate the protein of dead insects, a common food, and a diluted sugar solution to simulate the kind of sweet carbohydrate liquids that ants obtain from tree saps, fruit, flowers and the excretions of aphids and certain other insects.

Baits were set out beginning in early spring and continuing into late autumn. Over the course of three years, Lynch and his colleagues made thousands of hours of observations, day and night — counting the kinds and numbers of ants that showed up at the baits, what kinds of food they were attracted to and their pattern of behavior when confronted with competitors. The researchers followed the movements of the ants — from the moment when they first discovered the food to their return to the nest and recruitment of other workers and back again to the food source. (By a peculiar quirk of genetics, all worker ants showing up at your picnic are females and are probably sisters; you might think of the attackers as a feminist brigade.)

Hundreds of measurements and observations were eventually analyzed with the help of a computer, and some fascinating conclusions began to emerge.

"Most people think an ant is an ant is an ant," Lynch says, "but close study shows that these ants, like people, not only look different but are leading very different lives."

The most abundant ant, Prenolepis imparis, is rather slow to discover food, but once a scout has found it, she mobilizes large numbers of her sisters very quickly. Prenolepis, an intermediate-sized ant with colonies of about 1,600 individuals, is extremely aggressive. She actively attacks other ants and emits a defensive chemical that repels and disorients them; consequently, other ants have difficulty in dislodging Prenolepis from a food source. The species shows a distinct preference for protein foods.

At the other extreme is the tiny, timid Paratrechina melanderi, which is quick to find food, but which nimbly avoids confrontations with other, more aggressive ants. Paratrechina, whose small colonies number only 125 to 150 individuals, employs a hit-and-run technique to pilfer from food sources dominated by more aggressive ants, darting in and out quickly enough to avoid contact. It prefers carbohydrates.

The third species, Aphaenogaster rudis, which Lynch calls a "broad-niched ecological generalist," falls between these two lifestyles. Aphaenogaster forms colonies of about 300 individuals. Although the largest of the three species, it lacks the defensive adaptations of Prenolepis. Nevertheless, it is adept at finding food and is able to carry off much larger pieces of food than the more aggressive ant. It responds equally to protein and carbohydrate baits.

"It's a kind of jack-of-all-trades," Lynch says, "using a range of behavioral tactics to steal food when the more aggressive species is around. And if Aphaenogaster finds food first, she will frequently hide it with debris and return for it at nightfall."

Interestingly, the aggressive Prenolepis is most active in late fall and in April and June, whereas the diminutive Paratrechina is most active in August and September when the former literally disappears from view, probably because it doesn't like hot weather. Aphaenogaster does most of its foraging at night in April and May and in September and October, but shifts to a daytime pattern when Prenolepis is absent. "Clearly, each species has evolved distinct adaptations for finding and defending food, and for surviving in the same habitat," Lunch says, "and we think this helps them to coexist."

Lynch is carrying out similar research on ant communities in Florida, on Caribbean Islands and in Mexico. He also is planning to study them in Panama, a classic tropical region where the number of species is far greater and the competition for food resources is presumably even stiffer than in temperate climates.

"From the studies we've done so far," he says, "we're beginning to see an outline of general behavioral strategy patterns. We'd like to think that these kinds of strategies apply not only to other species of ants, but to other animals as well."

Lynch admits that thinking of ants as competitive bands of sisters may not increase your empathy towards them. But he quickly points out that even when they are annoying, ants are rarely harmful to humans (a painful exception is the notorios stinging fire ant of the southeastern United States), and the ecological good they do probably far outweighs the bad.

"Besides, there really isn't much we can do about ants, so we might as well learn to live with them," Lynch adds. "They've been around for the last 100 million years and will probably be around at least that much longer."

From Food Market To Free Market

One reason that Americans typically spend 25 percent of their annual income on food while other nations spend more is the efficiency of our food marketing system. And an important factor in determining the price of food is the world's futures markets. The fact is that without futures markets, food would eat up even more of the average American's income.

PRODUCTION MARKETS
FOOD PRICE

Efficient production and marketing techniques help hold down our food prices.

The futures market was developed in the mid-nineteenth century to meet the needs of farmers whose products, such as grain, are harvested in one short period of time, and buyers such as the millers and grain processors who use those commodities throughout the year. Today, there are also futures markets in non-agricultural commodities such as financial instruments, precious metals and forest products.

For example, a corn futures contract is an agreement between two persons, one to buy 5,000 bushels of corn and the other to sell 5,000 bushels of corn. The agreement to buy or sell is at today's price, say $2.79 per bushel for July corn, but the actual transfer of the product is deferred until the future date—July.

The ability to contract for future delivery enables buyers and sellers to minimize the risk of price changes.

Say that you are a grain elevator operator and you purchase one million bushels of corn from farmers in December for storage until the following summer. Assume you paid $2.98 per bushel. If by the following summer the price of corn has declined to $2.73 per bushel, you have lost $250,000.

To prevent this risk, you could use the futures market to establish an eventual selling price at the same time you commit yourself to a buying price. For example, when you buy grain in December on the cash market, you might sell it on the futures market for delivery in July. Since the buying price and the selling price are established at one time, and since cash and futures prices tend to parallel one another, the risk of an unfavorable price change is minimized. The $250,000 lost in the cash market was recovered in the futures because you sold one million bushels at $2.98 per bushel and were able to buy it back in futures at $2.73 at a profit of 25 cents per bushel or $250,000 for one million bushels.

This efficient redistribution of risk allows expanded production and the reduction of prices.

Information about futures trading is available from the Chicago Board of Trade, Department NP6, 141 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, IL 60604.

Things Don't Just Happen

If it seems that there is always a lot of activity going on in Thief River Falls, the assessment is a correct one. The community is never at rest; there is always some activity requiring involvement by residents.

The annual Pennington county fair has just been completed in near record fashion. Aquacade events started last week and continue through this Sunday. Several hundred people will likely come to town for the annual convention of the International War Veterans alliance this weekend, including many of our Canadian friends. Crazy Days on Thursday will undoubtedly attract a large number of people to our city. Sunday's air show was a huge success.

Can there be too much activity in a community? Perhaps, but we don't believe it has happened here yet. There is enough diversity in the events to cover a variety of interests without exhausting any individual or group.

The point we would like to make among all the events is that they don't simply just happen. They come about because there are people willing to plan them, organize them, invite others to them, put in the time and do the work and promote and perform. It is an interested citizenry that makes for an active community.

We commend the veterans organizations, fair board, Jaycees, chamber of commerce, community arts council, city of Thief River Falls, and the many groups and organizations which have and continue to put forth the effort to keep things humming here.

We are reminded of the comment that generally few people make things happen, a larger number watch things happen and the majority wonder what happened. It's great to be part of a live community where there are a lot of people who make things happen.

How To Help Autos

Following editorial is from the Wall Street Journal:

First we heard that Washington was setting out to save the beleaguered U.S. auto industry from the scrap heap. Now we hear that Joan Claybrook, the dragon-lady of auto regulation, is proposing the largest recall ever. If she gets her way, all 16 million automatic-transmission Fords sold between 1972 and 1979 will be recalled so that another layer of idiot-proofing can be added.

Ms. Claybrook is of course Ralph Nader's lady at the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, which has led the fight against auto tycoons and for air bags. Back in 1978 she and Mr. Nader had a well-publicized falling out, branded in these columns as a political charade meant to make her appear moderate. The evidence, unfortunately, has proved us right.

Her latest source of irritation is Fords that she warns might slip into reverse gear if drivers aren't careful about engaging into park. Ford Motor has responded that if people are careless about putting cars into gear, setting the parking brake, and leaving the cars with motors running, accidents may happen. Ford officials can't come up with a cost estimate for the proposed recall, because no one has yet told them how they would have to modify the recalled cars once they get them back in the shop. Nor can they estimate how many Ford owners would think such an alteration would be worth a trip to the garage.

The transmission issue arose in 1977 when the Nader-founded Center for Auto Safety reported three cases of accidents involving Ford transmissions. In 1978, Ms. Claybrook's NHTSA issued a consumer advisory warning Ford owners about the potential problem and asking them to call a toll-free hotline with their transmission complaints. No such service to elicit problems was set up for GM or Chrysler, nor for Volkswagen or Toyota. In May, the Center for Auto Safety sued for a quick recall of the Fords and two weeks ago Ms. Claybrook announced a July 21 hearing that could result in a recall based largely on the hotline results.

Safety regulations are not, of course, the sole or even the major reason for the roadblocks faced by the U.S. auto industry. Yet there is a certain predictable irony in the coincidence of the latest Claybrook plans and the most troubled state of the auto industry since the Depression.

It is reminiscent of Washington's 1973 refusal to relax auto emission control standards to allow development of promising energy efficient engine designs. And of the more recent fleet mileage standards that have wreaked havoc on the ability of U.S. automakers to follow effective planning and marketing strategies that would have eased the transition to the small-car-dominated market. Not the least harmful of the government-created industry costs has been the forced use of management attention, engineers and capital by the industry to comply with regulations, which have grown as the domestic share of the U.S. auto market has declined.

The recent figures from Detroit and Tokyo show clearly the need for an industry free of the excess baggage that the U.S. automakers have had to carry. Some 40 per cent of U.S. auto workers are out of work and domestic production is down 30 per cent from a year ago while Japanese sales are up 25 per cent. The Carter administration is promising to do something, and a lot of ideas — most particularly the domestic auto industry's — focus on getting the Japanese to stop selling American consumers such good cars at such cheap prices.

We have a better idea. If Washington is serious about trying to help the auto industry, the first thing to do is get rid of Joan Claybrook. The second thing to do is get rid of all the other Joan Claybrooks. Letting the auto industry try to make it on its unhampered own will do a lot more good than ill-conceived schemes aimed at conjuring up a Japanese devil.

Harmony Is The Secret

Following comments were written by Frank Whitsitt in Farmland News:

Company songs are sung with enthusiasm and company pins are proudly displayed in buttonholes.

—From "The Japanese,"
by Edwin O. Beischauer

One of the chief concerns in America today is how the Japanese are beating us in the marketplace with their superior productivity. This by a nation almost totally dependent on others for its energy.

A look at the Japanese "world of work" by a Colorado State University professor does a good job of explaining why. Economics professor Terutomo Ozawa, writing in a Michigan State University publication, suggests the reason to a large degree is the paternalistic practices in industrial management in Japan.

Japan's big corporations guarantee lifetime employment and pay is determined by length of service. They provide a variety of services from subsidized housing to even wedding and funeral services. One's company is not merely a place of work but a "sharing group" where he is treated like a member of the family.

Professor Ozawa says business, being socially respected, is able to skim off the cream of graduates from elite universities whose entrance to those schools has nothing to do with wealth or position but strictly aptitude and potential determined from "hellish" entrance tests.

In Japan, workers take pride in their company's success and identify themselves as Mr. Yamada of Sony, Mr. Tanaka of Toyoto, Mr. Ogawa of Mitsubishi, Mr. Kobayashi of Honda and so on. The greater the social prestige of the company — meaning its success and profitability — the more ego for the worker. In Japan, changing jobs is not socially respected.

In America, many workers regard themselves as a mere labor input and ask what's in it for them. Case in point: Even when the Rock Island Railroad was fighting for its life, it was hit by a strike. In Japan, Ozawa says, workers are more likely to ask what they can do for their colleagues and company.

James Hodgson, a former U.S. secretary of labor and former ambassador to Japan, has pinpointed the difference in work attitudes of Japanese and Americans. American society, he says, stresses individual justice while the Japanese seek group harmony. They reject the emphasis on individual rights as being divisive and disruptive.

"In American life," Hodgson continues, "the individual strives to stand out. The Japanese citizen, however, strives to fit in. And fit in he does — into his family, his schools, his company, his union, his nation. Japan is a nation where the parts fit."

Group harmony, of course, is the stuff of which cooperatives are made. The successful cooperatives know this. The less successful ones, and American society as a whole, might well check out the Japanese textbook on "fitting in."

WASHINGTON EVENTS AFFECTING OUR COMMUNITY

How much you have to pay—and how much you're able to buy—at the supermarket depends in part on how successful certain farm restrictions may be, and a number of consumers are writing their legislators protesting these restrictions.

The concerned consumers are trying to convince their representatives how distasteful it would be if the American food grower were kept from operating at peak efficiency by confusing laws that restrict his use of crop protection chemicals.

These chemicals, point out scientists such as Nobel Prize winner Norman Borlaug, can keep us from losing as much as half our crop every year to molds, weeds, fungi, insects and other pests and diseases.

Others say crop protection chemicals have probably accounted for 20 percent of the growers' improved productivity since 1940—feeding far more people with far less labor and the same amount of land. One American grower feeds 60 other people, 15 of them residents of foreign countries.

LEGISLATORS
Some consumers are urging their legislators to help keep prices down and our balance of payments up.

Our grain and produce exports contribute $32 billion to our balance of trade. That helps fight inflation.

American growers and their efficient use of crop protection chemicals help fight inflation in another way. In the past 30 years, the percent of disposable personal income the average American family spends on food has dropped by nearly 25 percent.

Such an uplifting downtrend may be able to continue if those letter writers are successful in swaying their legislators.

Increase Noted In Government Expenditures

State auditor Arne Carlson indicated that local government expenditures rose 8.4 per cent during fiscal 1979. In 1978 local governments spent $4.9 billion and this figure rose to $5.3 billion in 1979.

On the income side, Carlson noted that receipts rose to $5.7 billion with state aids providing 40 per cent of the total with another 10 and one-half per cent coming from the federal government. "This means," said Carlson, "that aids from the state and federal government exceeded local governmental income."

Of the $5.3 billion in expenditures for fiscal year 1979, $2.4 billion went for education, $415.4 million for welfare, $452.0 million for highways, and $280.3 million for sanitation and waste removal.

Expenditures totaled $1.02 billion for counties, $1.1 billion for cities, $54.7 million for towns, $1.94 billion for school districts, and $1.19 billion for other agencies, including $572.1 million for the University of Minnesota.

Of the $5.7 billion in revenues, $3.1 billion or 53.9 per cent came from federal, state and other intergovernmental grants; with $1.3 billion or $22.7 per cent coming from taxes.

Revenue from property taxes increased by $43.7 million between fiscal year 1978 and 1979, up 3.5 per cent. State and federal aids went up by $189.9 million, an increase of 7.0 per cent.

Total outstanding gross bonded debt of local governments was $3.74 billion, or $983.79 per capita (1970 census).

Tips Given To Care For Orphan Pups, Kittens

by Robert L. Stear, D.V.M.

Most pet owners know little about caring for very young kittens or puppies because the natural mothers normally do the job so well. However, there are times when a female rejects her litter or sickens and dies before the young are weaned. With a little knowledge and some determination, you can help orphaned kittens and puppies through their critical first few weeks.

The most effective solution to an orphan problem is finding a nursing female pet that will accept your orphans as her own. If you're lucky, you'll have a friend with a pet nursing a small litter. Occasionally, your local cat or dog club can aid in finding a substitute mother for the litter. The new mother will accept the strangers more quickly if they smell familiar to her. You can help by smearing a little of the mother's own milk on their backs or, at least, rubbing the newborns across the mother's back before leaving them in the nestbox.

If no surrogate mother is available, you'll have to raise the young by hand. This means feeding them, helping them pass urine and feces, and keeping them warm.

Standard cow's milk is not the best diet for very young kittens or puppies. Your veterinarian can recommend a formula you can mix at home, or you can buy a milk replacement product at a pet store.

Your charges will probably need feeding every three hours. You can use an eyedropper, doll's bottle or special kitten nurser to slowly feed a drop or two of milk at a time, until the animal learns how to nurse. Don't rush the job, or the pet may accidentally inhale some of the milk and die of pneumonia. A kitten a few days old will consume an eyedropper or two of food every three hours. As it grows, the amount of formula will increase so that feedings can be spaced farther apart.

The natural mother helps her offspring pass urine and feces after each meal with a gentle licking. Without this help, kittens and puppies younger than three weeks of age cannot eliminate waste materials. You must help them by gently rubbing the stomach in the direction of the tail with a warm moistened cotton ball after each feeding.

Even if you feed the orphans well and help them eliminate waste, they won't survive if you don't keep them warm. Many pet owners don't realize that very young animals cannot maintain an even body temperature for the first two or three weeks of life. They depend on their mother's warmth for survival.

You can supply warmth with a heating pad, heat lamp or hot water bottle. The orphans will need constant warmth all the time they're in the nestbox. Take care that the heat source warms the kittens or puppies but doesn't burn them.

If things go well, your charges will require little medical attention. However, you should discuss the possibility of early vaccination with your veterinarian because bottle-fed animals do not receive the temporary disease immunity that is present in mother's milk.

Overweight Trucks Target Of New Law

Passed by the 1980 Minnesota legislature, a new law provides that bills of lading, freight bills, scale tickets and similar documents may be used as evidence in civil proceedings where an overweight load has been transported on a street or highway.

Effective August 1, action can be taken against either the shipper or the truck owner or both. After a finding by the court that an offense occurred, a penalty of up to 30 cents for each pound of overweight may be imposed.

According to Roger Ledding, chief of the state patrol, the law has the following stipulations:

+ Persons who weigh goods before or after unloading and persons who load or unload goods on the basis of liquid volume must keep written records of the origin, weight and composition of the load.

+ The license number of the power unit used for transportation of the products must also be recorded and maintained at the place of origin or at the destination of the load.

+ Records must be retained for 30 days during which they may be inspected and copied by a state trooper without a search warrant.

Ledding said it is too early to assess the effect of the new law, "but it might be the answer to a large part of our overweight truck problem. Certainly there is incentive for the relatively few shippers and truckers who intentionally overload to terminate the practice."

Twenty-two specially-trained state troopers will assume additional duties of investigating overweight truck cases under the law.

Ledding said the added troopers were not specifically hired to enforce the law. Troopers will stay on regular patrolling assignments and will investigate overweight cases as a part of regular duties. The troopers selected for special training are assigned throughout the state to minimize distances traveled in carrying out investigations.

How To Make Prize-Winning Jam

Does it take a special "knack" to make prize-winning jam? "No," say fair judges, who pick the winners. Using fully ripe, high quality fruit, a good recipe and following procedures exactly are the secrets of blue-ribbon success anyone can copy.

Judges look for smooth, thick jam with bright color and excellent natural fruit flavor. Jam should be slightly softer than jelly.

For perfect jam that can win approval from fair judges or your family, use this recipe for Spiced Peach Jam and follow these tips:

— Use high quality powdered fruit pectin. A recipe with powdered pectin eliminates guesswork and allows you to use fully-ripe fruits, for best flavor and color.

— Measure accurately. Top quality results depend on exact amounts of fruit, pectin, acid and sugar.

— Use a large, flat-bottomed pan, so jam will cook quickly and not boil over.

— Make only one batch at a time.

— Time cooking exactly.

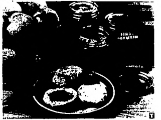
— Stirring and skimming for five minutes helps distribute fruit evenly in the syrup.

— Check fair rulebook for jar size. Most call for standard 1/2-pint jars or glasses.



SPICED PEACH JAM

5 cups prepared peaches (about 4 lbs.)
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
1 large cinnamon stick
7 cups sugar
1 pkg. Jel Ease Fruit Pectin

Wash and sterilize 8-oz. jelly jars; scald lids and rings. Wash and pit fully ripe peaches; peel, cut into pieces and grind. Measure fruit into 6 to 8-quart saucepan; if necessary add water to make 5 cups. Add lemon juice, peel and cinnamon stick. Measure sugar into large bowl; set aside.

Combine pectin with fruit mixture. Cook over high heat until mixture comes to a hard boil, stirring constantly. Add sugar all at once. Cook and stir over high heat until mixture comes to a full rolling boil (one that cannot be stirred down). Boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from heat; skim and stir with metal spoon or skimmer for 5 minutes to remove foam. Remove cinnamon stick. Ladle into hot jars, leaving 1/8-inch rim at top*. Immediately wipe jar rim clean, place hot lid on jar and screw metal ring on firmly. Check for seal in 12 hours. 7 to 8 cups.

*To seal with paraffin: Ladle jam into hot jars, leaving 1/2 inch at top. Cover with thin layer of melted paraffin, about 1/8 inch thick.

Win an Extra Prize for your Blue Ribbon Jam

If your jam made from this recipe or your favorite peach recipe using Pillsbury Jel Ease Fruit Pectin wins a blue ribbon at your 1980 fair, you can win $10 and a certificate from Pillsbury. Here's how:

— On plain paper, print: "I certify that I won a blue ribbon at my 1980 state or county fair with peach jam made with Jel Ease Fruit Pectin," and sign it.

— Send the statement, verification of your blue ribbon, such as a copy of the certificate or fair prize list, the end flap from a Jel Ease box and your name, address and telephone number to: Pillsbury Jel Ease Blue Ribbon Award, B177 Pillsbury Bldg., Minneapolis, MN 55402. Deadline is Nov. 15, 1980.

It was decided to forward the bibs already collected to the Roseau children's home, with the remainder to be sent in November. After the business meeting, Becky Christianson gave a humorous reading on how God made fathers. LuAnn Lewis read a letter received the day before from North Pole, Alaska, from the Frank Armstrongs, who were vacationing there. It was noted with interest that it had only taken four days for the letter to arrive here, a shorter time than it has taken mail to arrive from the southern part of the state. Present at the meeting besides the hostesses were Gladys Bakke, Mavis Langaas, Lauretta Blomker, Nathan, Odetta and Jonathan, Carol Knudsen, Sheila and Keri, Becky Christianson, Edith Dyrdal, Lilas Klefstad, Linda Olson, JoAnn Bauer, Dodie Mikkelson, Mrs. Mike Fayette, Mrs. Gordon Jorgenson and Cory of Argyle and LuAnn Lewis. The August meeting is scheduled for the 20th as a potluck picnic at the home of Edith Dyrdal.

Armstrongs Tell Of Trip To Alaska

Early Wednesday morning, June 25, Frank and Alma Armstrong, together with Clem Wavra of Deer Creek and Cyril Wavra of Red Lake Falls, boarded their van and began their long-dreamed-of trip to Alaska. And in this day of modern conveniences, what's so great about that, you may ask. Nothing perhaps, but this adventurous foursome are all senior citizens!

Having figured beforehand that they could buy gas to sight-see for 500 miles for the amount it would cost for each overnight lodging, they spurned the luxury of motels, camping out at rest stops and campsites along the way, with a couple of nights spent in the wilderness. They also did most of their cooking as food prices were high — the humble hamburger ranging from $1.50 to as high as $3.50. Gas prices ranged from 78 cents to as high as $1.86 for 4 quarts, the higher prices being the farther you got up the Alaskan highway.

In a letter written July 7 they were at the home of Frank's nephew, Steve Ballek, at North Pole, Alaska. They had spent two days at Lang, Sask., the town where Frank was born. His parents were there when the town was organized, and it was now celebrating 75 years. They also visited with the Jim Heibergs at Lang. After spending a weekend at Camrose, Alberta, visiting seven of Mrs. Armstrong's cousins, they went to visit Frank's cousin, Harry Armstrong, at Delta Junction. Harry, a former resident, and Frank had not seen each other for 19 years. Enroute they saw many horses running wild (they have the right-of-way up there), also porcupine, two moose, a wolf and a Canadian lynx.

Saturday, July 5, they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Dale Owens formerly of Angus. (Mrs. Owens is a sister of Mrs. Glen Olson of Norden township). The following day they visited at David Olsons, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Olson, live northwest of Viking. Later Sunday, Clem, Cyril, Steve and Frank flew 150 miles west of Fairbanks to fish on the Yukon river. Their fishing guide was an eskimo. They caught mostly northerns, but also an abundance of Shee fish, one of which weighed 15 pounds. Frank states that they were very tasty. Monday, July 7, they had dinner at Red Olson's, a brother of David, at Fairbanks. Later they went 100 miles north of Fairbanks and visited Red Olson's gold mining camp, where they spent the night, but where it rained steady until they broke camp the next afternoon.

The 8th, they left for Anchorage to visit with Harry's son, the Billy Armstrongs. At Palmer they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wieland and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Wieland, formerly of Euclid. At Vernon, British Columbia, they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Comley. Mrs. Comley is the sister of Frank's brother's wife, Mrs. Jack Armstrong of Shevlin. At Spokane, Wash., they visited Mr. and Mrs. Lenhart Wavra. He is a brother of Clem and Cyril. They also acquired a jar of dust from the Mt. St. Helen's eruption, some 300 miles away, but stated that crops in the area seemed to have benefited from it, as they all looked very good.

They also stopped at Medora, N.D., and visited historical spots of interest before completing their 7,800 mile journey and arriving home Monday afternoon, July 21.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Olson of North and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dyrdal were Tuesday evening coffee guests at the Daryl Lewis home. Later that evening the Dyrdals and Lewises also attended a parish council meeting in Viking.

NEWS FOR INVESTORS

Futures: A Venture For Some

Futures trading has attracted more and more performance-minded investors who have no commercial interest in the commodities traded on futures exchanges. These "speculators," who are willing and able to assume risks with their available venture capital, attempt to realize profits from the anticipation of commodity price changes.

A futures contract is a firm commitment to deliver or receive a specific quantity and quality of a commodity during a designated month at a price determined by open auction on a futures exchange.

For example, if you bought a January soybean contract at $6.73 per bushel, you are obligated to accept delivery of 5,000 bushels of No. 2 yellow soybeans during the month of January at a price of $6.73 per bushel.

In practice, only about 2 percent of all futures contracts traded are actually held to delivery. At any time before the month the contract matures, you may close out your obligation through an equal and opposite or offsetting trade. For example, the buyer of a January contract can sell a January soybean contract before January. The difference between the price at which it was offset, less the commission, is the profit or loss.

Less than two percent of all future contracts ever result in delivery.

Margin requirements are usually two percent of the value of the futures contract.

Commodity exchanges have been in existence since the Chicago Board of Trade was founded in 1848.

Individual commodity transactions are usually handled by firms called Futures Commission Merchants, which charge a commission to cover both initial and liquidating trades.

When buying or selling a contract, a margin deposit must be made. These deposits are an assurance bond for performance on the contract. Because the margin rates are low—usually about 2 percent of the value of the contract—they offer leverage for individuals with venture capital.

Information about futures trading is available from the Chicago Board of Trade, Department NP7, 141 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, IL 60604.

SPHAGNUM PEAT MOSS IS KEY TO HEALTHY PLANTINGS

Here are some tips to help you provide the best possible growing conditions for a new shrub or tree.

1. Dig a hole about twice the diameter of the root ball, placing the soil to one side (preferably on a large tarp to protect the lawn).
2. Fill the hole with water and allow to drain.
3. Mix an equal part of moistened Canadian sphagnum peat moss with the soil which has been removed from the hole. The sphagnum peat moss conditions the soil assuring that water and nutrients stay at root level where they are needed.
4. Fill the hole halfway with the peat moss/soil mixture and water thoroughly.
5. Set the tree or shrub in the hole, making sure the original soil line matches the soil level of the new location.
6. Loosen the burlap around the tree but do not remove it.
7. Fill in with the remaining soil and sphagnum peat moss mixture. Tamp firmly with foot or the back of a hoe handle and water thoroughly. Leave a slight depression to collect rainfall.

8. Apply a two-to-three inch mulch of plain moistened sphagnum peat moss around the tree and keep moist.

Sphagnum peat moss is an excellent mulch since it retains moisture, keeps weeds in check and acts as an insulator for plant roots. Note: If you live in an area which is subject to dry spells, mix some grass clippings with the peat moss mulch to prevent crusting.

Household Hints

By Samantha of Lestoil Homemakers Service

Thrifty relatives vacationing at your house instead of a hotel? To enjoy the visit, simplify! Every meal needn't be a production. Cut up lettuce, cucumbers, cheese, other salad makings and stash them in the fridge along with dressing and croutons, for a do-it-yourself "salad bar." Spend one family evening assembling casseroles, and remaining mealtimes will be a snap.

Place a sponge and a bottle of Lestoil, the super-strength cleaner, in the kitchen and every bathroom, to inspire even the youngest guests to wipe up their own spills, fingermarks, tub rings. After the company's gone, full-strength Lestoil will make light work of "souvenirs," like stubborn grease on the stove, range hood, barbecue grill; even a crayon mural on the guestroom wall!

With guests in the house the laundry may seem like a mountain, and vacation pursuits are sure to cause problem stains: bicycle grease, beach tar, grass...Lestoil, that incredible household cleaner, is also a powerful pre-spotter that melts away "impossible" stains. Tip: have guests initial items with an indelible marker, to simplify sorting.

Rate Of Saving Among Lowest In Many Years

Americans' rate of saving is about as low as it has ever been. That is bad not only for the individuals without savings, but for the economy generally. Without the capital produced by savers, banks and savings institutions find it harder to finance business expansion and housing construction, while consumer spending and industrial output decline.

There is really no reason why everyone cannot save more. Saving — just a little every payday through the payroll savings plan for U.S. savings bonds will produce a good sized nest egg in a surprisingly short period of time. Saving just $25 monthly, for example, will translate into $1,700 in just five years and more than $4,000 in ten years.

Series EE savings bonds are also a completely safe wasy to save, with both principal and interest guaranteed by the United States. And there are a number of tax advantages that can, under certain conditions, significantly increase savings yields.

It's easy to save through the payroll savings plan. It's offered at 40,000 work places. A on-time decision to save $3.75 per payday — or less — will put anyone on the road to greater savings and greater financial security.

Getting so much with so little effort should not be bypassed. Consider the payroll savings plan where you work or the bond-a-month plan where you bank. Both can prove that by saving a little, you're really saving a lot.

Hints For Homeowners

This is the time of year when outdoor furniture becomes as much a part of your life style as sunshine. Here are a few tips to keep in mind when selecting your outdoor furnishings.

A major consideration today, of course, is your budget. Very inexpensive "disposable" patio products may seem tempting. But if you plan to use the furniture often and for a long time you'll end up spending even more money on replacements and repairs than if you invest wisely in a quality product at the beginning.

Look for a product that not only suits your individual taste and life style, but one that is comfortable, durable, and easily maintained.

For example, Samsonite Furniture's Body Glove® Collection is a carefree modern design that is packed with features. The chairs and chaise lounges are covered in a comfortable mesh fabric that resists stains, fading and mildew. Contoured, tubular steel frames are coated with a PVC coating to reduce corrosion and stay cool to the touch even in hottest sunshine. Nylon glides protect patios and furniture. It's sturdy enough to stay on the patio all winter and is ready in a jiffy for another season of fun-in-the-sun with a little soap and a spray from the garden hose.

No matter what your personal preference, wrought iron, aluminum, steel, or redwood, be sure to select a reputable dealer who carries national brands and who stands behind his products with proper service.

BOARD OF EDUCATION:

The BOARD of EDUCATION of INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 564 establishes the POLICIES for the operations of the school district within the State and Federal guidelines. They employ a Superintendent of Schools as their general administrator and hold him responsible for educational and operational management.

The BOARD of EDUCATION provides a varied ACADEMIC, VOCATIONAL, and SPECIAL EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM for grades K-12; and a post secondary program at the AREA VOCATIONAL TECHNICAL INSTITUTE.

The BOARD of EDUCATION has POLICY responsibility for EMPLOYEES, FINANCES, TRANSPORTATION, FOOD SERVICE, and BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS. They are actively involved in loca, regional, State and National organizations serving education.

NORTHEAST SITE with CLOSED CAMPUS

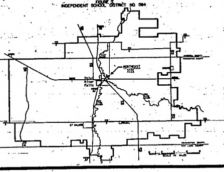
Why Closed Campus?

CLOSED CAMPUS means designing a building and site to house all students for the full school day. Students leaving the building or site must leave under rules and regulations set up to control their coming and going. Parking lots on the high school site would be controlled and there would be little or no parking for up to one half mile off the site. The effort would be to have students come on the site for the beginning of the school day and keep them there. Any leaving of the building or site would be carefully controlled.

Why Northeast Site?

The Board of Education spent many hours with State Department of Education School Facilities Planning and Operations Section; School Architects; City Council and Planning Commission Members; County Commissioners; Real Estate Agents; and others before deciding:

1. The Northeast site was the best location for a new high school (seven were considered).
2. There would not be a public vote on a number of sites.
3. The high school should be a closed campus type.



The school district owns the site. Purchase of this specific site for building a high school was recommended by State of Minnesota Department of Education School Facilities Planning and Operations Section.

Size of site allows developing of parking, athletic, outdoor physical education areas, and building entrance and exits so that pupils and visitors may be controlled. Planning for location; orientation; parking; access and egress; and fencing make control of students and visitors easier. Any future cooperative programs for growth of district through consolidation, etc. would most likely occur North and Northeast.

Elimination of walking to school sponsored activities during the day will aid control and safety. (Example — Center School, downtown work locations.) The transportation which will be involved is reimbursable.

Site is adequate to provide land for growth in educational services such as regional or state educational facilities, shared community school facilities and programs, possible school district needs in buildings, extra-curricular, administration, transportation.

Site is an area zoned residential. Mixed zoning (industrial, commercial, residential, public) increases the cost and difficulty of supervising students. Also, future zoning can be easily controlled.

Limits the opportunities for students to be downtown with the problems of vandalism, shop lifting, jaywalking, and contacts with non-school people.

Supervised individualized educational opportunities where an individual student would profit from offerings at the AVTI or Community College.

Less opportunity for building destruction by non-school people.

The site is not restricted by railroads, highways, river, airport and air traffic lanes, zoning, etc.

Utilities are at the site. This reduces the initial cost of the project and also allows a higher percentage of the project money to be spent for educational purposes.

Site provides ample space for interscholastic athletics, and physical education; for outside class activities such as science, art, and work experience in landscape, and agriculture.

SCHOOL DISTRICT 564

EXPENDITURE BUDGET

On June 23, 1980 the Board of Education approved a tentative expenditure budget in the amount of $7,451,884. It is from these funds that the district will be operated during the 1980-81 school year. All K-12 programs will be financed from this budget. The Area Vocational School has its own budget which is separate from K-12.

In order to give you an idea of the different budget areas, we have broken down our budget by program. Each program contains a different aspect of the school budget. Development of the budget starts with staff, works its way through the administration and is finally presented to the Board for its review. This process starts in November of each year and is not completed until the June Board meeting. Each month the status of the budget is reviewed and any necessary adjustments are presented to the Board for their approval.

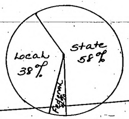
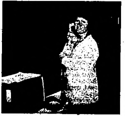
INTER-DISTRICT EXPENDITURES	245,082
TRUST FUND	7,800
TOTAL BUDGET	$7,451,884

REVENUE SOURCES:

Revenue to fund these programs is collected from the following sources:



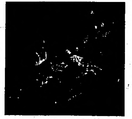
ADMINISTRATION



Marlys Furuseth is shown operating the Visual Display Unit which is used to access the state computer system. The districts financial and payroll records are generated off this computer system.

Included in administrative expenses are salaries of the school board, superintendent, business manager, and central office clerical staff. Contracted services recorded here include auditors, legal counsel, and regional computer services. The supplies and travel for the board and administration are also recorded here.

INSTRUCTION



Elementary Summer School teacher. Dick Tyler, is shown with art student, Desiree Christenson. This year's summer school classes had an enrollment of 675 students.

This area accounts for 49% of our budget. Included under instruction are salaries of principals and directors, classroom teachers, special education teachers, librarians, counselors, secretaries, and aides. Other expenses included here are textbooks, workbooks, instructional supplies, library expense, travel and miscellaneous instructional expense. This is the area of our budget that provides for direct instructional contact with students.

HEALTH SERVICES

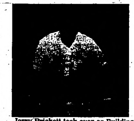
Health Services provide services in the area of inspection, treatment, weighing, and emergency first aid. The staff consists of Marsha Stanislawski, School Nurse, and Lillian Ranum, Assistant.

TRANSPORTATION

The school district operates 31 busses, which transport 1,868 students to and from school each year plus provides transportation for extra trips.

Salaries, gas, bus parts, garage operating expense, and related expenses are recorded here.

PLANT OPERATION and MAINTENANCE



Jerry Prickett took over as Buildings and Grounds Supervisor in September of 1979. Jerry supervises a staff of 38, who are responsible for nine buildings.

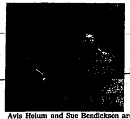
This area consists of all activities necessary to keep the physical plant open and ready for use as well as on-going maintenance. Included would be contracted custodial services, supplies for care of grounds and equipment. This area has been impacted by rising utility costs.

FOOD SERVICE

V. Muzzy, M. Rustan, R. Leader, and M. Breiland, cooks at Franklin Middle School are pictured above. The school district's food service program employs 25 full-time and part-time people.

It provides for the serving of regular and ala carte programs. Meals are served in five elementary, one middle school and one high school in the district. All expenses related to the food program are recorded here including salaries and benefits, food and milk, utilities, non food supplies, and miscellaneous expense.

FIXED CHARGES



Avis Holum and Sue Bendickson are responsible for district retirement reports and group insurance programs. Benefits are provided through State Retirement Programs for qualifying district employees.

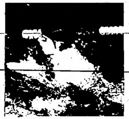
Fixed changes are the district expenses for various employee retirement programs, insurance for employee, property and liability insurance, workmen's compensation, rentals, unemployment payments, and severance payments.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

Girls' sports have become a significant part of our extra-curricular programs.

Expenditures for coaches and directors salaries, officials, supplies, travel, and other expenses for co-curricular and extra-curricular activities are accounted for in this category.

COMMUNITY SERVICES



The Franklin Pool is used throughout the year for recreational swimming. The district also has boys and girls swim teams.

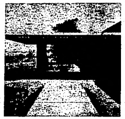
This account provides for the operation of services directed at the community as a whole including operation of the pool, and an adult education program which provides full-time and evening programs.

CAPITAL OUTLAY

A major project this year is to reroof a portion of the Franklin-Mark Twain roof.

This account provides for the upkeep of buildings and grounds, purchase of equipment, and lease payments.

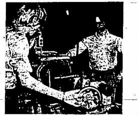
DEBT SERVICE



The Franklin, Mark Twain complex is the latest K-12 building project and was completed in 1964 with a pool addition in 1967.

This account provides for the payment of principle and interest on bonded debt. It is from this account that payments on new construction are made.

INTER-DISTRICT EXPENDITURES



The Northwest Vocational Center School provides vocational training such as high school machine shop shown above.

It is necessary in certain cases to purchase educational services from other institutions. These payments are made when it is more economical or practical to contract for, rather than provide, the services in the district.

EDUCATIONAL PHILOSOPHY

It is the basic purpose of the public schools of Independent School District No. 564 to help develop skills, habits, attitudes and character traits essential to our present day culture. It is recognized that today's society is affected by the pressures of technological, social, and political change, and the schools must at all times seek to keep pupils informed of changes as they occur and prepare the pupils to make adjustments. Loyalty to the basic principles of democracy is essential despite changes produced by technological, social, or political developments, and patriotism and love of one's country are essential virtues which must be fostered in the schools.

Thus, it is therefore apparent that in a changing world no statement, no policy, no rule remains unchanged. Thus, this publication will be constantly subject to change and revision. It shall be the framework within which the schools shall be administered until future formal resolutions by the Board of Education deem it otherwise.

The immediate and long range goals of Independent School District No. 564 shall be as follows:

1. Instruction of moral values and ideals that were and still are considered valuable in American society.
2. An equal educational opportunity for every child to develop his/her physical and mental assets within the resources of the District.
3. A balanced course of study.
4. Modern methods of study and instruction.
5. A strong staff.
6. Adequate building, equipment, and supplies.
7. Efficient and responsible budgeting.

The Board of Education upholds the thoughts expressed by John Dewey: "That which the wisest and best parent wants for his own child — that must the community want for all children. Any other ideal . . . destroys our democracy."

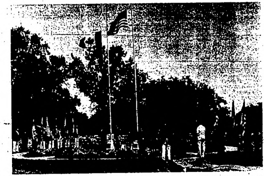
"Everybody is Somebody in Thief River Falls"

Published Twice A Week

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Volume 69 (USPS 627-360) Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Monday, August 4, 1980 Number 62

SPECIAL PRESENTATION was made to Mayor Bob Carlson of Thief River Falls from Mayor William Norrie of Winnipeg during the International War Veterans alliance 41st annual convention in Thief River Falls this weekend. Serving as representative of Mayor Norrie was Gene Szabo (left) who presented the certificate of honorary citizensip and invited Mayor Carlson to visit Mayor Norrie on any subsequent trip to Winnipeg. At right is Jim Swan, master at arms for the IWVA from Winnipeg.



MEMORIAL SERVICES were held at Friendshop gardens in the tourist park at Thief River Falls Sunday afternoon as one of the concluding events of the International War Veterans alliance 41st annual convention. Color guards carrying United States and Canadian flags as well as unit banners took part in the ceremonies and the flags flown daily at the gardens were lowered to half staff in honor of those who gave their lives in military service. Nearly 200 people attended the convention which began Friday evening and continued throughout Saturday and Sunday.

To Build Ethanol Plant . . .

Agri-Energy Offers Stock In Venture

Agri-Energy, Inc., which proposes to construct a plant with capacity to produce four million gallons of fuel grade ethanol annually in Red Lake county, is issuing 1,700,000 shares of common stock in the venture, according to a preliminary prospectus issued by the company.

The prospectus published through Pagel Inc., of Minneapolis, an investment securities firm, emphasizes that the securities offered are ". . . highly speculative, involve a high degree of risk and should only be purchased by persons who can afford to lose their entire investment."

It also notes that financing is being sought for the design, construction and operation of the facility to produce ethanol primarily from distressed grain and that additional financing will be required for the project.

Agri-Energy, Inc., started business Dec. 28, 1977, and was incorporated on Feb. 2, 1978. It proposes to sell ethanol for mixture with gasoline to produce gasohol. Since its formation the company has been investigating and analyzing the technical and economic feasibility of producing ethanol from various agricultural products and availability of sufficient agricultural feedstocks to produce ethanol.

Also under study are the demand and pricing for fuel grade ethanol used in gasohol and the demand and pricing for the animal feed byproduct of fuel grade ethanol production.

Capital costs of getting the plant constructed and into production are estimated at $8,310,000, subject to an accuracy of plus or minus 25 per cent, according to the prospectus. The company estimates working capital needs and start-up expenses of a million dollars.

Agri-Energy, Inc., has an option to acquire 160 acres of land in Red Lake county on which to construct the project at a cost of $136,000, and to acquire an additional 160 acres at $850 per acre for a term of five years.

A preliminary estimate of capital costs shows that the company projects land and site improvement of $680,000; site development, structure, foundation and utilities of $650,000; 100x125 building, $400,000; processing system, $4,050,000; power distribution, $200,000; steam production, $750,000; wastewater treatment, $40,000; engineering, $605,000; construction management, $305,000; and escalation, $630,000.

The processing system would include $700,000 for grain handling and milling, $850,000 for liquefaction and saccharification, $560,000 for fermentation with yeast addition, $900,000 for distillation, $170,000 for ethanol denaturing and storage and $870,000 for stillage evaporation and dewatering.

The company expects to purchase feed grains from farmers and grain storage companies and to obtain two million bushels of such distressed grain annually at not more than $1.50 per bushel. It has neither marketing personnel nor any binding commitments or arrangements for distribution of its products, but expects to sell to wholesale petroleum distributors, bulk storage facilities and possibly gasoline distribution centers.

The project is designed to produce approximately 38,000 tons of animal feed byproduct,

To Review Drought Impact . . .

Ag Task Force Will Meet Here

Task force created by Senator Dave Durenberger to provide ideas "that will lead to a more vigorous agricultural economy" will conduct its first meeting August 18 in Thief River Falls.

Durenberger announced the formation of the group July 18 in Moorhead, Crookston and Alexandria. The task force's immediate charge is to assess the impact of the drought and to recommend solutions to problems caused by the drought.

The senator has urged the task force to go beyond the immediate crisis and establish a program to revitalize the rural economy. "It is time we took farm problems out of the hands of the department of agriculture and the small business administration and start involving the people with the problems in working for better opportunities," he said.

"Now that we're in the middle of a drought, I am reminded that in the last drought in 1976 these same farmers were promised by other politicians that their government would learn to protect them. I am tired of promising politicians, disaster handouts and the red tape tied around government bureaucracies. I will now allow Minnesota farmers to become tenants on their own land because of natural disasters and economic conditions beyond their control."

Durenberger's task force is co-sponsored by Governor Al Quie and Congressman Arlan Stangeland. The group has the endorsement and cooperation of every major farm organization in Minnesota.

Member of the task force in addition to Sen. Durenberger, Gov. Quie and Rep. Stangeland include the following:

Becker county — Duane Okeson, farmer;

Clay county — Richard Fitzsimons, sugar beet growers association;

Kittson county — Mary Jenkins, extension director; Marvin Hanson, state senator; Charles Gathridge and Harvey Blomquist, farmers;

Marshall county — Norma Hanson, farmer; Don Loeslie, wheat growers association; Roy Swanson, implement dealer; Curt Neumann, banker; and Medard Yutrzenka, farmer;

Norman county — Bary Melme, farmer;

Pennington county — Merle Lundeen, farmer; and Bill Penning, extension farm specialist;

Polk county — Oliver Landsverk and Merle Anderson, farmers; Sam Bigger, ag extension division; John Friederichs, FmHA; Lloyd Schmidt, potato growers association; and Jacob Gaalswyk, Minnesota truckers association;

Roseau county — Myron Nysether, legislator; and Bob Foley, banker.

Consultant is Dr. Bernie Youngquist, University of Minnesota at Crookston.

It's Only Preliminary, But . . .

Census Indicates Population Rise

Preliminary census figures received by the office of C. W. Rodekuhr, Pennington county auditor, show Pennington county population up by 318 from the 1975 special census and 1,641 from the 10-year census taken in 1970.

The special census taken in 1975 showed a substantial difference of 1,323 people from the census taken five years previously. That additional number has resulted in a considerable amount of financial assistance to the county and its communities under state and federal programs whereby distribution is based on population.

It has been emphasized by the U.S. census bureau and its area representatives that the preliminary figures are incomplete and that final figures are expected to be much different. The figures reported provide a basis for speculation, however, and are indicative of some trends which may be confirmed by the final numbers.

From the 1975 census to the 1980 preliminary figures, townships in the county gained in population by 351 people while cities decreased by 33. Goodridge grew from 177 to 190 and St. Hilaire climbed from 358 to 379 while Thief River Falls dropped from 8,988 to 8,921. In the 1970 census Goodridge had 144 population, St. Hilaire had 337 and Thief River Falls had 8,618.

Townships increased in the 1980 preliminary census to a population total of 5,417 from 5,066 in 1975 and only 4,167 in 1970.

Township with the greatest growth from 1975 to 1980 was Smiley with an increase of 201 from 334 to 535. Second was Rocksbury with growth of 122 from 1,073 to 1,195. North township declined by 30 from 720 to 690 for the largest numerical drop among the townships.

Twelve Pennington county townships showed population increases in the 1980 preliminary figures while nine had losses in population.

A tabulation of population for 1970, 1975 and 1980 censuses includes the following:

Nysether And Hanson Request 10-Ton System

State Senator Marv Hanson and State Representative Myron Nysether, both of northwestern Minnesota, have requested the Minnesota department of transportation to implement a provisional 10-ton route system for the northwest part of the state similar to the emergency 10-ton system which was put into effect in the fall of 1979.

The two legislators have requested the commissioner of Mn-DOT to allow 10-ton loads on main routes because of the extreme economic hardship caused to truckers who must presently run with smaller loads to the Duluth-Superior port. "With the high cost of fuel as it is, truckers need to be able to haul full loads to come out financially," Rep. Nysether said.

"We are concerned that the movement of grain to the port be accomplished as efficiently as possible," Sen. Hanson added.

The 10-ton route system, which Hanson and Nysether have requested, would include the following roads: Highway 11, Baudette to Greenbush; highway 32, Greenbush to Thief River Falls; highway 59, Thief River Falls to Erskine; highway 89, Grygla to Red Lake; highway 72, Baudette to Northome; highway 46, Northome to Deer River; and highway 75, west state line to highway 59.

"Because of the extremely dry season we had, the roads are in good shape and should be able to sustain the heavier loads," Sen. Hanson said.

"We need the 10-ton system in order to connect with highway 2, so that our haulers have the opportunity to at least be on par with those of North Dakota," Rep. Nysether added.

SURROUNDED BY BOOKS, this young visitor was among many at the city auditorium Thursday when the Northwest regional library conducted one of the largest book sales in the history of Thief River Falls. Proceeds from the sale will be used to purchase materials to be used in the Thief River Falls library. A thank you is extended from the library staff of all those who donated books for the event.

4-H Community Pride Project Advances

After planting flowers at the site of the old City View school (former town hall) last spring, the task of painting the building itself got underway Wednesday, July 23, when City View 4-H'ers congregated to scrape away the old paint. Harold Langaas then applied the first coat of paint with a sprayer and on Friday gave it a second coat. The club now plans to purchase material for new curtains, which the sewing project leaders and members will sew. 4-H banners that have been entered at the fairs through the years will be on display hereafter in the old school also.

August 11, beginning at 6:30 p.m., the restoration will be celebrated at the school grounds with a potluck picnic in addition to the regular monthly business meeting.

Tourist-Travel Industry Shows Growth For 1979

Despite decreased gasoline supplies during the summer of 1979, Minnesota's tourist-travel industry totals showed growth for the year. Total travel expenditures reached $1.822 billion, an increase of 14.8 per cent over 1978. Minus inflation, real growth for the year is estimated at 1.4 per cent.

This real growth took place despite travel curtailments brought about by decreased gasoline supply and rising travel cost. Changes in recreational travel patterns by residents of Minnesota and close-in neighboring states offset some of the reduced long distance and cross country travel to Minnesota.

Minnesota lodging receipts for 1979 increased 15.2 per cent over 1978. Receipts for the entire year amounted to $364,580,000. This indicator, taken from the state's sales and use tax reports, is the most critical indicator used in evaluating Minnesota's total travel industry.

Statewide lodging receipts (which include expenditures for room, restaurant, liquor and services at the lodging establishment) were up each quarter for the year, with increases above the inflation rate in most regions. Receipts for the full year at Twin Cities lodging establishments were up 12.7 while occupancy rates were up 1.6 per cent.

Room receipts in Duluth's lodging places started the year firmly with good advances during the first quarter; however, the summer season of June through August showed a drop of 1.2 per cent. Some recovery was evident during September, but October and December showed drops from the previous year's receipts. November's performance brought the final quarter totals to a 3.3 per cent increase over 1978. Overall the year produced a 3.7 per cent increase for Duluth in room receipts.

Occupancy rates at 14 budget motels in selected locations statewide showed a drop of 1.6 per cent between January and November of 1979.

Employment in Minnesota's lodging industry was up 6.1 per cent for the year. The Twin Cities recorded a rise of 4.2 per cent, while the rest of the state increased 7.8 per cent.

Statewide eating and drinking receipts for 1979 showed a 12.9 per cent increase over 1978. Employment in this segment of the industry increased 5.9 per cent for the full year. Increases were consistent throughout the year in out-state areas. The Twin Cities started the year strong, but the rate of increase slacked off to about 3.5 per cent for the last six months.

Gasoline delivered for highway use to licensed distributors was down 4.4 per cent in 1979. As expected with decreased gasoline supply throughout the year, Minnesota's highway traffic counts were off for the total year by one per cent. The first four months showed slight increases; decreases were registered the rest of the year. Outstate highways experienced gains in January and April with losses in all other months. Substantial drops were recorded from June through December. Overall, traffic on outstate highways dropped 4.2 per cent from 1978. These measures of traffic are taken by automatic traffic-recorder stations at 105 locations throughout the state.

Highway traffic on selected recreation feeder routes throughout the state was down 5.7 per cent for the period of June through August. This corresponds with the 21 per cent reduction of visitors at the Minnesota highway information centers during the summer period. For the full year these centers showed a drop of 15.9 per cent in visitations.

Number of airline passengers at the Duluth and Twin Cities airports showed good increases for the first nine months of 1979 but dropped off during the latter part of the year. Duluth ended the year with an increase of 4.6 per cent over 1978.

The Twin Cities international airport serviced a total of 9,309,370 passenger arrivals and departures during 1979, up 19.6 per cent from the strike-year totals of 1978. The six months unaffected by the 1978 airline strike showed an increase of 7.3 per cent.

Combined airline passenger totals on scheduled airlines at eight other Minnesota communities registered a strong increase of 11.2 per cent during the year for the whole system. Brainerd showed the largest increase with a 26.4 per cent gain over 1978. The largest gain for the whole system was registered during the third quarter when a 23.6 per cent increase was realized.

Car rental receipts at the Minneapolis-St. Paul international airport continued its strong growth gaining 23.2 per cent over 1978. The performance of the rental agencies showed double digit increases in all months in 1979 except September, when an increase of 7.2 per cent was registered. Exceptionally large increases were registered in the first quarter with February reaching a 39.1 per cent increase. As in 1978, increased business travel appears to be the major factor in these large increases.

A regional indicator of recreational activity in the northern part of the state is the number of border crossings into Minnesota at the Minnesota-Canadian border stations. Counts taken for 1979 at nine border station locations showed a drop of 2.6 per cent from 1978.

Minnesota state park attendance for 1979 indicated a decrease of 9.1 per cent for the year. Camping guests at state parks were off 18.6 per cent for the same period. The biggest drops were experienced in the Arrowhead, Metroland and Pioneerland tourism regions. Minnesota's Heartland and Vikingland regions showed strong visitor increases but were off considerably in the number of camping guests.

Minnesota's historical sites reflected a 4.3 per cent drop in overall traffic volumes and recreation activity during 1979. Historic Fort Snelling showed a 3.3 per cent loss from 1978 totals; however, much of the loss resulted from the cutback in school tours due to energy cost and school budget restraints.

Pipestone national monument, in the far southwest corner of the state, experienced a 20.2 per cent drop for 1979. This corresponds to the decrease in long distance recreational traffic in that area as well as in neighboring South Dakota.

Bike Accidents Major Health, Safety Problem

Bicycle accidents are a significant health and safety problem among children. More than one-half of all bicycle accidents involve children between the ages of five and 14.

"During the summer, rarely a week goes by that we don't treat a child who has had a bike accident," says Dr. Paul Kubic, associate director of a Twin Cities hospital. "They come in with cuts, bruises, fractures, facial lacerations and, occasionally, head injuries. Abdominal trauma frequently occurs when the rider suddenly stops, thrusting the handlebars into the stomach area, bruising the bowel."

Most of these accidents are single bike accidents. They are usually caused when the child loses control of the bike after hitting a bump or hole in the street. In some cases, the size of the bicycle is inappropriate for the rider or there is a mechanical problem. Often the child simply panics in traffic and loses control of the bike.

"Many of these potentially dangerous situations, and a trip to the hospital emergency room, can be avoided with the parents' help," Dr. Kubic says.

Parents should always supervise the selection of their child's bike — especially in the case of younger children where a bike with more than one speed could be hazardous. While the care of the bicycle is primarily the child's responsibility, many children who own bikes are too young to keep the bike in good working order. Parents should frequently inspect the bike for loose bolts, sharp metal edges on parts, faulty or worn brakes, worn tires, bent spokes and so on.

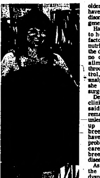
At the age of five, most children, with the proper instructions, are ready to learn how to ride a bike. They are old enough to realize that their bike isn't a toy but a transportation vehicle that will be sharing the road with other vehicles. Before being allowed to ride a bike on the road, the child should be able to ride in a straight line near the curb, turn corners properly, and know the rules of the road.

Most fatal accidents occur when the bike rider fails to heed traffic signs and collides with a motor vehicle. In 75 per cent of these accidents the bicycle rider is at fault.

Accidents where the car driver is at fault usually occur at night because of difficulty in seeing the bike and rider. "Certain precautions must be taken by bike riders at night," says Dr. Kubic, "such as wearing light colored and reflective clothing. Their bicycles should always be equipped with lights and reflectors. Beginning riders should avoid night travel. Accidents frequently result in serious head injuries that may be avoided if the rider wears a helmet."

Dr. Kubic also cautions bike riders to avoid carrying passengers. "If they must carry an individual, they should use approved carriers which are installed properly." Without these carriers, many passengers have had an arm or a leg caught in the bicycle spokes, one of the most frequent bike-related injuries. Children less than one year old should not be placed in a child carrier, but in a back-pack type carrier. Infants less than six months old should not be passengers on bicycles, nor should children weighing more than 40 pounds.

No matter what equipment is placed on the bicycle, the most important safety device is the educated rider. He or she must learn to drive defensively when operating a bicycle and to treat the bicycle as their first road vehicle.



BIGGEST PENNY costume was worn by Janelle Bjerklie of J.C. Penneys in Thief River Falls to win fourth place in the costume contest conducted during Crazy Days events in Thief River Falls last week. As fourth place winner in the contest, Janelle received a cash prize of $15.

Hip Dysplasia In Dogs Topic Of Long Study

by Ralph Heussner
'U' M News Service

What do apes in the San Diego zoo and wolves in British Columbia have to do with the crippling illness hip dysplasia in dogs?

The link is Dr. Griselda Hanlon, professor of radiology at the University of Minnesota college of veterinary medicine, who has been studying the disease for 20 years.

Dog owners and breeders cringe when hip dysplasia is diagnosed. An abnormality of the hip joints which can result in severe deformity and arthritis, hip dysplasia strikes as many as 50 per cent of dogs in some breeds.

Hanlon began her investigation into the disorder in 1960, after increasing numbers of hip dysplasia cases were diagnosed because of greater use of x-rays by veterinarians. "I was seeing so much of it at the time and there was very little research going on," she said.

A five-year study of German shepherds and Hungarian vizslas at the University of Minnesota in the early 1960s took one of the first major scientific looks at the problem, and revealed that hip dysplasia is a "complex, genetic problem."

"We know it's genetic, but we don't know how it starts — what triggers the disease," Hanlon said. As an aid to dog owners and breeders, Hanlon has written a handy 16-page booklet entitled "Hip Dysplasia — Questions and Answers."

Hip dysplasia has been reported in 88 different breeds of dogs. It is more prevalent in larger dogs such as the Saint Bernard, German shepherd, Labrador retriever, Old English sheepdog and Irish setter.

According to Hanlon, dysplasia is sometimes difficult to detect. Symptoms in severe cases are apparent by three months of age, but in milder cases the disorder may not become evident until the dog is three years of age or older. By then, the dog may have been bred, and the disorder passed on to the next generation.

Hanlon says that in addition to heredity, environmental factors such as exercise and nutrition may also influence the disease. Although there is no cure for dysplasia, the ailment can be managed through proper weight control, moderate exercise, analgesics and soft bedding, she said. In some cases, surgery can help.

Despite the scientific and clinical advances, Hanlon said, "The problem will remain with us for some time unless we get cooperation. It's up to dog owners and breeders." Most breeders have already recognized the problem, and are exercising careful and selective breeding to control the disease, she said.

As part of her research into the genetic source of dysplasia, Hanlon has studied wolves in British Columbia. She hopes to trace the hereditary path of dysplasia, but so far has found no connection. In an examination of 68 wolves, Hanlon found only a single case of dysplasia and she says the deformity may not have been hereditary.

And what do apes have to do with hip dysplasia?

Hanlon's initial interest in veterinary medicine was whetted when she visited the Balboa Park zoo in San Diego in 1944 and witnessed an ape undergoing surgery.

"I was an entomologist in the U.S. navy and delivering insecticide to the zoo at the time. When I arrived, I found a pathologist — a woman — standing on creates and operating on an ape. She later showed me the zoo hospital. It was at the end of the war, and with the GI bill I decided to go into veterinary medicine."

Hanlon was a member of the first class that included women at the University of Minnesota college of veterinary medicine, and the first woman in the United States to receive the diplomate from the American college of veterinary radiology.

Hanlon's booklet is available for $1.95 from Biomedical Graphics-Marketing Services, Room B192 Phillips-Wangensteen Building, 516 Delaware St. S.E., University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, MN 55455.

Nurse Professors At U of M Pushing Four-Year Degree

by William Hoffman
'U' M News Service

Old notions and myths die hard. The one about the nurse as a tireless, compliant, almost sacrificial soul is still widely believed, but growing occupational stress is slowly altering that romantic picture.

Few professionals work under more stressful conditions than nurses, a problem underscored by the current nationwide nursing shortage. Psychological "burnout" is not uncommon among nurses.

What to do about occupational stress is a problem currently being studied by many nursing educators, including University of Minnesota nursing professors Ida Martinson and Diane Kjervik, co-editors of "Women in Stress: A Nursing Perspective." A collection of articles by health care professionals, the book has won two awards from the American Journal of Nursing this year.

"There's been a basic lack of recognition of the profession," Martinson said. "Nursing needs to become more visible, distinct from medicine."

Too often the public identifies nursing with medicine, but, Martinson said, "It's absolutely ludicrous for nursing to be lumped into health care delivery systems without any distinction."

According to Martinson and Kjervik, there has been considerable difficulty in getting public agency and private foundation support for nursing education. Funds usually end up in medical programs, they said.

There is also an impression "that nursing is worth less in the marketplace," Kjervik said. "We don't think that is true."

The women's rights movement has helped to give the nursing profession more self-assurance, but it still needs clearer ideas about its future if it is to achieve a separate identity, Martinson said. Part of the answer is better education, she said.

"One of the problems with the health care system in this country is that over half of the work is done by untrained aides," Martinson added. Working with patients is seen by some as mundane work, but both Kjervik and Martinson feel such work is vital to proper health care and should be done by professional nurses.

"Nursing preparation is very much geared to disease prevention and health maintenance. Doctors are the diagnosticians, but nurses are the primary care givers," Martinson said, adding that "some think it is necessary to have an interdisciplinary team to care for the patient. But why? The needs of the patient can best be addressed by nurses, with other health care staff as consultants."

Here is where nursing education comes in. Martinson and Kjervik believe that a bachelor of science degree in nursing should be required of all registered nurses for entry into practice.

"A bachelor of science degree should be the baseline for registered nurses in a new system of care, to replace the currently aging system," Martinson said. "A bachelor's degree is necessary to meet the growing complexities of health care — the new medical technology and ethical dilemmas, for example."

The idea is hardly new. In fact, the American Nursing association and state associations across the country are calling for a mandatory B.S.N. after 1985.

Most registered nurses, however, have three-year diplomas. Some polls show that the great majority of them are opposed both to a mandatory B.S.N. and to being called technical rather than professional nurses. And nursing schools that offer those diplomas are vehemently opposed.

"We realize that there is opposition to and resentment of our ideas about basic entry level goals," Kjervik said. "We have to convince opponents that it works to everyone's advantage."

"There is a fear that registered nurses with three-year diplomas will lose their jobs, but our desire is only to see that nurses are better tained to meet the growing difficulties of the profession," Martinson said.

"We are oriented toward the future. We are looking at the complete health care needs of the public. This will require that nurses be trained in behavioral science, family science, medical ethics, liberal arts and so on, and not just have technical training. It is for the public safety and the public good. The public deserves the best quality of care," she said.

Martinson and Kjervik think that nurses with bachelor's and master's degrees are more likely to be assertive, a key word in their study of occupational stress.

"Many nurses have been passive and subservient for too long," Kjervik said. "For example, most nurses are not covered by malpractice insurance. Often they simply take the hospital's word that none is needed. Yet they are liable."

"Lots of people think that the medical profession is taking care of us," Martinson said. "The core of the problem is assertiveness within the profession."

"We have to establish ourselves separately and insist upon equal pay for equal value of the work performed," Kjervik said.

"Many nurses are afraid of change. They make so little noise yet are expected to be responsible and accountable for every action. This leads to stress," Kjervik said. Martinson added that having more female doctors doesn't help the nursing profession, but having more male nurses does.

Dear Friends,

The problems surrounding death and dying no longer concern only the widow or widower. Society is becoming more aware of the issues and difficulties associated with loss thru death - the public questions posed by such a private tragedy. This is a wholesome development.

Respectfully,

New Directors Are Named To MSHSL Board

Board of directors of the Minnesota State High School League will have four new members serving the 516 school membership during the 1980-81 school year.

Beginning service August 1 on the 16-member governing body will be Richard Froiland, Hendricks; Richard Baker, Fergus Falls; Paula Bauck, Moorhead; and Karen Howe, Forest Lake.

Froiland and Baker, superintendents of schools, will serve four-year terms. Representing Regions 3A and 4A, Froiland replaces Verdie Ellingson, superintendent of schools at Glencoe, who has served on the board the past four years and who is the past president of the league. Baker, meantime, will serve Regions 7AA and 8AA. He replaces Ed Eggers, superintendent of schools at Hibbing, who served on the board for four years and who was president during the 1978-79 school year.

Bauck and Howe will serve two-year terms. Bauck, girls athletic coordinator at Moorhead high school, is the new activity representative for girls sports on the board. She replaces Dorothy Darling, Rochester-John Marshall, who served on the league's board during the period 1976-1980. Howe, speech director at Forest Lake, is the new activity representative for speech on the board. She replaces Tom Stolen, Duluth Denfeld, who completed a two-year term.

The board is responsible for administering state tournaments and meets, interpretation of rules, enforcement of rules, establishment and operation of the league office, issuing of publications and the hiring of the executive staff.

Meetings of the board are held eight times during the school year to consider management of programs, finances of the League, eligibility cases, and all other matters which constitute issues of interest and importance to the 516 member high schools throughout Minnesota.

Business Name Filing Fee Is Reduced

Effective August 1 the filing fee for assumed business names has been lowered from $20 to $12 by an auction of the 1980 Minnesota legislature.

If a business is operating under an assumed name, it must have that name on file in the office of the secretary of state. Once a neme is filed it is good for a period of 10 years, unless the name or address of the business — or its owners — change, in which case an amentment must be filed.

The fee, which was set by the 1978 legislature, was "just too high", said Joan Growe, secretary of state. "We recommended that the fee be lowered because we were taking in more revenue than was necessary to process the filings."

All fees received by the secretary of state go directly into the state's general operating fund.

Amber Graves Of Grain

We believe the following poem, published by the Register and Tribune syndicate, is destined to become a classic among those who believe the spread of urbanism has reached epidemic proportions and protection is needed in greater degree for remaining open space:

"The first man to fence in a piece of land, saying "This is mine," and who found people simple enough to believe him, was the real founder of civil society."

Rousseau, 1754.

When cavemen first by greed were led
To bop their neighbors on the head,
I have no doubt the good men said,
"This land belongs to me."
With sticks and stones they staked their claim,
And then, of course, they used the same
To punish those whose monostrous blame
Was lacking wit to see
That every inch of fertile plain
Was preordained for private gain —
And that is why our laws disdain
A rule that ought to be.

The land is by God's grace designed
To feed and shelter all mankind,
And yet within our laws we find
This sadly sacred oath:
That owners of the land can sell
Its future output to the swell
Of sudden gain as dale and knell
Become the prey of growth.

When Roman legions scourged the Earth
With salt, they left an awesome dearth
No worse than that brought by a birth
Our simple nations cheers:
By creeds and laws we now allow,
The fertile land beneath the plow
In Florida will wholly bow
To growth in twenty years;
This is a sad and solemn fate,
But what is worse to contemplate
Is that our citrus-growing state,
Has far too many peers.

From old New Hampshire to the shore
Of Washington, the golden lore
Of growth now takes it sullen score
From lands we ought to save.
Each year we breathe, the facts attest
One million acres of our best
Is slaughtered for its final rest
Beneath a concrete grave.

Behold the sprawling shopping mall
That shrouds a hidden, secret pall—
A field that cannot heed the call
That's made by sun and rain;
Behold the suburbs and their yield:
Beneath each web of streets is sealed
The coffin of a fertile field,
The grave of unborn grain.
Each house that claims its private lot
Is certain proof of what is not;
Like gravestones all, plot after plot,
They mark our nation's wane.

By trends and laws that we condone,
Great fields of cement seeds are sown,
And by a truth we can't disown,
Our fate if filled with sorrow:
From sea to vast suburban sea,
The somber graves of grain will be
An all-too concrete proof that we Lacked caring for tomorrow.

As sure as flesh to dust returns,
The land owns us, and he who spurns
This fact to cant his own concerns
Does worse than rob his neighbor:
He robs the children of us all,
Who will, in time, endure the pall
Of insufficient fields to stall
The starving from the saber.
A caveman's law must be repealed,
For by the right the starving wield,
Our threatened lands always yield
Their bounty for our labor.

By all that's fine and good, we must
Impost upon our land a trust
That will protect us from a lust
That could sonsume us all:
We must improve our zoning laws
Until by might of sacred cause
Our land is grasped from out the jaws
Of unchecked growth and gall.

Now The Earth

Following editorial is from the St. Paul Dispatch:

There may be controversy over the cult practices of the Moonies — members of Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church — but there can be no question about their financial successes. Those dimes, quarters and dollars begged on street corners and in airport corridors have been parlayed into vast holdings. Real estate in Florida and Manhattan and elsewhere, fast food restaurants, hotels, mansions for Moon. And now, seafood.

The Moonies have almost literally bracketed the continent with their fish-packing operation, International Seafoods, Inc. (financed by One Up, Inc., out of the Uni-World Sea Enterprises, by Unification Church International). This outfit recently has purchased processing plants in Gloucester, Mass., and Kodiak, Ak., arousing fears and resentment in both places. The fears can hardly have been allayed by what the president of One Up, Inc., told a reporter. Gloucester, he said, "is only a small piece in the jigsaw puzzle. We really want to control the whole world. I'd like to do it less than 10 years."

Who said beggars can't be choosers?

Inside Out Argument

News Item: "The League of Women Voters of Minnesota says it will join the Minnesota AFL-CIO and other groups in a coalition opposed to the initiative and referendum plan endorsed by Gov. Al Quie.

"The League said Monday that a system of using petitions to write or repeal laws would undermine the work of the Minnesota Legislature and give too much power to well-financed special interest groups."

That makes for an unusual alliance based on an argument which must be considered inside out.

In the first place, wouldn't and shouldn't it be harder to sell special interest legislation to the statewide populace than to a small, select group concentrated for a legislative session in St. Paul?

In the second place, name a couple of special interest groups which are better financed than the AFL-CIO. When have you seen that organization concerned about having too much power?

In the third place, referendum gives the people the power of an eraser. If laws passed under the initiative portion of the law would prove to be bad legislation, they could be canceled out in a year or two. How willing are most legislatures to admit they made a mistake in lawmaking and how often are existing laws repealed?

Initiative and referendum is one of five measures on which the public will vote in the November 4 general election.

Initiative is a method under which any group of citizens can propose a new law. It will take about 79,000 signatures on petitions to put a measure on the ballot if the new plan is approved.

Referendum is a process, also using petitions, under which an existing law can be reviewed by voters. If they reject the law, it is no longer the law.

Polls indicate that a majority of Minnesotans approve of initiative and referendum. We would like to see the law also include recall — whereby a legislator not doing his job as a representative of his constituency could be replaced without waiting for his or her term to exprie.

We also feel that if the truth be known, the AFL-CIO is not so concerned about "too much power to well-financed special interest groups" as it is about erosion of its own political power base. The unions have helped to elect a lot of legislators and expect those lawmakers to follow the union line. How do you establish a power base with the entire diverse Minnesota population?

What makes the AFL-CIO nervous? Take right-to-work laws for example. Polls have shown the majority of Minnesotans believe in the right of the individual to work without joining or paying fees to a union. Legislators have seen fit to keep Minnesota a closed shop state. If the people are permitted to over-rule the legislature, the unions could find themselves without that automatic source of income.

This is only one possibility that makes the AFL-CIO and others as nervous as the proverbial long-tailed cat in a room full of rocking chairs.

Proponents of initiative and referendum use the same argument for its passage as opponents use for its defeat. All you have to decide for yourselves is where it is likely well-financed special interest groups can have more influence — the state legislature or the state of Minnesota. It shouldn't take you too long to come up with an answer.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Weatherman: "What is the likelihood of my recovery, doctor?"

Doctor: "You have a 40 per cent chance tonight, increasing to 60 per cent by tomorrow and 70 per cent tomorrow night."

TIRED YET HUNGRY seemed to be the two thoughts on the mind of this young shopper who appeared unbothered by the warm sun and crowded streets throughout the afternoon Thursday during Crazy Days in Thief River Falls.

A TOUGH DECISION was evident in the faces of these children Thursday during the Crazy Day events conducted throughout the day. The ice cream cone appeared to be quite appealing but so did the tiny stuffed animals marked at half-price.

As third place winner, Loretta was the recipient of $25. Mr. Duane's was also the store winner in the contest for its county fair theme illustrated through the employees' costumes.

THIEF RIVER FALLS

GONVICK CATCHER Chad Bergerson had the ball in his glove, but Thief River Falls base runner Tom Drury was able to slide under the tag in the fourth inning of Thursday's opening round Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament game played at Red Lake Falls. Drury scored from second base on the play when batter Scott McKeever bounced a single over the head of third basemen Scott Bakke. Umpire Gary Schuler watched the play at the plate. Thief River Falls won the game 9-1.

IN ANTICIPATION of the expected Thief River Falls Rotary club victory over the Thief River Falls Lions club in the annual golf classic between the two service organizations to be held later today, the winners' trophy was presented this morning. Mark Larson (right, chairman of the event for the sponsoring Rotary club, makes the presentation to Chris Twomey, vice president of Rotary. Larson explained that it was he who developed the unique and complex scoring system used to determine a victor in the match, stating that the system was hoped to "make the Lions at least appear competitive." Larson said that Rotary, is, after all, a charitable organization, and the membership would none-the-less like it to appear that "the Lions had done well considering the amount of talent they had to work with".

Ninth District American Legion Baseball Tournament . . .

First Round Draw Benefits TRF

At the time it was an ego-bruising defeat. But Thief River Falls' 3-1 loss to East Grand Forks in the Sub District 4 finals might have been a blessing in disguise for coach Nick Drees' American Legion baseball team, because while the regular season Northwest League champions were losing to second-seeded East Grand Forks, Gonvick was upsetting Fertile 9-1 in the Sub District 3 finals, creating a Thief River Falls vs. Gonvick and East Grand Forks vs. Fertile first round draw Thursday in the Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament at Red Lake Falls.

It couldn't have worked out any better for Thief River Falls fans, who saw their club take apart Gonvick 9-1 while Fertile was drilling East Grand Forks 11-1 to start the four-day, double-elimination, state tournament-qualifying tournament. And at the same time, Detroit Lakes, expected to be a top title contender, dropped a 7-0 decision to Frazee and Breckenridge knocked off the Moorhead Golds 4-1.

Thief River Falls had its offense in gear Thursday in an 11-hit attack that featured home runs by Mark Schmitke, Jim Nyland and Jeff Ulrich.

Two errors and an RBI single by Kevin Fischer gave Gonvick a brief 1-0 lead in the top of the first inning.

Thief River Falls came back with three runs in the bottom of the inning when Scott McKeever led off with a ground-rule double; Ulrich dropped an RBI pop fly single into left field, gaining an extra base on an error on the play; Dave Odegaard laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt to move Ulrich to third; and Nyland singled through the left side for a run.

It became 6-1 in the third on the strength of Nyland's 320-foot three-run home run over the left field fence. Odegaard, who had beaten out an infield single, and Schmitke, who had walked, were on base when Nyland homered.

Thief River Falls added single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings. Tom Drury bounced a single into left field in the fourth, stole second and slid under the tag of Gonvick catcher Chad Bergerson to score on McKeever's bouncer over the head of third baseman Boyd Ness.

Schmitke led off the fifth with a 310-foot home run to left field and Ulrich hit a two-out solo shot over the left-center field fence in the sixth.

Kelly Gutterud, meanwhile, limited Gonvick to four singles to pick up the pitching decision, walking three and striking out five.

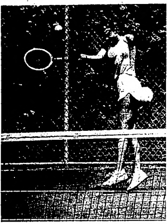
GEORGINE TROSKA HIT a two-run first inning home run and then accepted congratulations from her Ekeren Drug teammates as she walked back to the bench area during Wednesday's first place Division I showdown with the St. Hilaire Saints in the Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league. Ekeren Drug posted a 10-9 win to gain a first place tie with the Saints heading into tonight's (Monday) final round of regular season league games.



KEEPING AN EYE on the ball is tough enough in itself, but watching two of them is impossible. Just as Julie Easton hit this forehand return in the women's 21 and over championship match Sunday, a ball from an adjoining court got into the act. Easton won the title over Devera Warcup of Grand Forks.

Creates First Place Tie In Division I . . .

Ekeren Drug 10-9 Winner Over St. Hilaire Saints

Ekeren Drug built a 10-5 lead and held on to defeat the St. Hilaire Saints 10-9 Wednesday in a match-up of the top two Division I teams in the Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league.

The victory enabled Ekeren Drug to gain a first place tie with the Saints, the season-long Division I leaders. Both teams close out their regular season schedules tonight (Monday) when Ekeren Drug plays Pizza Hut and the St. Hilaire Saints tackle the American Legion.

A pair of two-run home runs by Georgine Troska and Becky King helped provide Ekeren Drug with that five-run cushion through four innings Wednesday. But a three-run home run by the Saints' Stephanie Nelson closed the gap before the game was called after six innings because of the league's time-limit rule.

The outcome reversed a 6-5 Saints win over Ekeren Drug back on June 9.

Elsewhere Wednesday, Carla Reed pitched a shutout and hit a triple as Division II champion Dwight's Hartz drilled Hydra-Mac 13-0.

Home runs by Jodi Helt and Sandy Rude, along with a triple by Arlene Walseth, helped Walseth Construction defeat The Barbers 20-6.

A bases-loaded triple by Cindy Bruggeman, along with home runs by Karen Sparby and Laurie Waterworth, sparked Roseau Transport past the American Legion 12-7.

Laurie Bottem and Linda Rux were both 3-for-4 as Northern Employers Agency knocked off the Mush-a-Rettes 11-2.

Pizza Hut out-scored the Ridge Runners 15-10, Schmidt Stealers took care of Credit Bureau 22-12 and the Health Hustlers handled Great Northwest Agency 16-6.

Post-season playoff activity will be staged Sunday — a pair of eight-team tournaments to crown a Division I and Division II champion at the slow pitch softball complex on highway 1, east of Thief River Falls. It'll be single elimination competition, with a consolation bracket. The league's awards banquet will be held Tuesday, Aug. 12, at the Elks club, with a social hour planned from 5:30-6:30 p.m. and dinner set for 6:30.

TRF Loses Two In Jr. Legion Tournament

Two cliff-hangers resulted in elimination of the Thief River Falls American Legion junior baseball team from the Ninth District tournament held during the weekend at Red Lake Falls.

Thief River Falls lost to Breckenridge 3-2 at 6:30 p.m. Saturday and to Detroit Lakes Sunday afternoon 4-3 to be erased from the double-elimination tournament.

Breckenridge and Detroit Lakes will meet for the championship tonight at 7 p.m. at Red Lake Falls. The Detroit Lakes team rebounded from a loss to Frazee to edge Thief River Falls and hand Breckenridge its first loss of the tournament Sunday night. Breckenridge had eliminated Frazee in another Saturday game.

Jeff Ulrich was the losing pitcher in going the distance against Breckenridge Saturday. Wayne Huseth pitched the first five innings and Kelly Gutterud the last two against Detroit Lakes Sunday.

Further details on the tournament will be in Wednesday's edition of the Times.

Jeff Lindquist Is Named RLF Hockey Coach

Jeff Lindquist, a 1976 Lincoln high school graduate, has been selected as the new head hockey coach at Layfette high school in Red Lake Falls.

A Concordia college graduate who served as an assistant hockey coach at Fargo Shanley last winter, Lindquist will succeed another Thief River Falls product, Pete Sullivan, who resigned recently to accept a teaching position in Bemidji.

Lindquist, who played football, hockey and baseball for the Prowlers, will also inherit Sullivan's football assistant position at Red Lake Falls.

A STOLEN BASE attempt in the first inning by Kevin Fischer found the Gonvick base runner quickly turning and looking for the sign from umpire West Knutson, who ruled that Thief River Falls second baseman Tom Drury had applied the tag in time for the inning-ending out during Thursday's opening round game in the Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament at Red Lake Falls. Shortstop Scott McKeever watched the play as catcher Jim Nyland threw out Fischer, who had singled to drive in Gonvick's only run in a 9-1 loss.

Complete Season In Slow Pitch

Furuseth-Nelson, McDonald's-Dallmann, Consumer's Co-op and Schumacher's Tireland emerged as pennant winners as the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association closed out its 1980 regular season schedule with games Wednesday and Thursday.

Closing the year with nine straight wins and winning 11 of their last 12 starts, Furuseth-Nelson locked up the American League East Division pennant Wednesday with a 12-2 romp over Tony Dorn, Inc. The TRF Merchants matched the 15-7 Furuseth-Nelson record, but the title was decided upon regular season results between the two and Furuseth-Nelson took both meetings, 8-6 back on June 12 and 9-7 just last week.

McDonald's - Dallmann, having clinched the American League West Division title earlier in the week, finished with a 16-5 Wednesday night win over Arnold Realty.

Already assured of the National League East Division crown, Consumer's Co-op picked up a 7-0 forfeit decision over Sparby-Johnson Thursday.

Schumacher's Tireland won the National League West Division title Thursday with an 18-7 pounding of First Federal. First Northwestern Insurance Agency matched the 17-5 record by the champs, but in head-to-head competition, Schumacher's Tireland came out a 12-9 winner on May 21 and triumphed 17-7 on June 20.

That tie-breaking procedure also gave Swenson Plumbing second place over the American Legion Raiders in the American League West Division and gave Great Northwest Agency second place over The Club in the National League East Division.

Swenson Plumbing gained second place by closing with a 9-0 win over Home Lumber Wednesday, while Hobo Haus edged Coca-Cola 7-5, the American Legion Raiders topped the St. Hilaire Bears 11-9 and Wagon Wheel beat Phase II 12-4.

Great Northwest Agency was a 17-7 winner over Sound Level-Holthusen Thursday for its second place finish, while IWA handled Dallmann Athletic 10-1, Wilson Brothers ripped the TRF Aggies 16-6, The Club shut out E.T.'s Bees 2-0, Coca-Cola out-scored Arnold Realty 21-20 on Al Buhl's two-run single in the top of the ninth inning and both Tony Dorn, Inc. and Phase II were charged with forfeit losses in a game where neither team managed to muster the required nine players.

In addition to the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association playoffs, scheduled to start this week, 16 of the 32 Thief River Falls teams will be competing in the 1980 District 7 state tournament-qualifying tournaments.

Going to Detroit Lakes for the Class B District 7 tournament August 9-10 will be McDonald's - Dallmann, Swenson Plumbing, American Legion Raiders, Furuseth-Nelson, TRF Merchants, Hobo Haus, Wagon Wheel and Tony Dorn, Inc.

Playing in the August 15-17 Class C District 7 tournament at Crookston will be the St. Hilaire Bears, Schumacher's Tireland, First Northwestern Insurance Agency, Consumer's Co-op, Coca-Cola, First Federal, Hardees and Great Northwest Agency.

Playoffs To Start Tuesday . . .

Coca-Cola Wins Pennant In Fast Pitch Softball

Coca-Cola wrapped up the 1980 men's fast pitch softball league title with a 9-0 blanking of Schmidt's Thursday.

Coke got the only runs they needed in the top of the first inning as Roger Cota led off with a double to left center and eventually scored on a wild pitch. Rob Almquist walked and Mike Drury got on base via an error. Paul Walker drilled a single to right to score two runs for a 3-0 Coca-Cola lead.

Coke added another three runs in the fourth after two were out when Almquist singled, Gordie Peterson doubled, and Drury and Walker singled.

But Schmidt's could only come up with single base runners in the first, second, third, fourth and sixth as Tony Johnson hurled the three-hit shut-out.

The bottom of the Schmidt's batting order came through in grand fashion with six hits and all eight RBI's as Schmidt's shaded Melvies 9-6 Friday.

Melvies got on the scoreboard first in the top of the first inning as Rick Kofstad reached on a fielder's choice and scored on Karl Chromy's two bagger to left. Schmidt's waited until the bottom of the second and then loaded the bases for Don Foss. Foss responded with a double and a 3-1 Schmidt's lead. Melvies narrows the margin to 3-2 with Chromy's single and Darwin Nelson's triple in the top of the third.

But Schmidt's picked up a run in the bottom of the inning before giving Foss a chance with two men on base. Foss hit a homer for three runs and a 7-2 lead. Melvies added single tallies in the fifth and seventh and pushed two runs across in the sixth and Schmidts added two more to their total in the fourth.

Again in the second game the bottom of the batting order hurt Melvies as the last four Northland Pro hitters combined for six hits and all the RBI's.

The game was scoreless until the bottom of the third when Erv Melvie tripled to center with one out and scored on an error. Northland took a 3-1 lead in the fourth on a couple of singles, a sacrifice, and a pair of errors. Northland added three runs in the fifth when Tim Engelstad doubled, Mitch Dicken walked, and consecutive singles by Ricky Ammerman, Joel Carlson and Don Balmer plated the runs.

Northland added two more in the seventh while Melvies could only answer with single runs in the sixth and seventh.

Since such a contest has developed for various batting titles, it has been decided to have a doubleheader involving Action Realty and Melvies plus Action Realty and Coca-Cola on Monday, August 4.

Mike Drury leads the league in hitting with a .447 average. Wayne Smith is next at .432 and Karl Chromy put on a hitting surge Friday night to raise his average to .405. Smith is tied for the league lead in HR's and RBI's. Del Ray Beito shares the home run lead with Smith and this could be resolved in game one on Monday. Jeff Hendrickson and Smith are three RBI's ahead of Gordie Peterson and Paul Walker from Coca-Cola so it is possible that either of the last three could win it as Hendrickson is done for the year.

Hopefully, the playoffs will start Tuesday night with the number two team meeting the number five team (Melvies) and the number three team vs. Schmidt's. Coca-Cola gets the bye. This doubleheader on Monday could also decide the pairings for Tuesday.

ANOTHER TROPHY walleye from the Red Lake river is the nine and one-half pound lunker displayed by Duane Miller of Thief River Falls. Miller caught the fish below the dam near the power plant in Thief River Falls last Sunday afternoon while fishing with night crawlers.

Historic Low Is Noted In Rate Of Saving

For the past few years, Americans have saved less and less money. The rate of saving in this country, as a percentage of income, is lower than in any other western industrialized nation. It is, in fact, at an historic low.

Economists agree that this is bad for our economic health. It means that there is less money available for investment, less available for home building, resulting in a ripple effect for supply industries.

Returning Americans to a savings orientation will not be easy. But there is something that can help. That is a way to save at work, without effort, and with good return — the payroll savings plan for U.S. savings bonds.

Payroll savings makes saving easy because it makes it automatic. Allotments of a chosen size are taken from each paycheck and applied toward the purchase of Series EE bonds. Each time the purchase price of a Bond is reached, it is issued and begins earning interest. The savor does no work.

Since the early 1940's, when the payroll savings plan first come into wide use, millions of Americans have used it to build a nest egg for themselves and their families. Those nest eggs were used for many purposes, from buying homes to vacations and retirement. In the process, many savings habits were born and flourished in banks and savings and loans, thereby adding to everyone's economic well-being.

There are now some 40,000 work places where the payroll savings plan is offered. At each one, savers are creating or adding to savings nest eggs. At each one, savers are materially helping themselves and their country, too. As it has for four decades, the payroll savings plan continues to provide more savings for more savers.

A WIDE THROW to first base sailed by the out-stretched glove of St. Hilaire Saints first baseman Patsy Huot as Ekeren Drug base runner Laura Larson crossed the bag in the first inning of Wednesday's Division I Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league game played on the fairgrounds diamond. Ekeren Drug first base coach Mindy Green watched the play. Ekeren Drug created a first place tie in Division I by beating the Saints 10-9.

A FOUR-RUN fourth inning for Ekeren Drug Wednesday against the St. Hilaire Saints included this slide by Georgine Troska, who came across home plate head of the tag by Saints catcher Christy Thompson. Troska, who had tagged up and advanced from second to third on a fly ball to left field, then came home when the throw slipped away from the Saints' infielder. Ekeren Drug won the game 10-9 to gain a first place tie in Division I — with the Saints.

Former TRF Man Assists Company In Kuala Lumpur

(Editor's Note: Grant A. Mickelson, a former resident of Thief River Falls and known along with his brothers to many local people, was featured recently in a publication of Union Oil company, which he served as a chemist for many years. The story concerning his activity following retirement in 1978 follows.)

The two places are as poles apart from each other as it is possible. One is a noisy, lusty, tropical city of insufferable traffic with all the charms and mystery of the Orient. The other is a small, quiet, clean neighborhood in southern California's Orange county that exemplified typical American middle class living.

But for Dr. Grant A. Mickelson, a retured Union Oil chemist, there is a bond between those two places, Yorba Linda in California and Kuala Lumpur in Malaysia, for it was in that Far East city that Dr. Mickelson traveled recently to complete an overseas assignment for the International Executive Service Corps (IESC).

The IESC is a non-profit corporation which arranges for retired — and sometimes mid-career — executives to share their managerial know-how with business in the developing nations of the Third World.

"When I retired from Union Oil's Science and Technology Division's research center in 1978, I was introduced to the program by friends," says Mickelson, sitting in his comfortable living room. "I found out that Union Oil, like many corporations, contributes financially to the program which also receives some government support. I liked what I saw and decided to join."

The IESC has received grants from the Union Oil Foundation since 1967.

Organized in 1964 by a group of American businessmen, the IESC volunteers have completed over 7,000 projects in 65 countries since its inception.

Volunteers have served in Latin America, Europe, Africa and Asia where they have given their advice to locally owned firms of almost every description. Among the industries where they have contributed are food production, health care, textile and apparel manufacture, investment and banking practices, construction methods, transportation systems, industrial processes, merchandising and marketing programs, mining and natural resource development, government and educational services, communications and tourist facilities.

Dr. Mickelson, who was a supervisor of the catalyst research group at Union's Research Center, was offered the opportunity to travel to Malaysia to work on a feasibility study for the Matrix Company of Kuala Lumpur.

"This company is involved in the manufacture of food flavors and fragrances," Dr. Mickelson adds. "In addition, Matrix is also involved in the development of machinery for the refining of palm oil, which is the principal vegetable oil used for the manufacture of soaps, margarines and frying oils. My assignment was to study the feasibility of a Matrix-owned program to manufacture bleaching earth which is a bentonite clay derived from volcanic ash and which absorbs coloring and impurities in oils."

An advantage of having someone like Dr. Mickelson working on a project such as this one is the fact that at one time he worked with bleaching earth in the petroleum industry.

"Bentonite clay was used extensively before the modern methods of hydro desulfurization were introduced in the petroleum businesses," he adds.

In addition Dr. Mickelson had some experience in the Orient, since he was part of a Union Oil consulting team that traveled to the People's Republic of China the year before his retirement. "In Beijing we advised the representatives of the Chinese petroleum industry on the uses of catalysts," Dr. Mickelson explains.

"Although I hadn't worked on the bleaching process for oils in years, I found the Malaysian assignment to present quite a challenge. So on December 20 last year my wife Susan and I traveled to Kuala Lumpur.

"At first I was unfamiliar with the problem," he adds, "but I soon discovered that palm oil is extracted from a date-like nut which is very common in the Malaysian peninsula. It is very orange in color and thus any oil which is derived from it will retain some of the color. So one of the steps in the manufacture of palm oil is the bleaching process. And that's what I was there to find — an economic method of making bleaching earth from Malaysian soil."

Once there, Dr. Mickelson was the guest of Dr. Tang Chee Hong, a Malay of Chinese extraction who is the president of Matrix, the company which needed Dr. Mickelson's expertise.

Like other IESC volunteers, Dr. Mickelson received no salary for his work. The host company contributes part of their expenses and the rest are provided by the IESC.

During his six-week tenure, Dr. Mickelson spent a great deal of time explaining the suitability of the materials to Matrix personnel. In addition, he found that spending Christmas in Malaysia was "quite different."

Now that my study is finished," he continues, "they have an idea of what materials and machinery they needed in order to make their own bleaching sand. A geologist is currently at work in finding a source for bentonite clay and, hopefully, I will return when they decide to go ahead with the project."

It's obvious that Dr. Mickelson enjoyed his experience in the Orient. He found the Malaysians to be an extremely hard working people who adhere to a six-day work week, but who are also "extremely gracious hosts."

He is one of the many executives who the IESC considers an untapped resource for talent to help industry in underdeveloped countries.

Seek Heart Attack Victims For Research

Volunteers are urgently needed to help combat America's number one killer, atherosclerosis. This disease is considered primarily responsible for heart attacks, strokes and related fatal diseases that account annually for some one million deaths or 53 per cent of all deaths in the United States.

The national heart, lung and blood institute is conducting a program at three participating medical institutions, including the University of Minnesota, to determine whether lowering blood cholesterol levels will reduce the risk of heart attacks.

The university is seeking persons 28 through 64 years of age, who have had only one heart attack in the past five years. All such persons are asked to call the University of Minnesota hyperlipidemia study collect at 612-376-4494 for more information.

HAZARDOUS DUTY PAY could have been demanded by Clark Hendrickson of the KTRF water fight team Thursday evening as he lost his footing during a tactical retreat and took an untactical tumble. Don Howe moved forward to control the hose nozzle but it was too late as the KKAQ team pressed forward for a victory.

MERCHANDISE AND SHOPPERS seemed to blend in well last Thursday during Crazy Day events conducted throughout the day. As every year at this time, downtown Thief River Falls carried an assortment of items for shoppers who were provided 13 hours of shopping during the special day this year.

RELAXING in the center of activities were these two fellows who made use of some of the display items put outside during Crazy Days in Thief River Falls last Thursday. The two seemed unbothered by the crowds of busy shoppers surrounding them as they sat contentedly in the confines of their own conversation.

COTTON CANDY costume appearing throughout Crazy Days events Thursday in Thief River Falls was worn by Peggy King of Mr. Duane's, who won second place during the Crazy Day costume contest for her costume and who was the recipient of $30. Peggy also received $20 in behalf of Mr. Duane's store which outlined the theme of the county fair during the event.

Senator Asks Lifting Of Grain Embargo

Again calling on the administration to lift the Russian grain embargo, Senator Rudy Boschwitz said today, "The Canadian withdrawal from the embargo leaves the American farmer holding the bag alone and he simply can't afford it.

"The embargo has had virtually no effect on the Russians," Boschwitz said, "but, it has hurt the American farmer and three actions taken in recent weeks will hurt our farmers even more. The Canadian withdrawal from the embargo is the third in a series of moves which will open the Russian Market to other countries further while the door remains closed to the American farmer.

"Less than a month ago," Boschwitz said, "the administration said it would not discourage American grain traders from selling foreign grain to Russia. Following close on the heels of that move, Australia and Aggentina announced new expanded five-year agreements to provide the Russians with wheat. And now the Canadians are saying they will no longer participate in the embargo.

"Our farmers and indeed all of rural America have suffered enough from this ill-considered move," Boschwitz said. "There is no way the American farmer alone can make the embargo effective when it has done nothing to the Russians even with the nominal help of some other nations. The embargo policy has failed and the farmers of our country are not going to enforce it on their own.

"Foreign nations such as Canada, Argentina and Australia will line their pockets with Russian currency at the expense of American farmers who have no place to market their surplus grain supplies," Boschwitz said. "It is time the administration lifts this embargo and Canada has provided them with an opening to do just that. They know America alone can not make the embargo succeed so shy not admit that, lift the embargo and give our farmers and rural America the market they so desperately need."

Job Service Tests Ruled Acceptable

Ruling by a federal district court in Mississippi should encourage employers to use the job applicant testing services offered by the Minnesota job service and other state employment services throughout the United States, a Minnesota department of economic security spokesman says.

Bill Lentz, state testing supervisor for the Minnesota job service, said many of the nation's employers have been reluctant to use the tests because they feared charges of discrimination by blacks and women.

Lentz said the Mississippi case should remove any fears that job service tests are discriminatory or invalid. The Mississippi judge ruled that the tests are fair, properly validated, administered in a proper manner and meet equal employment opportunity commission guidelines. The ruling resulted from a class action suit which charged the tests discriminated against blacks and women.

The testing service is offered free of charge to any employer in the 50 states. Statistics show that the tests have saved some companies thousands of dollars by giving employers an accurate idea of whether applicants would succeed at certain jobs before they were hired or placed in training programs, Lentz said.

A total of 470 tests have been developed by the test research units of the various states, including that of the Minnesota job service. The tests have been validated by research involving workers in hundreds of occupations. Through minimum cutoff scores established by research, employers can get an accurate idea of whether an applicant will succeed on the job.

Cattle, Calves At Same Level As Year Ago

Cattle and calves on Minnesota farms July 1 totaled 3.80 million head, according to the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service. This is the same level as a year ago but one per cent above January 1. The U.S. inventory of 123.2 million head was up four per cent from a year earlier and up one per cent from two years earlier.

Cows and heifers that have calved in the state numbered 1.45 million head, three per cent more than a year ago. Nationally, the total was 50.1 million head, up five per cent from a year ago.

On January 1, there were 752,000 heifers 500 pounds and over that had not calved in the state, three per cent fewer than last year. The U.S. total was one per cent above last year's level.

Steers 500 pounds and over in Minnesota, at 616,000 head, were nine per cent below a year earlier. The nation's total of 16.6 million head was down one per cent.

The 1980 Minnesota calf crop was estimated at 1.40 million head, up from 1.33 million head in 1979. The calf crop for the U.S. is expected to be 45.5 million head, up six per cent from 1979.

Police Cite Assistance In Bike Program

Thief River Falls police department has acknowledged assistance of organizations and individuals in connection with the bicycle safety program for this past year.

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2793 was cited for the donation of reflective tape to the grade schools. This was distributed by safety officer Clifton Mattson of the Minnesota state patrol and juvenile officer James Haugen of the Police department. The VFW also contributed safety reflector kits to each youth who participated in the bike rodeo and for those licensing their bikes. These kits are still available to any with currently licensed bicycles.

The police department also acknowledged the help of the Thief River Falls Jaycees; Explorer Scout post 200; Clifton Mattson, patrol safety officer; Pennington county sheriff's department; and Peggy Hamre, representative of Thief River Falls at the Pedal Power workshop at Nisswa.

Survey Studies No Smoking In Restaurants

A majority of Minnesota restaurants apparently find compliance with the state's new no-smoking regulations easier than expected.

More than 40 per cent of the members of the Minnesota Restaurant and Foodservice association responded to a July survey on how the regulations, which went into effect in mid-April, are working out.

State health department regulations, a part of the Minnesota clean indoor air act, require, among other things, that restaurants reserve 30 per cent of their seating for non-smokers.

Fifty-four per cent of those responding reported that compliance with the regulations has been "easier than expected." Forty per cent said the rules are "difficult" to enforce and six per cent are finding them "impossible" to follow for various reasons such as the physical layout of the restaurant.

Although most say compliance is easier than expected, it appears that the 30 per cent figure for non-smokers may be too high.

Almost one-half — 45 per cent — of the restaurant owners and managers said they never have more non-smokers than seats available for them. Another 45 per cent said they only occasionally or rarely have this seating dilemma. Just 10 per cent said they frequently have more non-smokers than they do seats in their no-smoking area.

On the other hand, 80 per cent at least occasionally find that smokers have to wait for a table even though there are empty seats in the no-smoking section. Only 20 per cent say smokers never have to wait for a table.

"When the health department first proposed this 30 per cent stipulation, we asked what criteria it used in arriving at 30 per cent," states Arnold Hewes, executive vice president of the MR&FA. "It seemed then that it was a purely arbitrary figure and I think our findings show that setting aside 30 per cent of the seating may be too much. Perhaps the health department may wish to review this requirement."

The regulations also require restaurants accepting reservations to ask customers over the phone if they prefer to be seated in the smoking or no-smoking section.

Sixty-seven per cent said that the regulations have not made telephone reservations difficult; 20 per cent find that they are harder to make and 13 per cent said reservations are difficult, but that they're "not as hard as they thought."

Many restaurateurs pointed out that customers are unfamiliar with the no-smoking regulations and said it's time-consuming and confusing to explain them over the phone.

MR&FA members reorted that more than half of their customers neither comment favorably nor unfavorably about the smoking rules. Twenty-seven per cent of the customers seem to dislike the regulations and 22 per cent say they like them.

"In general, there is the feeling among MR&FA members that the regulations aren't really needed," Hewes noted.

MR&FA reprsents and serves all types of dining establishments around the state and is headquartered in St. Paul.

World At Your Door for $8,995 . . .

Earth Station Industry Blossoms At St. Hilaire

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

What can you watch on television these days for $8,995?

If you give that precise amount to Doug Dehnert of St. Hilaire, you can watch anything in the world that is transmitted via the eight active communications satellites now functioning in the earth's orbital belt.

And you can watch an exceptionally sharp picture 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, with an infinate variety of programming available at the turning of a knob from the comfort of your viewing chair.

Doug and his family can do it all the time — when they have the time. For instance, they watched the recently touted boxing match between Sugar Ray Leonard and Roberto Durand live while it was being telecast on closed circuit to theaters and auditoriums around the country.

Last Sunday Mrs. Dehnert watched 18 of the major league baseball teams play in nine different games. The Dehnert system can pick up the "Tonight Show" feed enroute from California to New York before it has been edited and commercials added.

If they miss a movie or program they would like to see on Home Box Office during its east coast transmission, they can pick up the same movie or show on west coast transmission three hours later. On any given weekend they can find as many as 35 to 50 channels of television active, virtually all with sharp, clear, bright picture and excellent audio reception.

The Dehnerts accomplish these feats with the use of their TVRO (Television Receive Only), more commonly known as an "earth station". It consists of a parabolic reflector (dish-shaped antenna 12 feet in diameter), low noise amplifier, coaxial cable connection to a receiver inside the house and use of a modulator to make the satellite signal viewable on any standard television set.

The exact system used in the Dehnert home is what is being marketed by Doug's Inc., for home use anywhere nationally. Dehnert formed Doug's Inc. this year to manufacture the earth stations. He has spent countless hours in development of the system, including designing and building the forms to mold the fiberglass parabolic reflector. This molding is done in a rented shop about a mile and one-half southwest of St. Hilaire, utilizing family members and part-time workers to produce one and one-half reflectors a day.

Dehnert's present goal is to install 50 systems by the end of 1980, a goal which he now believes might be difficult to reach because of short supply of quality receivers. He expects to increase that number to 200 systems installed in 1981 and 350 in 1982 and believes

DOUG DEHNERT of St. Hilaire stands by the 12-foot reflector which is placed in his yard as part of his TVRO earth station. The disc and low noise amplifier permit him to receive microwave signals from eight orbiting communications satellites and carry them to a receiver and modulator in his home by coaxial cable.

PARABOLIC REFLECTORS which are formed from fiberglass in the farm shop rented by Doug's Inc., were designed by Doug Dehnert for his earth station satellite receiving system. The 12-foot diameter discs are made in two sections for easier shipment with current production at a disc and a half per day.

Pork Producers Plan Pig Show, Sale And Skirmish

Events schedule and rules for the feeder pig show and sale have been announced for the Northern Minnesota Pork Producers association feeder pig show and sale to be held Sunday, August 17, at the county fairgrounds in Thief River Falls. More than $1,500 in prizes are being offered in the pig show and the entertaining hog wrestle to be held at 7 p.m.

"The hog wrestle is something new for Thief River Falls," stated Ken Stalboerger, general chairman of the feeder pig show and sale. "It will match four-member teams (men and women compete in separate divisions; and a 220-pound hog against the clock in a muddy pen. Winning team will be the one to capture the hog and deposit it in a barrel in the center of the pen in the shortest time span."

As incentive for competitors to climb into the muddy pen and match wits and strength with the 220-pound porkers, cash prizes of $150 for first place, $100 for second place and $50 for third place will be offered in both men's and women's divisions.

"There will be a lot of pride at stake," Stalboerger grinned, "for both the contestants and the hogs! Nobody expects to be out-smarted by a pig, and no pig wants to be picked up and put in a barrel. Pigs are considered by people familiar with animal behavior to be among the most intelligent of animals."

An admission charge will be made to watch the hog wrestle at 7 p.m. It will follow a pork barbecue to be served beginning at 4:30 p.m., also at the fairgrounds. The feeder pig show and sale begins at 1 p.m. and a trade show will take place in the sports arena from noon to 6 p.m.

Feeder pig producers will be allowed to compete in three classes of competition for judging — heavyweight, lightweight and gilt. Prizes of $50 for first place, $25 for second, $15 for third and $10 for fourth will be awarded in each class.

Heavyweight class will consist of six barrows and-or gilts weighing an average of 50 to 60 pounds. Lightweight class will consist of six barrows and-or gilts from 40 to 50 pound weight average. Gilt class will consist of three gilts from 40 to 60 pounds which may be selected from heavyweight or lightweight class.

"We hope this show and sale will be the start of something big for pork producers throughout the area," stated Bob Fincher, president of the sponsoring Northern Minnesota Pork producers. "Our organization is new but we expect it to grow and we would like to continue on an annual basis the feeder pig show and sale started this year."

NEARLY 40 PERSONS attended the adjourned regular city council meeting last evening to hear council's decision on the planning commission's recommendation to deny rezoning of a parcel of land in the southeast section of the city for subsidized family housing. By a unanimous council decision, the issue was tabled for further discussion. Pictured far left is Seth W. Twichell, architect for the project from Fargo; center is Kent Haugen, management representative with Midland Management Inc., of Fargo; and far right, Jack Quinlivan, city planner from Thief River Falls.

Following Lengthy Discussion . . .

City Tables Subsidized Housing Unit Question

Nearly 40 persons attended the adjourned regular city council meeting last evening to hear council's decision on the planning commission's recommendation to deny the rezoning of a parcel of land south of Greenwood street and directly south of Alice Drive (southeast section of the city between Southern Addition and Allwood Acres Addition).

And, following nearly two and one-half hours of discussion, those 40 persons left the meeting with no decision reached by council on the issue.

Planning commission had denied the rezoning due to the incompletion of Greenwood street, because of neighborhood opposition, and because of the manner in which the state approached the development of the project.

Opening statement was presented by Mayor Bob Carlson who explained that the purpose of the meeting was to give all members of the council the opportunity to partake in a discussion with the developer of the project (Seth Twichell and Associates of Fargo) and for the developer to present the project to those present as the information was presented at a July 21 hearing.

Major portion of the meeting concerned the request by Seth Twichell and Associates to rezone the above described parcel of land from agricultural to R-2 with a special use permit.

Those members present to discuss the project, display the site plans for the project, and discuss the management and philosophy connected with the project included, Seth W. Twichell, architect, David Bitz, urban designer-architect, Pat Zavoral, planning consultant to Crookston Diocese, Steve Martens, architectural designer, Ken Haugen, management representative, and Dennis Shurman, attorney.

Reasons as to why this particular parcel of land was selected by the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency for the construction of 40 units of subsidized family housing were brought before council members and the audience by Twichell and Bitz.

"The site is in the city limits, it is adjacent to a paved street, it presently has compatible zoning, is next to schools, and has water and sewer services available," Twichell stated. "We are asking for the land to be zoned R-2 with a special use permit because we feel we can do a better job with the project than if the land is zoned R-2 (medium residential)."

"The special use permit would allow townhouses instead of duplexes," he continued. "We feel this would be a better project with four, six, or eight plexes. We estimate that we can put $2,000 to $3,000 more into each unit with the special use permit besides improving the quality of construction of the structures."

Adding to this list of criteria presented by Twichell were those items listed by Bitz as to why the particular site was selected.

"The area is in the center of employment and is near a hospital and parks," he said.

J. Sandstrom Accepts C of C Position Here

Appointment was confirmed last evening during a special board meeting of Jerry Sandstrom's position as executive secretary of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce replacing Norm Cruse, who has accepted a similar position in Iowa.

Sandstrom, a native of North Dakota, has been assistant executive vice president of the greater Grand Forks chamber of commerce for the past four years. Before that time, he was employed for 10 years with the American Automobile Association.

"Working with the chamber began a whole new career," he stated in a telephone interview this morning. "It is interesting and challenging."

Sandstrom, along with his wife Mavis, and their two children, Steward, who will be a sophomore this year, and Rochelle who will be in seventh grade, will be moving to Thief River Falls hopefully in time to enroll the children in school in Thief River Falls, he stated.

"I have made that commitment with my family," he said. "And much of our moving depends upon the housing situation."

The primary reason for accepting the position, according to Sandstrom, is because of the people he has met in Thief River Falls. "People give and they take and they are open for discussion. The town is progressive. Without those things I wouldn't have decided to accept the board's decision.

Fortman, Olson Win Aquacade Treasure Hunt

The two winners in the Thief River Falls 36th annual Jaycee treasure hunt this year were Tim Fortman of Hillsboro, ND who found the $100 treasure, and Clara Olson and her daughter of Thief River Falls who were the finders of the $50 treasure.

The first treasure, which was placed in a concrete barrier in the parking lot behind the law enforcement center, was found accidentally by Fortman, a construction worker in Thief River Falls. The $50 treasure was found last Saturday at the new Oakland public park on a bike trail between two trees.

Don Grabanski, chairman of the treasure hunt contest, would like to thank everyone for their cooperation in the contest and for making this years' hunt the biggest so far. Another treasure hunt is scheduled again for next year during the 37th annual Jaycee Aquacade.

Man Charged, Recover Items After Theft

Carlyle Olson, 23, Thief River Falls, has been charged with theft of over $150 in value (felony) following police department investigation of the theft of a stereo, speakers and color television set valued at $875.

Buddy Burke of 103 Cottonwood in Thief River Falls had reported the loss of the Panasonic stereo and Magnavox color television set to the local law enforcement center last week.

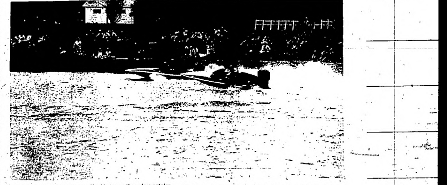
On July 31 police officers checked a vehicle parked on the grass in front of Cottonwood apartments and noted that a Magnavox television set and Panasonic tape player were in the vehicle. At the time they were not aware that any such items had been reported as stolen.

Later investigation found the items to be the ones stolen and they were recovered. Olson, who was released on his own recognizance pending court appearance, was Burke's roommate.

Receive Bids For Surfacing In Oklee Area

Duininck Bros. and Gilchrist of Prinsburg submitted the apparent low bid of $798,617 for bituminous surfacing and gravel shoulders on 20.8 miles of highway 92 between the highway 59 junction at Brooks and 1.7 miles east of Trail, and on highway 222 at Oklee.

Work on the project is expected to begin August 25 and be completed within 40 working days. Bids were received recently by the Minnesota department of transportation and were part of 13 road improvement projects totaling $4,877,272.



A CLOSE RACE in the turn resulted between these two entries during the power boat races held Sunday afternoon as part of the annual Jaycee Aquacade. The races were held on the Red Lake River between the Eighth street and Third street bridges. In addition to the spectators above, large crowds watched the events from the Eighth street boat landing area of Centennial park and the Tindolph beach area of LaFave park.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Burstad And Dallmann Marriage Vows Spoken

Miss Pam Burstad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Burstad of Thief River Falls, and Doug Dallmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dallmann, also of this city, exchanged marriage vows recently at Zion Lutheran church, Thief River Falls.

The double ring ceremony took place at 4:00 p.m., with Rev. Jim Mattson officiating.

Organists were Jerry Joringdahl and Kelly Bjorkman, friends of the couple; and the soloists were Jane Olson and Tom Bjorkman, also friends of the couple. They sang "Evergreen," "Sure As I Am Standing Here," "Wedding Song," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Forming the altar setting were arrangements of pink and white carnations, white gladioli and greenery.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in a white knit gown featuring point d'esprit yoke and Queen Anne neckline framed with Venice lace embroidered with pearls. Her long, fitted sleeves were also enhanced by Venice lace cutouts appliqued on point d'esprit. Scalloped Venice lace bordered the hemline and complemented her attached chapel-length watteau train. Coordinating lace formed the headpiece that held her hand rolled, scalloped edged veil, dotted with small appliques of Venice lace. She carried a silk cascade bouquet of mauve roses and dogwood, accented with miniature white daisies, greenery and white ribbon streamers.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Ginny Pream of this city, a friend of the bride. Other attendants were Patti Burstad, sister of the bride; Jodi Ranum, a friend of the bride; and Jody and Robyn Dallmann, sisters of the groom. Their empire fashioned gowns of dusty rose and mauve floral sheer were styled with rose underskirts and topped with elbow-length capelets. They carried silk nosegay bouquets featuring pink carnations, mauve azaleas and miniature daisies with greenery and pink streamers. In their hair, they wore sprigs of babies' breath.

Randy Dallmann attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Brent Walton, Roger Roadfeldt, Mike Olson, friends of the groom, and Jerry Dallmann, a cousin of the groom. The guests were ushered in by Mike Burstad, brother of the bride, Pat Sabol, Todd Collins and Bruce Williams, friends of the couple. The groom was attired in silver gray tuxedo and trousers with a pink rose pinned on his black lapel. His attendants wore silver gray tuxedos with black trim and black trousers.

The mother of the bride was attired in a mauve, blouson-styled gown with a corsage of mauve silk roses. A similar corsage was worn by the groom's mother, who wore a light rose colored floor-length gown topped by a long-sleeved jacket.

Special guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cork and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Burstad of Thief River Falls, grandparents of the bride, Mrs. Schwan, grandmother of the groom, and Janeen Kalsnes, the bride's sister who served as personal attendant.

A reception at Trinity Lutheran church followed the ceremony. Reception hosts and hostesses were the groom's brother, his cousin, and their wives: Mr. and Mrs. Gary Burstad and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lucht. Cherie Knutson, Grand Forks, a friend of the couple, registered the guests as Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Kalsnes, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, served the punch.

Highlighting the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with mauve roses and topped with a wedding bell ornament. At the base were three smaller cakes. The cakes were cut and served by Mila Shaskey and Myra Dallmann, aunts of the bride and groom. Lillian Glonek and Jan Lawrenz, also aunts of the bride and groom, poured the coffee.

At the gift table were Kim and Chris Lawrenz, cousins of the groom. Waitresses were Jennifer Glass, Stacy Glass, Lisa Glass, and Renelle Twistol, friends of the couple.

The bride and groom are graduates of Lincoln high school and both are employed in this city. The bride, who is also a graduate of the local AVTI, is employed as loan officer by Thorp Credit and Thrift company, and the groom is employed at Dallmann Athletic. They are at home at 715 North Horace. Photo, Lund Photography, Roseau

Cynthia Moe Becomes Bride of Richard Nordby

Miss Cynthia Moe, daughter of Mrs. Barbara Nomeland of Grygla, and the late Raymond Moe, became the bride of Richard Nordby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nordby of Grygla on June 21 at the Grace Lutheran church in Grygla.

Rev. Owen Christianson officiated at the afternoon ceremony before an altar graced with baskets of yellow and white daisies. Yellow bows and wedding bells marked the pews along the center aisle.

At the piano was Mary Waling, a friend of the couple. She played "The Homecoming," for the processional, and "Bridal Chorus", as the bride was escorted to the altar by her brothers: Gordy and Tony Moe. The traditional wedding march was the recessional. Sandi Nordby, a sister of the groom, sang "This Is Love"; and a vocal group composed of Gene Lunsetter, Tom Monson, Dale Lillevold, Kurt Vandermeer, Trish Lasley, Chris Foss, Coleen Monson, Jay Lian and Sherry Peterson, all friends of the couple, sang "Love" and "We've Only Just Begun". Acolytes were Bruce and Mike Nordby, brother and cousin of the groom.

The bride was attired in a gown of white silesta knit featuring with an empire bodice with a high neckline trimmed with Venice lace. Matching lace graced the sheer inserts on the bodice and long, fitted sleeves and also edged the floor-length skirt and chapel-length train. Her mantilla styled walking-length veil was also trimmed in Venice Lace. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies, yellow roses and babies' breath accented with greenery.

The bride's personal attendant was her sister-in-law, Marcie Moe of Grygla.

Darlyne Moe of Thief River Falls, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Sandi Nordby, sister of the groom, Lori Holthusen and Jodi Peterson, friends of the couple. All reside at Grygla. Their identical gowns of yellow qiana knit were fashioned in A-line style with empire waistlines and shoulder straps. Complimenting the gowns were sleeveless jackets of sheer matching print that tied at the waist. They carried long-stemmed daisies and babies breath, accented by a single long-stemmed yellow rose. In their hair, they wore a cluster of matching daisies. Their bell necklaces with pearl clappers were their gifts from the bride.

Miniature bride was Brenda Machiel of Thief River Falls, a cousin of the bride. Her gown, veil and bouquet were similar to the bride's, and her necklace, a miniature bell with a pearl, was her gift from the bride.

Serving as miniature groom was Jeremy Nordby, the groom's brother. Like the groom, he wore a dark brown tuxedo with ivory ruffled shirt and a white carnation boutonniere centered with a yellow rose.

Best man was Robert Nordby, Grygla, a brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Tim Anderson, a cousin of the groom; Jimmy Moe, a brother of the bride; and Trent Stanley, a friend of the couple, all from Grygla. They wore dark brown tuxedos with yellow shirts and white carnation boutonnieres.

Ushers and usherettes were Paul Nordby, Sherri Anderson, Denise Anderson, cousins of the groom; Jill Moe, sister of the bride; Anne Roen, Gerald Verbout, Butch Brawley and Gary Sletten, friends of the couple. The usherettes wore yellow street-length dresses and jackets, similar to those worn by the bridesmaids. Their corsages were of daisies and babies' breath. The ushers were attired like the groomsmen.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Nomeland selected a pink floor-length gown styled with shoulder straps and an empire waistline. A lace jacket topped the gown. The mother of the groom wore an aqua knit floor-length gown with a capelet top. Their identical corsages were of yellow and white daisies and babies' breath.

Honor guests were Mrs. Annie Cuno, great-grandmother of the bride; Mrs. Emma Moe and Mrs. Gladys Hamre, grandmothers of the bride; Mrs. Alice Tveten, great-grandmother of the groom; Melvin Sorenson, great-grandfather of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nordby of Grygla and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Larson of Aurora, grandparents of the groom.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moe, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Orvis Nordby, uncle, aunt and godparents of the groom.

Centering the serving table were two three-tiered cakes, joined by a bridge which overlooked a lighted church. The miniature bridal party lined the white stairs that graced the sides. Yellow daisies and greenery surrounded the base. The cake, iced in white and decorated with yellow roses, was baked and decorated by Mrs. Sheldon Peterson, a friend of the couple. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Leonard Moe, Grygla, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Arlo Hagen, Thief River Falls, sister of the groom. Mrs. Ray Aandal, Goodridge, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Rodney Anderson, aunt of the groom, poured the coffee.

At the guest book were Sue Roen and Jayne Morrissey, friends of the couple. Carmon Moe and Sylvia Moe, cousins of the bride, distributed the thank-you scrolls and rice packets. The gifts were arranged by Wayne Nomeland, brother of the bride, and Jason and Jared Moe, cousins of the bride.

Waitresses were Mary Fuentes, Lois Verbout, Jill Saurdiff and Terri Holthusen, friends of the couple.

Approximately 300 relatives and friends attended the ceremony. They were from Spokane, Wash., Cedar Rapids, Ia., Mankato, Aurora and the local area.

The bride is a 1980 graduate of the Grygla high school; and the groom is a 1979 graduate of the same high school. He is serving in the U.S. Army and is stationed at Fort Devin, Mass. The couple is making their home nearby Ayer, Mass. Photo, Glen Bergland, Warroad.

She's still the same sweet little girl at 22.

Earth Station Industry Grows At St. Hilaire

"This whole spectrum of private home terminals has just opened up because of Federal Communications commission deregulation of licensing last October," Dehnert explained. "Basically, the FCC has said that audio and video waves on your property belong to you, and that if you can receive them the companies televising can't prevent you from using them.

"It has been this deregulation, along with some very significant improvements in technology, which now makes it possible to put together such a home receiving system for less than five figures. As technology advances and more companies get into the field, costs will come down," he predicted. "We might be looking at an acceptable system for $1,000 to $1,500 in today's dollars as soon as 10 to 12 years down the road."

At present, however, he cautions against bargain-basement systems. "Some firms trying to crack the market are making promises they can't deliver," he said. "At this stage of development, it is almost impossible for anyone to deliver and install a complete system of good quality for less than $9,000 to $10,000.

"You can get a system for less money if you are willing to accept a less than good picture, questionable reliability, problems in getting service if necessary, or," he quipped, "receiving a large box filled with parts and marked 'Do It Yourself'."

Dehnert is self-taught in electronics, having a 12th grade education in his home town of Idaho Falls, Idaho, and never attending a college or trade school. He is a voracious reader with a retentive memory and an intense interest in electronics and communications. After spending 10 years in the engine development and new product engineering department of Arctic Enterprises in Thief River Falls, he was about to leave that firm for his new TVRO enterprise when he became one of the employees involved in the Arctic Lay-offs last winter. Doug's Inc. is now his livelihood.

Discussing his home earth station system, Dehnert explained that it uses only 57 watts of electrical power — less than a 60-watt light bulb — and that at current rates it could be operated 24 hours a day for an electrical cost of about 25 cents a month. Operation of the television set itself would cost an additional $1.25 per month on the same basis.

Dehnert said the numbers computed for quality of reception with his system exceed the FCC requirements for commercial cable television reception. And he notes that it would take a commercial system of $15,000 to $17,000 to duplicate the quality.

While the system employs basics and constants which may take some of the "magic" out of what is taking place, the average layman is awed by it all and the expertise required to get the system right.

Sighting in on a satellite 24,550.5 miles away (Doug computed that distance for his writer with his own informational computer equipment) is equivalent, he said, to sighting in a deer rifle with a four-power scope on a deer standing 740 miles away.
